Kidnapers Warned.
Jacksonville, Cheerful.
A Great, Great Grandson.
One Snow White Pig.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 28.

THE NEWS of the moment is the lynching of two kidnapers in California. A mob is a mob anywhere, North, South, East or West.

The six thousand men that gathered around the California jail, howling for the lives of two vile criminals, defying clouds of tear gas, breaking through prison doors and hanging their battered victims to trees, are the same as any other mob.

Thousands of them, the day after, did not recognize in themselves the men that had shared the mob's work.

Every man in the mob, on reflection, will regret the treatment of Sheriff Emig, who did his duty, defending the prisoners, was knocked senseless and sent to a hospital.

To Sheriff Emig the capture of the kidnapers is due. He arrested one of them, Thurmond, while he telephoned a threatening message to the parents of the kidnaped man.

THE RAGE of mob broke loose after the body of the kidnapers' victim was found, murdered, according to their confession.

All California, the mob itself, will regret the violation of law, to which no provocation should drive good citizens.

But there is good in evil. From this lynching, those engaged in the kidnaping industry or contemplating it, will learn that kidnaping is unpopular, leads to death, for the criminals, and becomes, for them, more dangerous every day.

The two victims of the lynching, if they know anything, now know that crime, kidnaping especially, does not pay.

THIS CITY of Jacksonville is to Florida what San Francisco is to California, a railroad, business and financial center, and an important shipping center, soon to become more important, thanks to President Roosevelt.

He will spend public money, usefully, putting through, by way of Jacksonville, a ship canal from the Atlantic Ocean to the gulf, shortening the route from New York to all gulf ports, and to the west coast, through the Panama Canal.

THE FLORIDA canal will pay for itself in tolls, while eliminating unnecessary distance for coastwise shipping, avoiding difficult winds encountered at some seasons in rounding Key West. The coastwise sailing from New York to New Orleans will be made shorter by nearly one thousand miles.

IN ADDITION to being like San Francisco, an important business and financial center, Jacksonville, like the California city, has a bracing, semi-northern climate, and extremely energetic citizens.

The numerous cities in which property values are eaten up by taxation will be interested in the Jacksonville plan of municipal ownership of light and power, with low rates charged and all profit going to reduce taxes instead of paying dividends on watered stocks.

The Jacksonville city commissioner, who drives you around the city in his small, convenient "pick-up" truck, with the best Satsuma oranges grown anywhere loaded in the back, is a Florida citizen of ancient lineage.

His name is St. Elmo W. Acosta, his great, great grandfather was the Spanish governor of Florida, with his headquarters in old St. Augustine when the United States was a little strip of colonies along the Atlantic Ocean, its total population about half of that of New York City today.

IN JACKSONVILLE, City Commissioner Acosta tells you, a modest dwelling worth $2,000 is assessed for fifty per cent, or $1,000, and on that the taxes amount to $11 a year.

The average house owner's tax in Jacksonville is not more than $2 a month. Ask householders in New York's "Borough of Queens" what they think about that.

City Commissioner Acosta, who has been elected by the citizens to manage Jacksonville for the last fifteen years, raises "across the river" Satsuma oranges, as fine as any produced on earth. That is almost as important as managing a city.

JOHN H. PERRY, who owns the Jacksonville Journal, in which this column is published, and is largely responsible for successful municipal ownership in Jacksonville, is a wise employer. He hires young men, most important in newspaper work.

J. F. Massey, of the news staff, the first Journal man you meet; Harold Cohn, managing editor; H. B. Taylor, city editor, are almost pitifully young, and full of energy.

The editor, Mr. Sanders, is betwixt and between, about forty, young enough to get excited, old enough to say:

"That's no reason for wasting money."

In newspaper work your usefulness goes as enthusiasm oozes away, and it does ooze usually as years accumulate.

JACKSONVILLE, energetic and cheerful, good times or bad, was more cheerful than usual today because fresh government money was coming to town.

The government starts today spending $1,500,000 a week on public works in Florida, and Jacksonville's payroll will be

MARYLAND TROOPS SEIZE 4 IN LYNCHING

MONACA 'FIX' JURY TO BE LOCKED UP

2 Men Plead Guilty In Embracery, Trial Of Third Begins

Two men today pleaded guilty to embracery charges growing out of the "Three Toms" Monaca Club case. And as the trial of a third began, Judge James H. Gray ordered that the jury be locked up tonight.

Charles L. O'Connell, of Ella street, Leetsdale, and Edward Costello, of Glenfield, pleaded to attempting to "fix" jurors in the "Three Toms" case last June 7.

Charles S. E. Fahey, of 145 Meridan street, elected to face trial.

As a result of the raid last January on the Monaca Club, Thomas Coyne, Thomas Dolan and Thomas (Goose) Goslin were indicted.

O'Connell was the first witness called by the state after the selection of nine women and three men for the Fahey trial jury.

He testified he met Fahey in the Grant Building and that Fahey gave him a slip containing names of four jurors, among them Anna Schuler and Frank Ward.

OUTLINE OF CASE

Previously, Assistant District Attorney Earl Jackson had addressed the jury and outlined his case. He said that Fahey, who is chief clerk in the Auditor General's office here, got the slip from Tom Coyne and gave it to O'Connell, with the instructions that Costello see the jurors and tell them to "take care of Coyne."

The jurors selected are:

Mrs. Josephine Downey, 415 Alexander street, McKees Rocks, foreman; Blanche Ball, 5433 Broad street; Mrs. Edith Barnett, 422 Atlantic avenue, McKeesport; Sam M. Borland, Plum Township; Mrs. Myrtle Bowman, 1417 Sheffield street; Mrs. Christina Ellis, 3316 Grace street, Munhall; Mrs. Elgie Gutchell, 530 Third street, Pitcairn; Harry Hazley, 4623 Filmore street; Barbara Kinzler, 12 Boroview avenue extension, Scott Township; A. W. Sanders, 213 James street, Springdale; Mrs. Anna S. Thompson, 2 Mansfield

Kidnapers Threaten Boston Man's Sons

BOSTON, Nov. 28.—(INS.)—Federal authorities today joined police in searching for the writer of a threatening letter demanding $5,000 from Benjamin Blum, Boston clothing company owner, on threat of kidnaping and killing his two sons.

The letter, which ordered the money placed on Battery Wharf, threatened the same fate to the sons of Blum as befell Brooke Hart in California.

Rumors of Lindy Plan for Ocean Flight Conflict

Associated Press.

Conflicting reports from both sides of the South Atlantic Ocean told of purported plans by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh for an Atlantic flight Wednesday.

In Recife, Brazil, authorities were told that the American flier, who is accompanied by his wife, planned to take off westward from the Cape Verde Islands for the 2,000-mile journey to Brazil at 3:45 a. m., G. M. T. (10:45 p. m., E. S. T. today) and in Dakar, Senegal, authorities were informed he would fly eastward from the islands back to the coast of Africa, leaving at 8 a. m., G. M. T.

Pan-American Airways in New York, for which Col. Lindbergh is conducting his present survey-flights, was uninformed of the colonel's plans. It ordered its wireless stations in Brazil, however, to keep on the alert in the event that the big Lindbergh monoplane headed toward America.

From Natal came the information that Aeropostale, the French international air line, which operates in South America, had been asked to prepare a landing place and arrange for control of spectators.

Col. Lindbergh himself, however, sent a message to French authorities at Dakar, Senegal, that he hoped to fly there tomorrow.

Because of yellow fever in Dakar, authorities suggested that he fly to St. Louis, Senegal, farther up the coast.

Officials preferred not to incur responsibility for the health of either of the Americans, particularly of Mrs. Lindbergh. They informed Col. Lindbergh in a wireless message that he and Mrs. Lindbergh would be perfectly safe here in the daytime, but that after sundown mosquitoes which are potential fever caharacters become active and that an over-night stay was inadvisable.

BOGUS MONEY PASSED HERE

Master counterfeiters are flooding Pittsburgh with spurious $10 bills so expertly made that they pass scrutiny with little difficulty, Police Supt. Franklin T. McQuaide warned today.

One bank received 60 of the bills, McQuaide stated, from downtown merchants who had been victimized.

The bills purport to be Federal Reserve bank notes of the New York Federal Reserve district. They are declared to be perfect, with one exception. The ink on the picture of Alexander Hamilton fails to dry thoroughly due to a defect in printing, and smears when rubbed.

McQuaide said he believes an eastern counterfeiting gang is sending the bills here to be passed during the rush of the holiday shopping season.

HOTEL LIQUOR RESTRICTION LIBERALIZED

Senate Removes Ban On Waitresses Serving Rum

By G. EVERETT DOYING
International News Service.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 28.—The Senate today placed the vital McClure liquor control bill on final passage calendar with new amendments tearing out many features inserted by the House.

In the lower chamber, the Witkin permanent liquor tax and the Wilson distillers' and brewers' license fee bills were back in committee for further amendments.

Final Senate action on the control measure was delayed until late today while the amended bill was being printed.

CONTROL BOARD APPROVED

Of the entire administration liquor program, only the Scott bill, setting up a control board of three members with sole jurisdiction over the liquor business, survived the wild upsetting of prearranged plans. The measure, adopted by the Senate with only three dissenting votes, passed second reading in the House this morning.

Senator James J. Coyne, Allegheny, Republican, and two Democrats, were the only Senators opposing the measure.

Senate amendments to the McClure bill, after an eleventh-hour public hearing, further liberalized restrictions on hotels but clamped down on private clubs.

The guest room requirement of hotels was reduced to five rooms. The House amendment forbidding women to serve drinks was eliminated. Clubs, however, were placed back into the class of restaurants and hotels, except that drinks might be served 24 hours a day, except Sunday.

STORES PLAN INTACT

Gov. Gifford Pinchot's state stores system was left intact. Prohibition against bars in any retail establishment was not removed and the restriction was made to apply also to clubs.

None of the major proposals offered at the hearing by Raymond Pitcairn and a group of Philadelphians active in repeal organizations was adopted by the committee. This group advocated a plan of private retailers and wholesalers to take the place of state stores.

It was generally understood the Witkin tax bill was to be amended to put into effect a reciprocity tax in an effort to silence Pennsylvania distillers' claims that the bill as written would ruin their business.

Some revision also was expected in the Wilson fee measure, but there was no apparent agreement as to what the new provisions will be. The measure already has been amended to cut winery fees from a minimum of $5,000 to $500.

UNIFORMED OFFICERS IN THE JAIL COURTYARD TRYING TO HOLD A RESTLESS MOB BACK

MOB ROUTED IN ARMORY BATTLE

Arrests in Hanging Of Negro Enrage Eastern Shore

Associated Press.

Governors of two widely separated states took opposite stands today in dealing with lynchings, while the interest of virtually the whole nation was at a high pitch.

From his sickbed at Annapolis, Gov. Albert C. Ritchie, of Maryland ordered a picked battalion of National Guardsmen to arrest nine men alleged to have been members of a band that lynched a Negro at Princess Anne, Md., last month. The soldiers were attacked by a mob after arresting four of the suspects.

In California, Gov. James Rolph, Jr., promised to pardon anyone convicted of the lynchings of the two confessed slayers of Brooke Hart.

SALISBURY, Md., Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Troops sent by Gov. Albert C. Ritchie to arrest nine suspects of the Princess Anne lynching today evacuated the armory here and started back for Baltimore after a mob of more than 1,000 persons stormed the building and was repulsed with tear gas bombs and bayonets.

The soldiers took with them four men they arrested in early morning forays into nearby Somerset County, where the lynching occurred October 18.

The troops had been ordered to Salisbury when State's Attorney John B. Robins, of Somerset County, declined to arrest men said by eye-witnesses to have been members of the mob that lynched George Armwood, a Negro, accused of attacking an aged woman.

300 SOLDIERS MASSED

Three hundred of the soldiers were mobolized in Baltimore last night and arrived in Salisbury shortly before dawn. The arrests followed in short order, although five of those sought could not be found.

Soon after daybreak, small clusters of men could be seen gathering in the vicinity of the armory and by mid-morning the crowd had swelled to approximately 1,000.

They pressed forward and the troopers cut loose with a barrage of tear gas. This stopped them

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Dr. Harvey Cushing, noted brain specialist, was admitted to New Haven Hospital today for observation.

JOBLESS MARCH IN 'RED' PARADE

Silent throngs crowded the sidewalks of downtown streets this afternoon while hundreds of men and women, drably clothed, except for a red badge on the captains and red silk shawls on a score of the women, marched in a Communist unemployment parade.

A group of women from Homestead, following the van of men in old and shabby soldiers' and sailors' uniforms, feebly sang what sounded like "John Brown's Body."

Cartoons and placards bearing the unit names, and demanding increased relief, unemployment insurance, and others, such as "We want shoes instead of going barefooted," were numerous. There were no barefooted marchers. But neither were there fashion plates.

Other slogans were "united we eat, divided we starve," and "we want steak, not beans," and the soldiers carried a sign with the legend, "A $400,000,000 cut on veterans' pensions and $800,000,000 for new warships."

Two score of women from McKeesport presented the only pretensions to smartness. They wore red silk shirtwaists and on each was stamped "WAUC," the Women's Auxiliary Unemployed Council.

Along the line of march, hundreds more joined and on the North Side, the parade was twice its original length.

Pat Cush, Communist leader, marched at the head of the steel workers unit. The packing house employes, who recently were on strike, were represented.

James M. Egan, candidate for mayor on the Communist ticket, was chairman of the West Park meeting.

French Unemployed Marchers Near Paris

PARIS, Nov. 28.—(INS.)—Unemployed workers from French mining and industrial districts resumed their "march on Paris" today, and neared the capital as similar groups organized elsewhere on a large scale.

The vanguard of the marchers spent the night in Clermont, only 35 miles way, but they decided to slow up their march to reach here Saturday, giving other marchers coming from greater distances an opportunity to join them.

U. S. Stirred by Stand Of Rolph on Lynching

Praised, Censured For Defense of San Jose Mob

SAN JOSE, Cal., Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Praise and censure for San Jose's mob vengeance on the kidnap-slayers of Brooke L. Hart were met here today by official efforts to close the case and wipe out scars of its furious climax.

Governors of other states, church leaders and prominent persons in all parts of the nation were among those who joined in lauding or condemning the mob's action and the approval of it by Gov. James Rolph, Jr., of California.

Disapproval was expressed by Gov. Henry H. Blood, of Utah; Gov. Henry Horner, of Illinois, and Gov. Pollard, of Virginia. Gov. W. H. Murray, of Oklahoma, declared the "citizens would not have taken the law into their own hands" if speedier prosecution in the courts were assured.

SCORED BY RABBI

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, of New York, declared the lynchers were "more barbaric" than their victims. Henry Darlington, rector of the Church of Heavenly Rest, New York, sent congratulations to Gov. Rolph "on the stand you have taken."

In view of Gov. Rolph's declaration that he would immediately pardon any one convicted of the lynchings, officials frankly admitted the probability of prosecution was remote.

Several young men were reported to have publicly boasted

Prince of Wales' Calf Wins Ribbon

TORONTO, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales won his first red ribbon at the Royal Winter Fair yesterday with the entry Princeton MacDuff, a senior bull calf.

Princeton MacDuff was raised on the Prince's farm at High River, Alta., and his competition was considered the keenest of any in the show. Red is the highest ribbon award at the fair.

JURY DEBATES GANG'S FATE

ST. PAUL, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—A Federal Court jury today held the fate of four Chicago men charged with kidnaping William Hamm, Jr., wealthy St. Paul brewer.

The jury received the case last night and, after deliberating several hours, was locked up in its hotel rooms until today when it resumed its efforts to reach a verdict.

There was no indication from the jury room of its stand toward the defendants, Roger Touhy, Eddie McFadden, Willie Sharkey and Gustav Schaefer.

Judge M. M. Joyce, in his final instructions to the jurors, said they must determine the guilt or innocence of each defendant under both separate indictments, which charge interstate transportation of a kidnaped person, and conspiracy to transport.

Vets Not to Get Bonus For Christmas Shopping

HARRISBURG, Nov. 28.—Although three bills to make bonus payments available to Pennsylvania war veterans are being pushed in the Senate, Representative Frederick H. Myers, Jr., of Philadelphia, sponsor of two of the measures, today warned veterans that if they are expecting bonus cash in time for their Christmas shopping, they face disappointment.

January of next year is the earliest possible time for distribution of the bonus payments, despite combined efforts of the State Department of Military Affairs and veterans' organizations to speed the payments, Myers said.

Two of Myers' bills, which passed second reading in the Senate and were referred to committee for minor amendments today, One authorizes issue of $50,000,000 in bonus bonds approved by voters three weeks ago. The second provides payment to veterans of all engagements since the beginning of the Spanish-American War at the rate of $10 for each month of service and a maximum bonus of $200.

The third bill appropriates $10,000 to the Department of Military Affairs for expenses incident to preparation for payment of the bonus. This bill also passed second Senate reading. Action by the House still remains.

Routine required by law before the bonus can be paid will make distribution before Christmas impossible, Myers explained. He said:

"We are eager to get the bonus paid without delay, not only because many of the veterans are in dire need but also because we think that putting this money into circulation will help general business conditions and accelerate industrial recovery."

Fay Sees Mud-Slinging, Challenges Rudy to Sue

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—They had a showdown today between Rudy Vallee and his estranged wife, the former Fay Webb, and there were fireworks galore. Among the things mentioned in Supreme Court Justice Wasservogel's court were:

Last fall Rudy wrote Fay that he hoped to find happiness in a third marriage. Lately, however, he has said "no" to reports that he would wed Alice Faye, who's in his orchestra.

Fay was accused of having a rendezvous with a dancer, whom Rudy's lawyer called the "other man."

Rudy was accused of planning to "sling mud" at his wife, and the hearing wound up with Fay's lawyer challenging the crooner to sue for divorce in New York.

It began with Fay's legal move to stop her husband from obtaining a divorce in Mexico. The arguments today were on this matter, but neither of the principals was present.

However, in one corner was former Magistrate Hyman Bushel, representing Rudy; in the other, Benjamin A. Harstein, representing Fay.

Harstein read excerpts from Rudy's letters to his wife. One, dated last September, said:

"I have come to a very definite decision in my mind regarding a divorce. I don't want to get it in Mexico, but unless you are going to be reasonable and fair I'll have to."

There were some more along this line, and then:

"I think I will find happiness in a third marriage. They say all good things come in threes."

ROOSEVELT ANSWERS CRITICS BY BOOSTING GOLD PRICE

RESERVE CHIEF GOES TO SEE PRESIDENT

American Quotation Tops Rate in London

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt's gold buying plan was given a spurt today after a week's price standstill, to top London's gold quotation by the biggest margin since its inauguration.

The RFC offered $33.85 an ounce for the newly-mined domestic metal, an increase of nine cents over yesterday's figure and the first boost since a week ago—before Acting Secretary Morgenthau conferred with Mr. Roosevelt.

The London gold price was $32 on an opening sterling quotation there of $5.10 to the pound.

During the week of unchanged RFC gold prices, the dollar and the government bonds were off, while public controversy over the administration monetary program mounted.

REPLY TO CRITICS

But in recent days, the dollar strengthened abroad and government bonds climbed.

In some quarters today's advance was considered to serve as a reply to criticism of the President's program.

The departure for Warm Springs of Gov. Eugene Black, of the Federal Reserve Board, centered interest in possible shifts in the monetary program, but Black declined to discuss the subject.

Warburg for Modernized Gold Standard

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—A return to a "modernized" gold standard, on a bullion instead of a coin base, with an early revaluation of the dollar, was advocated yesterday in a letter written to Senator W. E. Borah by James P. Warburg, former unofficial economic adviser to President Roosevelt.

The letter was in reply to a statement by Senator Borah which said that Mr. Warburg, in a recent address at Philadelphia, had offered nothing constructive on the monetary problem and had only advocated a return to the policy "under which we arrived at our present disastrous condition."

Mr. Warburg, in his communication to Senator Borah, outlined an "immediate policy on monetary matters." He wrote:

"I believe that no single action of our government could contribute more effectively to recovery than the announcement of its intention to abandon further wilful depreciation, to abandon the commodity dollar experiment, and to seek to bring about the early revaluation of the dollar in terms of a modernized gold standard.

"Such revaluation should not, in my judgment, be undertaken [illegible] not pretend [illegible] point between [illegible] the old par [illegible]. I do say, however, that an intelligent revaluation can only be undertaken in conjunction with similar action by Great Britain, which would, of course, involve the entire so-called sterling bloc."

STOCKYARDS MAY CLOSE

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—The Chicago Union Stock Yards will be closed to all shipments of livestock tomorrow afternoon, if the present strike is not settled by that time, officials of the Livestock Exchange announced today after a conference with strike leaders.

The strikers agreed to permit packers and commission men to clea up the livestork received today providing it was done without the importation of outside workers. The commission men in turn agreed not to accept livestock after 3 p. m. Wednesday.

The strikers and representatives of the yards companies against whom the strike was called met with representatives of the NRA regional board of labor this afternoon in an effort to settle the strike amicably.

Despite the possibility of the yards closing tomorrofl, there was no immediate prospect of a meat shortage in Chicago.

'FIX' TRIAL JURY TO BE GUARDED

COSTELLO TESTIFIES

Costello followed O'Connell to the stand. He said O'Connell game him the list of names Friday, June 9, and on Sunday he started out to find the people in his car. He met Ed Stringer, an ice man, he said, who told him where the Schulers and Wards lived. He got stringer to show him.

Costello met the Schuler family coming home from church, he continued, and he was introduced by Stringer as "Mr. Brown," explaining:

"I knew there was something wrong and I didn't want to get mixed up in it.

"I told Mrs. Schuler that if she was called on the Coyne jury to give him a break and they would take care of her."

At the Ward home, Costello left word with a brother, William, to tell Frank Ward what he wanted, he testified.

But the prosecution interrupted him and asked the Mrs. Schuler he talked to to stand up. She explained that she was Mrs. Gabriella Schuler, and not Mrs. Anna Schuler, who was to be on the jury.

URGED TO 'TAKE RAP'

Costello added:

"In the jail, after we were arrested, Fahey wanted me to take the rap for all of them.

"But I told him I was going to tell Park the truth."

O'Connell previously denied that when he pleaded guilty earlier today that he had been promised a parole, explaining:

"I went into Park's office and said I would be willing to plead guilty with the mercy of the court."

Estep asked him:

He replied:

"No, I don't know what's going to happen to me."

Edward Stringer testified that Costello told the Schulers that he wanted to "fix up" the jury for the Coyne trial and told Ward to see his brother and tell him the same thing.

Mrs. Gabriella Schuler testified:

..."Costello said they were going to fix the Coyne case and would I help. And I waved my hand out of the car window and said 'Are they helping you?'

He didn't answer and we went on home."

PARK TO BE WITNESS

Andrew T. Park, District Attorney, is expected to be the state's star witness against Fahey.

Tom Coyne's trial on an embracery charge is expected to follow, as well as one charging conspiracy, in which Ralph Larocco, former Coraopolis tax collector, Tom Coyne, Fahey, O'Connell and Costello are named.

District Attorney Park, told that attempts to "fix" jurors in the "Three Toms" case had been made, conducted the investigation himself. It resulted in the arrest of Costello and the others.

Harry A. Estep is representing Fahey.

State police raided the Monaca Club last January 27, and March 1 the "Three Toms" were indicted. Gambling devices and rare wines and liquors were seized in the raid.

Garavini Slaying Inquest Tomorrow

The inquest into the death of Andrew Garavini, taxicab operator shot down last November 9 during a fight with Irvin R. (Iggie) Swartz, will begin at 1:15 tomorrow, Coroner W. J. McGregor announced today.

Mrs. Margaret Garavini, widow of Garavini and former wife of Swartz, will be one of the principal witnesses.

COUGHLIN RAPS 'TORIES' AND WALL ST.

Two Meetings Hold Tug-o'-War Over Dollar

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Two schools of monetary thought played oratorical tug-o'-war with the American dollar at rival mass meetings last night.

On one side was the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, "radio priest" of Royal Oak, Mich., defending at the Hippodrome the Roosevelt money policies. On the other were the Crusaders, urging "sound" money and decrying inflation.

The mass meeting at the Hippodrome attracted a crowd which police estimated at 20,000, only 6,500 of whom were able to obtain entry. A force of 176 policemen had difficulty in keeping traffic lanes open, and several persons were slightly hurt in the crush.

SCORES WALL STREET

Father Coughlin, pointing his oratory at Wall street, the "Tory press," Alfred E. Smith, J. P. Morgan and all critics of the Roosevelt money policies, referred during his address to the "sound money" meeting at Carnegie Hall, saying:

"There are only about 1,000 persons there, and 500 of them are my friends. That meeting was intended to ruin Roosevelt and build up Oggie Mills (Ogden Mills, former secretary of the Treasury) for President in 1936."

During the course of Father Coughlin's address, the name of Al Smith, long the political princeling of New York City voters, was booed.

OVERFLOW AUDIENCE

The Hippodrome audience, which overflowed onto the stage and into the aisles, frequently interrupted the Michigan priest with questions and with answers to the questions Father Coughlin himself propounded. Once when he said President Roosevelt's enemies had "damned him as a crackpot," a voice from the crowd cried:

"Smith's the crackpot."

Father Coughlin denied that he was indorsing inflation. He said:

"We are against it. That is a trick word. We are in reality the 'sound money' men. It is they who are the inflationists—debt inflationists who burned the country with stocks and bonds."

1926 PRICE LEVEL

The meeting adopted a resolution, offered by Father Coughlin, urging the President to restore the 1926 price level.

Henry Morgenthau, father of the Acting Secretary of the Treasury, presided at the meeting.

At the Carnegie Hall meeting the speakers denouncing inflation included Matthew Woll, vice president of the American Federation of Labor; Martin W. Littleton, New York attorney; Fred G. Clark, commander-in-chief of the Crusaders, and Dr. Walter Spahr, New York University economist.

ALLENTOWN, Nov. 28.—The Lerner department store, in the business district of nearby Northampton, was destroyed by fire today, with damage estimated at $100,000. Two firemen and a policeman were injured.

FILM SALARIES UNDER CURB OF CODE

Dressler and Cantor Named on Board For Industry

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Nov. 28.—(AP.)—President Roosevelt signed the code placing the mighty motion picture industry under the NRA last night with appointment of an authority to guide of the business and ban "excessive salaries" during a 90-day period.

He named Marie Dressler and Eddie Cantor, well-known actors, as members of the code authority. He accepted the recommendation of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator, against federal censorship, but named A. Lawrence Lowell, president-emeritus of Harvard University, as a member of the code authority to watch the observance by the industry of its own censorship rules.

Without naming the limit of salaries, the President called for a full report within 90 days on "salaries or other emoluments in the industry, both as to artists and as to executives and their families."

SALARY CONTROL

Johnson explained that the motion picture code contains a provision penalizing bidding to "extravagant figures" a salary of motion picture actors within 30 days of the expiration of the contract.

Asked how the government would fix a limit and ban excessive salaries, Johnson replied:

"I think public sentiment will have something to suggest on that."

In response to questioning, Johnson said that Eddie Cantor had suggested the idea to put actors on a royalty basis.

Writers and dramatists were exempted from the salary rule.

Mr. Roosevelt also signed 20 other codes brought here by Gen. Johnson. The others were for the following industries: Investment bankers, woolen felts, malleable iron, radio broadcasting, gas appliances, structural clay products, waterproofing caulking and concrete floors, warm air furnaces, chinaware and porcelain, cigar container manufacturers, precious jewelry, cement, concrete masonry, anti-friction bearings, pipe nipples, vitrified clay sewer pipes, machine tool and distribution, upholsteries and draperies, re-enforcement tools and retail jewelers.

RETAILERS AIDED

The President also signed two executive orders making modifications in the retail code.

One would give added time "to adjust the use of scrip and coupons to the inhibitions to the uses of same to the retail code until July 1, 1934."

The other construes the commercial bribery clause of the code "so as not to include distribution of articles normally used for advertising and not actually having an effect of commercial bribery."

Wife of Mahatma Arrested 6th Time

BOMBAY, India, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. Kasturbai Gandhi, the wife of the Mahatma, was arrested for the sixth time today at Annand.

Mrs. Gandhi previously has been arrested by Indian government authorities in connection with the civil disobedience campaign conducted by her husband, leader of the Indian Nationalist movement.

FORD PROTESTS TRUCK BIDS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—An appeal to J. R. McCarl, comptroller general, was threatened today by R. L. Sabine, president of the Northwest Motor Company, of Bethesda, Md., a Ford dealer, if he is not awarded the contract by the War Department for new trucks for the Civilian Conservation Corps.

The number of trucks to be purchased has not been stipulated, but a maximum of 700 has been set.

Sabine, who offered bids on eight-cylinder trucks, submitted a unit price of $671.10 delivered at the Detroit plant, while the Chevrolet Motor Company, bidding on six-cylinder units, had a low unit bid of $629.10.

Sabine claimed the low bid, however, on the ground that his company could deliver the equipment sufficiently in advance of the Chevrolet company that the government would lose by rejecting the Ford bid.

WORK RESUMED AT DISTILLERY

International News Service.

FREEPORT, Pa., Nov. 28.—Resumption of operations at the Schenley distillery of the Joseph S. Finch Company, which has gone into Federal Court seeking to block collection of the new state tax on stored liquor, was seen as a large force of girls returned today to their jobs in the plant.

Reports were this force would be augmented tomorrow morning by 300 men who have been recalled.

While officials at the Schenley distillery refused to comment on any reports whatever, word that capacity operations soon would be started was freely circulated. The speakers pointed to new shipments of grain to the local branch and reinstatement of two Pennsylvania Railroad cars used to transport employes to and from work as substantiating their claims.

Germany Confiscates Editor's Property

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Police today confiscated the property of Theodor Wolff, for many years editor-in-chief of the Berliner Tageblatt, because he was a Jew and a member of the Democratic party.

Wolff went to Switzerland shortly after the Nazi revolution. The police said that he was an "enemy to the state" and that his belongings have become the property of the state.

WIGGIN CALLS FOX STORY 'FALSE'

Ex-Banker Reiterates Denial of Rebuke To Hoover

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Albert H. Wiggin, former chairman of the Chase National Bank, entered formal denial before Senate investigators today of testimony that he sent word to President Hoover to "mind his own business."

Wiggin told the Senate Banking Committee that the story related last week by William Fox, movie magnate, was "absolutely and entirely false."

Fox testified that Claudius Huston, then chairman of the Republican National Committee, asked Wiggin in 1929 on behalf of President Hoover to aid Fox in his financial difficulties.

Fox said Huston told him that Wiggin had sent word to Mr. Hoover to "mind his own business" and expressed resentment at what he called the interference.

Wiggin said he remembered meeting Huston only once and that was at a large dinner at the University Club in New York, but that Huston had never been to his home.

The banker said the dinner at which he had met Huston was attended by Secretary Lamont, former Senator Watson, of Indiana, and about "half a dozen noted Washingtonians."

Senator Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan, asked sharply:

"Noted for what?"

Wiggin replied:

"In the public eye."

Wiggin's Attorney Faces Fight Over Appointment

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Notice of Senate opposition to confirmation of Martin Conboy, President Roosevelt's selection for District Attorney for Southern New York, was served today by Senator Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan.

Conboy was congratulated by members of the Senate stock market investigating committee as he appeared today—for the first time since his appointment was announced—as attorney for Albert H. Wiggin, former chairman of the Chase National Bank.

As other members of the committee congratulated the smiling attorney, Couzens remarked to him:

"You're my friend."

One of Couzens5 colleagues made a remark to him in a low voice and the Michigan Senator replied:

"Well, I might as well be frank with him, as I know what he's up against."

Newspapermen asked Couzens if he plans to oppose Conboy's confirmation. He replied:

"I certainly do."

CREATE BOARD FOR OHIO RIVER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—The War Department's river and harbor organization today was altered by the creation of an Ohio River division with headquarters at Cincinnati.

The new division, formed at the request of Maj. Gen. E. L. Markham, chief of engineers, will include the river and harbor districts of Pittsburgh, Pa.; Huntington, W. Va.; Louisville, Ky.; Nashville, Tenn., and Cincinntai.

Gen. Markham said in his recommendation "it is both logical and in the interests of greater efficiency" that the upper Mississippi Valley division should be further sub-divided so as to place all of the river and harbor districts charged with the improvement of the Ohio River and its tributaries in a separate division.

Dangerous Fugitive Convict Found Slain

DETROIT, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Walter (Red) Tylczak, escaped convict known to police as a dangerous character, for whom a reward of $500 "dead or alive" had been posted after his daring escape from the suburban Highland Park Jail here last July, was found shot to death this morning along a county road.

U. S. Power Board Wars On 'Holding Companies'

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—The chairman of the Federal Power Commission, Frank R. McNinch, said in a statement today that it was the commission's purpose "to do all it can within the law" to break the "holding company stranglehold" on power. He [illegible] inced that if the [illegible] panies can be re[illegible] of the super-imposed burden of providing profits and dividends for the support of the holding company pyramids, the consuming public would reap a direct and substantial benefit through redu[illegible]n of rates."

McNinch's statement, interpreted by many as representing the administration view, was issued just after the commission slashed $800,000 off the amount the Louisville Hydro-Electric claimed as the cost of a power project on the Ohio River at Louisville.

McNinch asserted:

"The monopolistic contracts should, in my opinion, be promptly abandoned by the power industry, but if this is not done then such service contracts should be brought under the strictest supervision for the ultimate good of both the industry and the consuming public."

Kelly Hits Blanket Code As Menace to NRA

By WILLIAM S. NEAL

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The administration has failed to carry out the policy of the NRA as framed by Congress, Representative Clyde Kelly (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, one of the original sponsors of the recovery program, declared today.

He called for abandonment of the blanket code devised by Hugh S. Johnson, NRA chieftain, to bring all business under the Blue Eagle at one stroke, as the first step in a return to the policy intended by Congress.

Although he is a strong supporter of the NRA and declares the fundamental principles will be made permanent law, Kelly asserted the method of administration has invited unnecessary opposition.

Proposals now being considered to extend the blanket code, which expires January 1, were assailed by Kelly. The blanket code, he said, was never intended by those who drafted the recovery law or by Congress. Kelly said:

"The blanket code in the beginning was a mistake. It put new burdens upon the retailers, wholesalers and small establishments without providing for additional business which alone could justify such an increase.

"The public works title of the law was aimed to furnish purchasing power. Delay in carrying out this program meant that necessary additional purchasing power was not available."

M'CREADY, 'SOBERING UP,' SIGNS SELF OVER TO GUARDIAN

REVEALS MOVE AS TRUST SUIT CONTINUES

'Can't Stand Liquor Like I Used To,' Playboy Says

The task of proving that Harrison R. McCready, the Fox Chapel playboy, was sane and sober when he agreed to a trust fund of $150,000 for his first wife and daughter began in Common Pleas Court today.

And in a corridor, still "tapering off," McCready announced that he had signed a paper yesterday to have a guardian appointed for himself, commenting:

"I should have done it long ago. I've been spending too much money."

The court so far has refused petitions for a temporary guardian.

'PUBLIC CURIOSITY'

Earl A. Morton, trust officer of the Commonwealth Trust Company, who was present when the agreement was signed, testified he did not smell alcohol on McCready, that he watched him closely because he was a "public curiosity."

He was reserved, said the right thing at the right time, and was well groomed, Morton testified.

Attorney O. K. Eaton, counsel for Margaret McCready Welfer, placed the trust officer on the stand as a witness for the first wife and daughter, Margaret Luella.

NOTHING FOR CHILD

Questioned by Attorney Charles J. Margiotti, Morton said the child got nothing. He added on cross-examination, he would not be a party to an agreement made by a habitual drunkard.

McCready did not want the child to get any of the money when she was 21, but wanted it to revert to him if the line of issue failed, Morton added. Eaton wanted the contract signed because he feared someone might attach the playboy's assets, he testified.

At the afternoon session Margiotti asked Morton if anything was said during the conferences about either McCready or his wife remarrying. He replied in the negative.

Q.—Was anything said about hw much the daughter was to receive?

A.—The fund was not separated.

Q.—It was given to the mother for the support of herself and the child?

A.—It was.

Q.—Was anything said about store bills that Mrs. McCready had run up?

A.—She mentioned it. This was to be a clean-up of them.

EYES DOWNCAST

On the second day of the conferences, Morton said under cross-examination by Margiotti, McCready did not participate as deeply as on the day before.

Q.—Did he look as he does today?

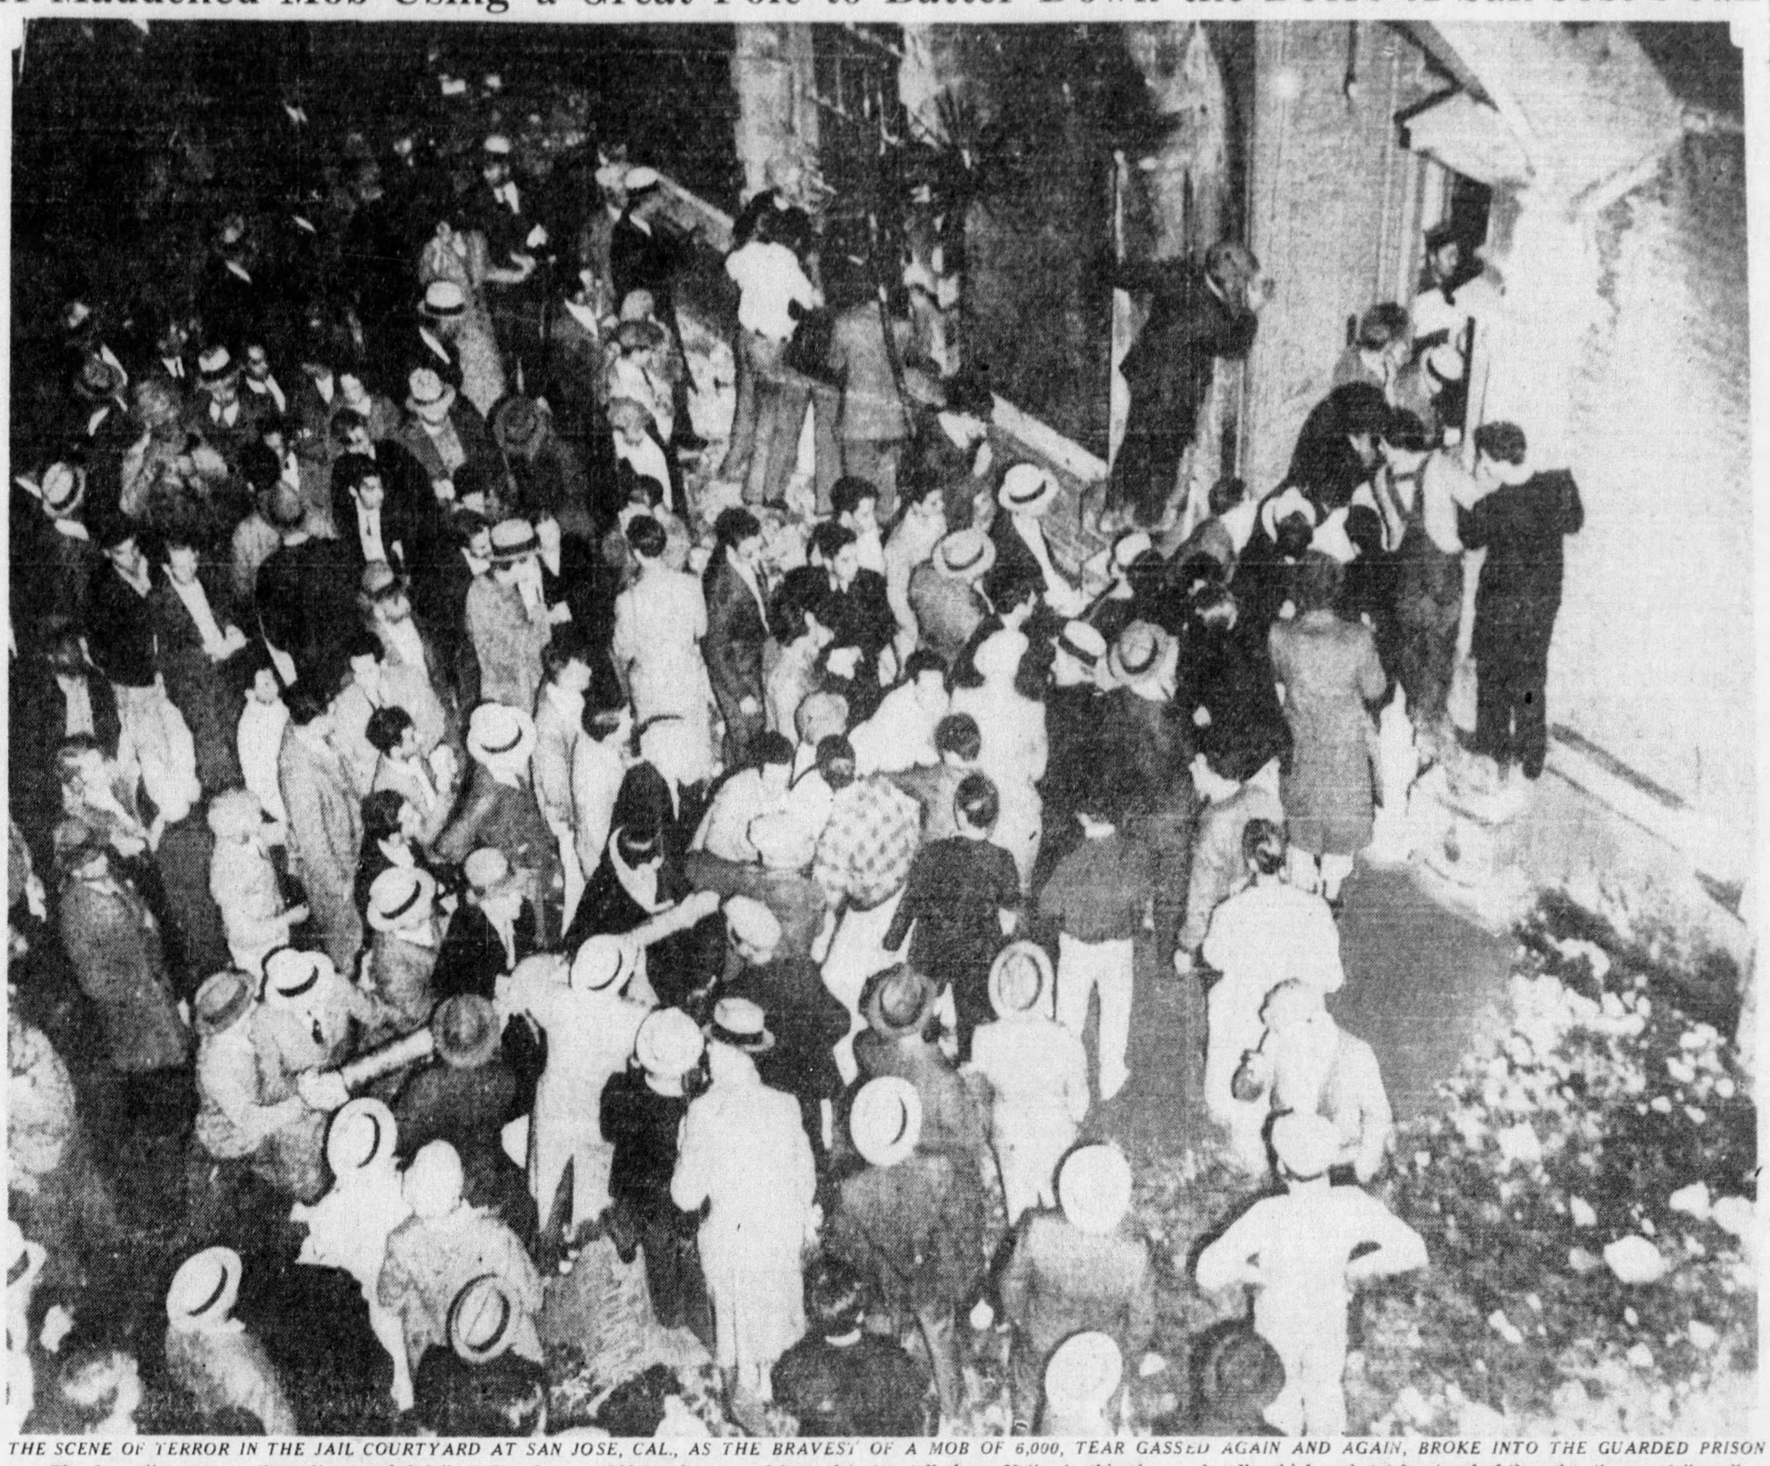
McCready, seated inside the rail near Margiotti's seat, had been resting his hand in his chin, his eyes cast downward. Now he stroked his chin.

MOTION REFUSED

A motion made by Attorney Eaton to have the case dismissed on the grounds that it should have been brought at an earlier date and that McCready and his first wife remarried after the trust fund was set up, was refused after Margiotti closed the case for the plaintiff.

Dr. William H. Mayer and Dr. Edward E. Mayer, mental specialists, testified that McCready is mentally deranged and a confirmed drunkard. The specialists are not related. By proving his mental inability to attend to ousiness affairs Margiotti hopes to upset the trust fund.

A Maddened Mob Using a Great Pole to Batter Down the Doors of San Jose's Jail



THE SCENE OF TERROR IN THE JAIL COURTYARD AT SAN JOSE, CAL., AS THE BRAVEST OF A MOB OF 6,000, TEAR GASSED AGAIN AND AGAIN, BROKE INTO THE GUARDED PRISON

The dramatic scene as the police-guarded jail at San Jose fell when its doors burst before this onslaught with a great pole. Out were rushed Thomas H. Thurmond and John M. Holmes, kidnap-slayers, and hanged to two tall elms. Notice in this picture: The scattered bits of broken brick from the jail, the women here and there in the crowd, the 'teen-year-old boy wearing a handkerchief mask (at front end of the pole), the especially well-dressed man lending a hearty hand (at the rear end of the pole). DR. WYNEKOOP STRICKEN ILL IN PRISON

Surgery Murder Case Suspect Menaced By Pneumonia

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Physicians at County Jail reported today that Dr. Alice Lindsay Wynekoop was seriously ill.

Wracked by a severe bronchial cough and menaced by extremely high blood pressure, the elderly prisoner was described as in danger of pneumonia.

Immediately upon her confinement in the jail Saturday to await grand jury action for the killing of her daughter-in-law, Rheta Gardner Wynekoop, Dr. Alice was ordered to bed.

The jail physicians said she was in a state of nervous exhaustion because of the ordeal of questioning that followed Rheta's mysterious death in the Wynekoop operating room a week ago today.

INDICTMENTS SOUGHT

Charles S. Dougherty, Assistant State's Attorney, deferred placing evidence before the grand jury until tomorrow, when he expected to have ballistic evidence to support a charge of murder against Dr. Alice and an accessory charge against her son, Earle, the widower, also a County Jail prisoner.

A report by ballistic experts confirm the accepted fact that the bullet taken from Rheta's body was fired from Dr. Alice's .32 caliber pistol, bought by Earle November 11.

The report also demonstrated that a bullet found imbedded in the wall of a bedroom was fired from a .38 caliber pistol.

The police and prosecutors marveled at the clear mind and iron will of the aged woman as she faced steady questioning for three days after the girl's death. Dr. Alice had refused to admit knowledge of Rheta's slaying until Friday, when she signed a confession that she had fired a bullet to save her own medical reputation ofter the girl died of chloroform.

ROBBER-SLAYER STORY

Yesterday, however, her attorney announced that she would repudiate the confession, allegedly wrung from her by exhaustive examination and suggestions by "studip police." He said Dr. Alice would stand by her original story that an intruder must have killed Earle's wife.

Capt. John Stege said he had received many telephone calls from girls whose names appeared in a list of 50 or more in Earle's notebook. All were anxious to keep their names out of print. Stege assured them there would be no more publicity of the Wynekoop datebook.

SON TO TESTIFY IN CLARK DEATH

WOODBURY, N. J., Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. Audrey Adaire Clark, former actress, charged with slaying her husband after he is alleged to have broken a billiard cue over her head, was able yesterday to leave the hospital in which she has been since the shooting, but decided to remain until after the Gloucester County grand jury acts in the case.

The grand jury will consider the case today. Twelve witnesses have been subpenaed, including Mrs. Clark's 6-year-old son, Sheldon III, who witnessed the shooting in the Clark mansion in Paulsboro, November 20.

Mrs. Clark's husband, Sheldon A. Clark, Jr., 36, was fatally wounded in the billiard room of the 16-room house. Besides his son, another witness was present, George Johnson, Paulsboro ironworker, whom Clark invited in to help with some work.

Clark was the son of Sheldon A. Clark, senior vice president of the Sinclair Refining Company. The Clark family have assured Mrs. Clark's attorney of co-operation in her case.

ROCKEFELLER READY FOR TRIP

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 28.—(AP.)—John D. Rockefeller, Sr., is ready to leave today for his winter home at Ormond Beach, Fla., if his physician agrees to the trip.

The 94-year-old capitalist has not recovered completely from a recent attack of the grip and his physician said he had not decided definitely whether his patient could leave.

Preparations for the trek, however, have been completed and at the Rockefeller home here it was said he was impatient to get away. A cold snap increased his desire for the balmy weather of Florida.

Frameup Charge Made In Scottsboro Trial

Girl, Star Witness, Admits Meeting With Prosecutor

International News Service.

DECATUR, Ala., Nov. 28.—Apparently trying to show that details of the testimony of Victoria Price and Orvel Gilley, star state witnesses in the Scottsboro case, were "framed" to coincide, Samuel S. Leibowitz, chief defense counsel, obtained the damaging admission from Mrs. Price today that she and Gilley together last night visited the apartment of Thomas E. Knight, Attorney General of Alabama.

Mrs. Price, one of the two Huntsville, (Ala.), mill girls, who were allegedly victims of mass assault by a dozen Negroes aboard a freight train March 25, 1931, also admitted she and Gilley met the attorney general on two other occasions at the court house in Huntsville, but denied the meetings were pre-arranged.

TRAPS WITNESS

Leibowitz struck the telling blow at the state's case as cross-examination of Mrs. Price was resumed this morning. He demanded:

"Were you with Attorney General Knight and Gilley in Knight's apartment last night?"

The comely 25-year-old witness shot a quick, appealing glance at Attorney General Knight, who leaped to his feet with an objection which Judge W. W. Callahan quickly overruled.

Leibowitz repeated his question. Mrs. Price replied:

"Yes, I'm not going to lie. I was there with Gilley."

The girl denied, however, that the three had discussed the case. Leibowitz demanded:

"Didn't you tell Gilley that unless he took the stand and said he had seen you mistrcated by the Negroes, that he would suffer for it?"

"No."

"You and Gilley and Mr. Knight didn't talk about the case at all, did you?"

"No."

REMAINED ON TRAIN

Gilley was the only one of the seven white youths that remained in the gondola car of the freight train with Mrs. Price and Ruby Bates after the group of Negroes entered the car. The others were hurled from the swiftly moving train.

Gilley, missing at the retrial last April in which Heywood Patterson, one of the seven Negro defendants was sentenced to death for a second time, reappeared dramatically to testify as the state's trump witness at the present trial.

He was scheduled to take the stand later today.

The state then called W. W. Hill, the station agent at Paint Rock, Ala., where an armed posse of 100 men stopped the train and arrested the Negroes. Hill said he had not seen Mrs. Price lying on the ground in a faint as she claimed.

'THRILL KILLER' ELUDES POLICE

Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—After questioning several persons in the killing of Aaron Scherwin, young lawyer, and the shooting of his wife, Charlotte, police today were searching for a "thrill killer," a meager description of whom they said they had obtained from a 15-year-old youth who lives near the scene of the murder.

Scherwin and his wife were shot from ambush as they walked along a street in South Brooklyn toward their home. The only eyewitness account of the shooting was given by Mrs. Scherwin, who is to become a mother next month.

From her cot in Israel Zion Hospital, where she was taken in serious condition with bullet wounds in her neck and right shoulder, Mrs. Scherwin said:

"My husband and myself were walking along the street when a sedan with some men in it—I could not say how many—drew up to the curb, going in the same direction we were going. Shots were fired. I felt a bullet strike me and fell down. I was dazed. That's all I can remember."

FLAMES SWEEP MINE BARRACKS

Fire of undetermined origin last night partly destroyed a one-story frame bunkhouse of the Pittsburgh Coal Corporation at Coverdale. The house is used as company quarters for bachelor miners.

Mrs. E. P. Hundertmark, 39, a widow, ill in bed from pneumonia, saw the flames from the bedroom of her home, almost a quarter mile away.

Her son, Floyd, 15, ran to the Bethel Volunteer Fire Department to give the alarm, and another son, Donald, 18, ran to the bunkhouse and notified a few miners who were playing cards. Company officials said there was slight damage.

SHANK CALLED INSANE

BENTON, Ark., Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Mark H. Shank, Akron (O.) attorney, was characterized as "wholly insane" by his attorney in an opening statement to the jury in Shank's trial for the poison murder of Alvin Colley, also of Akron.

Nathan McDaniel, of Benton, chief defense counsel, also told the jury that specialists who had Shank under observation would testify he could not live more than six or eight weeks.

Outlining the basis for an insanity plea for the attorney accused of the murder of four persons at a picnic lunch near here last August, McDaniel said the defense counsel had been unable to get any assistance from the defendant.

McDaniel said Shank "doesn't seem to know what it's all about. Everything is hazy to him."

For the past year, McDaniel said testimony would show, friends of Shank have noticed a great change in him. The attorney said:

"He was quick to anger and seemed to think his best friends were turning against him."

Cash Short, Phila. May Drop Parade

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Philadelphia probably will go without its traditional mummers' parade on Broad street on New Year's Day.

Lack of funds among the paraders and inability of the city to give cash prizes led leaders of the marching clubs to announce today they would give up the celebration.

Pheasant Crashes School, Boy Slashed

EASTON, Pa., Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Norman Fehnel, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Fehnel, Palmer Township, was cut by glass today when a pheasant flushed by hunters in a field across the road from a school crashed through a window of the building and fell, injured, inside the room.

WELFARE FUND EXTENDS DRIVE

Spurred by the greatest daily report to date in the Welfare Fund's campaign to raise its 1934 budget of $2,837,000, workers today agreed to continue the drive for at least another week.

Total contributions of $118,829 were reported at a meeting of workers in Kaufmann's today, bringing the grand total to $1,806,148—just a few dollars short of the two-thirds point. The largest report of the day was in the unit division, with subscriptions totaling $60,326. The employes' division ranked second, with a report of $20,912. The Rt. Rev. Hugh C. Boyle, bishop of the Catholic diocese of Pittsburgh, was today's guest speaker.

Leaders announced the next report meeting will be held Monday noon. Originally, the campaign was to have ended today.

McKnight Girl's Lawyer Quizzed on Fee

Attorney Howard Zacharias in Orphans' Court today was quizzed regarding 39 items included in his $5,000 bill to Madeline McKnight, daughter of "Paddy" McKnight, Soho political leader, in settlement of his $125,000 estate

Miss McKnight, a minor, is contesting fees of three attorneys, amounting to $18,000 as excessive. The action was brought in her behalf by her brother, John.

Attorney Maurice L. Avner, was interrupted in his cross-examination of Zacharias by Judge T. P. Trimble who had aproved counsel fees in the case. The court said:

"Mr. Avner, I have a recollection of allowing you a fee on a similar basis in a like case."

Zacharias testified he had based his fee on 5 per cent of the value of the estate.

Miss McKnight's counsel took the position that a $3,000 fee sought by J. Frank McKenna, as counsel for the girl's guardian, should not be paid until she becomes of age.

Howard Neely's fee as executor and attorney was $10,000.

Mother of Slain Son Kills Man in Revenge

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Minus Doolittle was waylaid and slain last night by Mrs. A. H. Bailey, who, in surrendering, was quoted by Sheriff Albert Hausser as declaring she had shot the 24-year-old man "for what he did to my son."

Mrs. Bailey was the mother of Albert James McCoy, who was slain as he walked with a woman companion on a downtown street here last January 11. Doolittle surrendered to police at that time, but a grand jury refused to indict.

At the time he was killed, McCoy was under charges of criminal attack upon Mary Doolittle, sister of Minus.

That was what Mrs. Bailey told the Sheriff, as she came to his home. When the Sheriff seemed doubtful, she added:

"I have just shot Minus Doolittle for what he did to my son. Since my son died, I have nothing to live for."

Then she fainted.

DUKE HEIRESS GIVES PARTY

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Doris Duke, who attended Princess Alexia Mdivani's coming-of-age party on November 14, returned the former Barbara Hutton's hospitality last night with a belated birthday party of her own in the stately Duke home on Fifth avenue.

It was not called a birthday party, for the day on which Doris attained her majority was six days ago, but, inasmuch as the richest girl in the world did not observe the day itself, her guests considered last night's dinner for 31 the equivalent.

The blonde girl who is the possessor of at least $10,000,000, or one-third of her father's tobacco fortune, and will receive another third when she is 25, invited some famous people to celebrate with her. Besides the Mdivanis, there were the Grand Duke Dmitri, brother of the Grand Duchess Marie; Lady Mendl, former Elsie De Wolfe, decorator; Prince Serge Obolensky, brother-in-law of Vincent Astor; Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Williams, of Wall street's elite; Elsa Maxwell, famous hostess; Mrs. Allen Gouverneur Wellman, and Mrs. Allan A. Ryan, Jr.

Mrs. Insull Quits Hospital in Paris

PARIS, Nov. 28.—(Universal.)—Mrs. Samuel Insull, Sr., who has been resting and undergoing treatment in the American hospital here for the past week, left the hospital secretly yesterday. She is believed to be still in Paris prior to leaving for Athens to join her husband, the former Chicago utilities magnate.

Astor Widow Marries Boxer in Hospital

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. Madeline Force Astor Dick, widow of John Jacob Astor and former wife of William K. Dick, has taken a third husband, Enzo Fiermonte, Italian boxer.

The ceremony was performed by a city official yesterday afternoon in Doctors' Hospital where Mrs. Dick is recuperating from a broken arm received in a fall in Bermuda.

Fiermonte formerly was companion and boxing tutor to Mrs. Dick's two youngest sons, and recently obtained a Nevada divorce from his wife, who lives in Rome and who had contested his suit in Italy.

Mrs. Dick obtained a divorce from her second husband in Reno last July. At that time rumors were current that she and Fiermonte would be married as soon as he obtained a divorce, but were denied by both parties.

The wedding was witnessed by the bride's three sons, John Jacob Astor, Jr., William K. Dick, Jr., and John Henry Dick; her mother, Mrs. William H. Force, and a dozen friends of the couple.

The bride, whose maiden name was Madeline Talmage Force, was married to the late John Jacob Astor in 1911. The following year Astor drowned in the Titanic disaster. His wife was saved. She was married to Dick in 1916.

2 WORKS PLANS PROPOSED FOR COUNTY

HARRISBURG, Nov. 28.—Two conflicting plans to enable Allegheny County to borrow federal funds for its $31,108,000 public works program will be put before the Legislature by the Allegheny County delegation.

Republican and Democratic legislators in a joint caucus last night disagreed over the method to be followed, and each party will sponsor its own bill.

The Republican measure, drafted by County Solicitor Churchill B. Mehard, and sponsored by the Allegheny County Commissioners, was introduced last night by Senator Morris Einstein, chairman of the Allegheny caucus. It proposes creation of a special "public authority" corporation to plan, finance, build and operate the construction projects and liquidate the necessary debts.

DEMOCRATIC PLAN

The Democratic bill, which may be introduced today, proposes to authorize the County Commissioners to take charge of the program themselves, financing the projects by issuing "revenue bonds" redeemable through tolls and secured by the equivalent of mortgages against the structures for which they are issued. This plan was outlined to the delegation not by any member of the Legislature, but by Congressman Henry Ellenbogen, a Democrat, who was brought to the caucus by Democratic Legislators.

Both plans have as their object the issue of bonds to finance the public works, without reducing the county's credit by the amount of the bonds, and without necessitating an increase in tax levies to meet interest and redemption charges. The method of attaining that end is the cause of the dispute between the two parties. The County Commissioners have contended they cannot issue the bonds themselves without reducing the county's borrowing capacity, and for that reason prefer the temporary corporation or "authority" to supervise the program financially as well as physically.

LEGALITY QUESTIONED

Despite the disagreement regarding the bills' methods, the caucus decided the Einstein bill not only should be introduced but advanced two readings in the Senate, and that new conferences could be held at that time. The Democrats, meanwhile, plan to consult Attorney General Schnader regarding the legality of the revenue bond plan, which the County Commissioners challenge.

Ellenbogen, who was spokesman for the Democratic opposition to the County Commissioners' plan explained the proposed "authority" would have power to fix toll charges, could spend public funds but would not be bound by the restrictions which law imposes when County Commissioners award contracts, and would create a new and expensive agency of a semi-governmental nature. He added:

"But it would be responsible to nobody."

The Congressman contended the Commissioners could manage the self-liquidating projects themselves, without added expense to taxpayers and without creating a new public unit while the county Public Works Department forces would be idle.

TERMS OPPOSED

The chief objection by the Democrats to the Einstein bill was that it proposes six-year terms for the three members of the "authority." That tenure, Ellenbogen stressed, would keep them in office four years beyond the terms of the present Commissioners, who would name the members.

Senator William D. Mansfield, who also is a County Commissioner, said he had no objection to shortening the "authority" members' terms.

Condemning the Einstein bill's proposal to give the "authority" power to supersede boroughs, cities and townships in effectuating the program, Ellenbogen asserted:

"It creates a wasteful and undemocratic super-government, superior to all local government units, a body which will be able to defy public opinion and the established will of the people."

Senator Mansfield last week introduced a general bill for creation of public works authorities, applicable to all counties. That bill, however, permitted authorities to be formed only by two or more political sub-divisions. The Einstein bill permits Allegheny County to create such a temporary corporation, without joining with any other unit of government.

Pittsburgh Youth Flees Huntingdon

HARRISBURG, Nov. 28.—Police were on the lookout today for two youths who escaped Monday from Huntingdon Reformatory. The youths, Charles Andrezha, 20, Pittsburgh, and Robert Jamison, 22, Baltimore, had been gone several hours before their absence was noted.

BELL-ANS FOR INDIGESTION

Those may be, as former Gov. Smith says, "Baloney dollars," but they will be welcome, useful dollars.

NORTHERN FLORIDA presents an interesting mixture of trees, palms struggling against colder weather, innumerable trees with long grey moss hanging down, some adventurous oaks from the North, their leaves turning bright red, much to the surprise of real Florida trees, probably, and beside the track, half way between Jacksonville and the pleasant little town of Glen St. Mary, you see perfect happiness.

It is "hog killing time." Two fair-sized shoats, whose troubles are over, lie on their sides on a table, two cheerful colored men enthusiastically scraping off the bristles.

THERE IS happiness in the little orchard beside the black frame cabin as those pigs are prepared for their ultimate duty. All members of the pig-owning family are present, women, old and young; children, big and little, with reserved places inside the orchard enclosure.

Neighbors, dozens of them, lean on and look over the fence. Their prophetic gaze sees, as in a crystal-ball, hams, shoulders, sausage meat, pigs feet, spare ribs, head-cheese, blood pudding, through the winter months.

You that languidly study the extensive bill of fare "trying to make up your mind" can never know the thrill that radiates from a snow white pig, hanging head down in a colored man's orchard.

P. R. R. STARTS TRUCK SERVICE

A pick-up and store-door delivery service, designed to meet truck competition, will be instituted Friday by the Pennsylvania and Erie railroads, according to announcement today.

The Interstate Commerce Commission disregarded protests against the plan by other railroads.

Under the plan, no additional charge will be made for freight shipments within 260 miles of Pittsburgh, representatives of the Pennsylvania stated. A small additional charge will be made for delivery to more remote zones.

Contracts with truck owners for delivery service have been made in 2,000 communities served by the Pennsylvania, it was said.

Representatives of the Baltimore and Ohio and Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroads, said they would stand by for the present and watch operation of the new plan before reaching a decision.

WOMAN LEADS DOPE RAIDS

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—When President Roosevelt appointed Mrs. Elizabeth Bass as chief of the Chicago Narcotics Bureau he established a precedent as she became the first woman to hold that post.

Last night Mrs. Bass set a precedent herself when she personally led a squad of federal agents on a series of narcotic raids that resulted in seven men being held, four of them for arraignment today before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker, and the confiscation of narcotics valued at several thousand dollars.

Later Mrs. Bass said the raids were just a beginning to a concerted drive against a narcotic ring that she claims is dominated by former Capone gangsters.

OWNERS SPARE QUEEN CITY

A life of usefulness past, the once proud Ohio River packet Queen City will spend its remaining years as a wharf.

That it was not scrapped and its shell left to the ravages of the seasons was due perhaps to sentiment on the part of the newly-organized Pittsburgh and Louisville Packet Line.

The company, inaugurating a new weekly down-river service with the Senator Cordill as its packet, made known plans to convert the Queen City into a modern terminal, moored for the unloading and loading of freight at the foot of Wood street.

The packet was sold at public auction Saturday to John W. Hubbard, millionaire shovel manufacturer and president of the Ohio River Transportation Company, owners of the Queen City when it was placed in the hands of receivers.

BRIDGE LEAGUE LEADERS WIN

The "favorites" retained their substantial leads at the fourth meeting of the Inter-club Duplicate Bridge League, held at the University Club.

The Pittsburgh Golf Club team won over the Engineers' Society, 32-22; Keystone Athletic over P. A. A., 32-22; Edgeworth Club over University Club, 33-21, and, in a close contest the Harvard-Yale-Princeton Club won over the Duquesne Club, 27½-26½.

Club standings in the tournament at the close of the meeting were:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Pittsburgh Golf Club	3	1	.750
Edgeworth Club	3	1	.750
Keystone Athletic Club	3	1	.750
University Club	2½	1½	.625
Harvard-Yale-Prince'n Club	2	2	.500
Duquesne Club	1	3	.250
P. A. A.	1	3	.250
Engineers' Society	½	3½	.125

WORKS GIVING 2,589 HERE JOBS O.K.'D

Civil works projects providing for the employment of 2,589 men in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County were approved today by Eric H. Biddle, state administrator of the Federal Civic Works program, according to Associated Press dispatches from Harrisburg.

Additional projects to be approved before the end of the week will increase the number of new jobs to 3,280.

A $100,000 appropriation for grading and surfacing unimproved streets in Pittsburgh, employing 1,792 men, included in today's announcement, is the largest project yet authorized by Biddle.

MORE AWAIT O. K.

Besides this appropriation, projects providing for employment of 483 men on parks and playgrounds improvements and 314 men for repairs and improvements of sewers were authorized today.

Coincident with Biddle's announcement in Harrisburg, H. M. Bucher, director of the Federal State Employment Office here, announced that after December 1 first consideration on employment projects will be given to war veterans. This is contrary to an announcement last week in which it was said no preference would be given.

According to County Administrator James L. Stuart, five projects are included in the group to be approved this week.

A total of $434,000, of which $233,943 will go for labor and the remainder for materials, has been alloted for completing 30 projects by the city, two by the county and public improvements by Avalon, Edgewood and Turtle Creek boroughs, Stuart announced.

THIRTY PROJECTS

The city's works programs consists of 30 separate projects for street grading, park and playground improvements and sewer construction. Fourteen hundred men are now being employed on the street improvements and 1,000 more will be employed within a day or two to carry out the remainder of the program, Stuart explained.

Another 1,000 will be put to work on the county's project for regrading Pearce Mill road and Catfish Run road in the two county parks, and the remainder will go to the three boroughs.

NEED 429 ENGINEERS

A ray of hope was held out to some of the 1,800 unemployed engineers in Allegheny County today when K. F. Treschow, of the Engineers' Socity of Western Pennsylvania, announced that 429 engineers in the state are to be employed for the Coast and Geodetic Survey of the United States Department of Commerce. Treschow said:

"Because of its size and industrial importance, it seems likely that Pittsburgh will supply a fair share of these men."

These engineers will be hired through the Pennsylvania CWA organization to join with similar groups from other states in conducting a control survey within a few weeks, according to Treschow.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

All the Californian's I have met are going around proud today.

Had a visit from young Senator La Follette, for whom I have great admiration. Any man smart enough to know that both political parties are wrong deserves careful consideration. He is thought mighty well of by all those elderly Senators.

Will Rogers

He thinks that the NRA should have been backed up by a revocable license, and not by just signing a pledge.

He doesn't think that we have reached the moral stage where a parade, and a promise, will make people do the right thing.

Yours, WILL.

P.S.—Send the Army out here for the New Year's football game. If it was left to a vote of everybody, ten to one would vote for them over any other school, Stanford vs. the U. S. Army.

Fall From Wagon Fatal to Farmer

Joseph Zegarac, 61, a farmer of near Oakdale, died in his home today from injuries suffered Saturday when he fell from a wagon while at work, the Coroner reported.

FEARS CITIES WILL ABANDON RELIEF WORK

The chief criticism of the government's work in relief and of the NRA program is that individual initiative has been taken out of those activities, Allen T. Burns, director of the Association of Community Chests and Councils, said in a talk to the Hungry Club yesterday.

The federal government's work in relief seems necessarily to be stereotyped, he said, and the great danger is that communities will drop their relief work and depend on the government program.

He said:

"If we let our agencies go, the government will undertake to do the work, but that will take all the elasticity and initiative out of it."

Burns pointed to the incident at Bronxville, N. Y., where husbands were forbidden to kiss their wives longer than 30 seconds at the morning train as an illustration of what happens under government regulation.

More needs exist that the mere minimums of food and shelter, Burns said, pointing out increased demands for nursing, hospitalization and child care.

GROGAN JEWELRY
Why It Is A Good Investment

Because Grogan jewelry grows more valuable with time. And our reasonable prices of today and the high quality of our jewelry make a purchase now a better investment than ever. This is indeed a rare opportunity to invest, at small cost, in lasting and beautiful pieces, particularly for those with modest incomes.

In times like the present, people are prone to go after will-o'-the-wisps, and later regret purchases made unwisely. The possessions we treasure and the heirlooms we value are the result of good workmanship by the maker and careful consideration on the part of the purchaser.

TABOR SCORES NEEDLESS OFFICES

A new tax program, state-wide in scope, and abolishing thousands of costly petty offices, would provide needed revenue for maintaining the present school system unimpaired, according to Attorney Edward O. Tabor.

Aiding the Pittsburgh Teachers' Association in their fight to save present school standards, Tabor issued the following analysis today:

"As a taxpayer I am in full sympathy with every effort to keep down unnecessary school cost and as a citizen I approve of the efforts to relieve real estate from the heavy tax burden now put on it.

"But, to reach this goal of fairer taxation I believe that we need a new tax program, state-wide in its scope and radical in its method.

TOO MANY OFFICES

"First, Pennsylvania should relieve itself of millions of dollars of unnecessary taxes now spent for unnecessary political offices, and it can do this in part by abolishing at least 5,000 of its unnecessary tax collecting units, including the delinquent tax collector of this community, all of which offices exist only for the purpose of political plunder.

"Second, Pennsylvania should inaugurate an income tax law and a graduated and more remunerative inheritance tax law, and third, we should have state as well as local support for schools.

OPPOSES PAY CUTS

"We agree that the good of the children is the ultimate goal of our plans, but in determining our budget I ask consideration for a view often overlooked.

"As one who taught for years and who knows something of teachers from experience, I submit to the Pittsburgh Board of Public Education the suggestion that we do nothing which will take away from our average teacher any of her sense of pride and self-respect in the community by a further reduction in salary."

Sergeant Gets Shock as Wife Phones Robbery

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—It was nothing less than a shock to Sergt. Frank Corcoran of the Police Department when he picked up the telephone and a voice reported a robbery in the apartment building where he resides. He said:

"Why, that's the building I live in."

The voice replied:

"Yes, I know. This is your wife speaking."

Among other things, she said, the robbers stole Corcoran's supply of shirts.

DEADLY GERMS IN STOLEN KIT

International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Police today broadcast warning that a thief who made off with a physician's kit bag yesterday had obtained a deadly prize.

The bag, stolen from the automobile of Dr. George Zuccala, at Glen Cove, contained test tubes filled with millions of deadly typhoid germs, the physician informed police.

Dr. Zuccala said each tube contained enough germs to plunge a wide area into an epidemic. He asked the thief to return the tubes, promising him immunity from prosecution.

FAIL TO PROVE LAWYER HAD 'RUNNERS'

Taking of testimony in efforts to disbar John Wirtzman for alleged improper practices continued today before Judges James R. MacFarlane and Harry H. Rowand in Common Pleas Court.

Numerous witnesses were called yesterday in efforts to substantiate the charge Wirtzman had employed "runners" to obtain business, regarded an unethical practice. However, none of the witnesses called testified that Wirtzman had personally solicited any business.

Several testified that Wirtzman had been suggested as an attorney to handle accident cases, but these were not "runners."

One witness, Minnie Kline, of Ivory street, injured in a street car of the Pittsburgh Railways Company last July, testified she had been referred to Wirtzman by a man who is employed by her father.

Numerous witnesses will be called today by J. Garfield Houston, representing the Bar Association in the proceedings. W. H. Coleman represents Wirtzman.

SLAVS TO HOLD BANQUET

Pittsburgh district Yugoslavs will celebrate the consolidation of the South Slavs into one nation next Sunday, the affair being sponsored by the local Yugoslav club. Dr. Leonid Pitamic, Yugoslav minister to the United States, will be the chief speaker at a meeting at 2:30 p. m. in Soldiers' Memorial Hall. Prof. George Devich, president of the club, will preside.

Other speakers will be Mayor John S. Herron, Judge Frank Piekarski, Kosto Unkovich, Yugoslav consul; Dr. George Matusevski, Polish consul, and Dr. George Brejski, Czechoslovak consul.

The Carpatho-Russion Choir, the Slovak Sokols of McKeesport and the Fruska Gora Choir of Aliquippa are on the program. A banquet will be held at night in Webster Hall.

'FRAT' HONORS CUMMINGS

Thirteen men, including Homer S. Cummings, Attorney General of the United States, and former Gov. John S. Fisher, today had the right to wear gold ribbons on their lapels, signifying that they were "tapped" to membership in the University of Pittsburgh chapter, Omicron Delta Kappa, yesterday.

Besides Fisher and Cummings, elected to honorary membership, tappees include John W. Hallock, university alumni secretary elected to associate membership, and 10 active undergraduates: Bernard Curren, Jules L. Green, Charles C. Hartwig, William R. Havlak, Robert G. Hogan, David Immerman, William Lawrence, Raymond J. McCune, Russell Ochsenhirt and Carl Swartz, Jr.

Turtle Creek Girl Run Down by Auto

Kathleen Miller, 9, of rear 194 Eleventh street, Turtle Creek, was in a critical condition in McKeesport Hospital today with a fractured skull suffered when she was struck by an automobile while crossing the Turtle Creek Bridge last night, according to a hospital report.

'Please, Lord...'

PATTY M'MAHON, "3, SIR!"

GIRL, 3, PRAYS FOR LOST DOG

Every evening 3-year-old Patty McMahon, of 438 South Dallas avenue, sobs while saying her prayers:

"Please, Lord, send Petey back to me."

Petey is Patty's German shepherd dog, which during its two years of dog life has been her constant companion. Last Wednesday Petey disappeared. Rewards have been offered, advertisements inserted in the newspapers and a personal search conducted, without any results.

Since Petey does not make up easily with strangers, the McMahon family believes someone enticed the animal into a machine, for Petey was always eager for automobile rides.

But little Patty is not interested in her family's theories; she wants her playmate returned. When she commanded, Petey would throw back a knowing head and sing for her. The dog was as attached to her as was Mary's little lamb to its mistress.

Bellevue Revolver Club to Open Range

A competitive shoot by the Bellevue Police Revolver Club will feature the dedication of its indoor target pistol range in the basement of the Bellevue Savings and Trust Company on Thanksgiving.

A series of weekly matches between teams of the Pittsburgh Revolver League, of which the Bellevue club is a member, are planned.

Dinner Tonight To Fete Dumbauld

A testimonial dinner honoring H. S. Dumbauld, new United States Attorney for Western Pennsylvania, will be given tonight in the William Penn Hotel. Democratic leaders from Fayette and Allegheny counties will attend.

The dinner is under the auspices of various Italian organizations of Pittsburgh.

2 Injured, Held In North Side Crash

Two men were injured slightly early today when the automobile in which they were riding collided with a safety zone in Federal street, near Ohio street. The injured were Briley Walsh, 31, of 144 Dithridge street, and Robert E. Wholey, 23, of 225 Marshall avenue.

Walsh was arrested on a reckless driving charge. A drunkeness charge was lodged against Wholey.

Mrs. Coolidge Opens Yuletide Seal Sale

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. Grace Goodhue Coolidge, widow of former President Coolidge, has opened the public sale of Christmas Seals for the National Tuberculosis Associations.

Three troubadours hauled a yule log to her home, "The Beeches" yesterday and gave her the first package of the 1933 seals. Garbed in their red, blue and green costumes the trio represented the figures on the seals.

State 'Y' Elects Seven Pittsburghers

Seven Pittsburghers were among the committeemen elected at the YMCA state convention in Harrisburg yesterday, according to the Associated Press. C. G. Dunnels and W. J. Davis will hold office for three years, C. E. Braun for two years, and Lee M. Terrill for one year.

W. F. Lloyd and S. E. Hening were chosen as state committeemen-at-large, and R. H. Flynn was re-elected to the same post.

Heiress' New 'In-Law' Files Divorce Suit

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Mrs. Clara Van Sands Eiszner, mother-in-law of Merry Fahrney Pickering Eiszner, had filed suit in Superior Court today for a divorce from John Frank Eiszner.

The former Mrs. Pickering, heir to the patent medicine millions of her grandfather, married Frank Van Sands Eiszner a few weeks ago. Frank's brother, Donald, was killed in an automobile accident shortly after the surprise wedding.

Commerce Chamber Holds 'Family Night'

A diversified program of entertainment was given in the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce last night as the organization inaugurated "Family Night."

Featuring the program was choral singing by a chorus under the direction of Harvey B. Gaul and the presentation by the drama department, Carnegie Institute of Technology, of a one-act comedy, "The Mountains of Bether," under the direction of Chester Wallace. James Rae, former president of the chamber, presided.

Six-Cent Fine Given Women Shoplifters

OIL CITY, Pa., Nov. 28.—Mrs. Dorothea Daum, Oil City, and Mrs. Alberta Meddock, of Titusville, were fined 6¼ cents each after pleading guilty to charges of shoplifting when arraigned before Judge O. Clare Kents, Meadville.

They were ordered to return the stolen good and to be paroled for one year.

DELIVERIES TO ALL ZONES WEDNESDAY—FOR A NOMINAL CHARGE

TECH STUDENTS PAY TRIBUTE TO CARNEGIE

Profit will come out of the "lamentable economic winds of the past four years" predicted Dr. William Wallace Campbell, president of the National Academy of Science, guest speaker at the twenty-first annual observance of Carnegie Day.

Speaking in Carnegie Music Hall this morning before Carnegie Tech students, Dr. Campbell, commenting on the reckless faith of the people in speculation between the years of 1920 and 1929, said:

"But a process of education is under way that is not only teaching us something about finance, but is carrying us, almost unconsciously, from the more selfish and material ways of life in the 1920's, in the direction of the idealistic.

SEES PROGRESS

"If we are caused to stop and consider what things are really worth living for, and to reach the conclusion which clearly accords with the truth, namely, that the real progress of the world depends upon ideals and idealistic possessions and not upon material things, the immense cost and waste will in some measure have been balanced.

"Our bubble of 1921-29 will go down in history, and its lessons may be counted upon to delay the coming of the next bubble and its immense crop of tragedies by several decades."

AWARD SCHOLARSHIPS

Dr. Thomas S. Baker, president of Carnegie Institute of Technology, also spoke, awarding fraternity, sorority and dormitory scholarship cups. The Rev. H. Boyd Edwards, pastor of the Church of the Ascension, delivered the invocation.

Pledging of students by Tau Beta Pi, Eta Kappa Nu and Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary fraternities, also marked the exercises, which are held annually in observance of the birth of Andrew Carnegie.

DAVISON ART ON DISPLAY

By PENELOPE REDD

Neville C. Davison, Jr., has an exhibition of drawings and dry points on view at the Woman's Exchange this week. Mr. Davison devotes a refined craftsmanship to romantic themes. Sometimes he indulges in poetic fantasy, as in "Willow Tree," a delicate Chinoiserie, or in his tribute to sailing ships in port, "Before the Storm."

Miss Redd

Other drawings and dry points which could have been derived objectively from houses and trees in the hills back of his native Sewickley, earnestly voice his romantic attitude and his intensely fastidious technique. "Forsaken," a forgotten farmstead, and "Mountain Cabin," are poignant fragments.

A small drawing "Waiting," which shows a hunter posted at a gaunt tree, seems to approximate this young artist's passion for flawless craftsmanship as the agent to convey ideas that move him.

Five Given Divorces Same Number Apply

Divorce suits have been filed by Oscar J. Freedel against Edna Freedel, Anthony J. Bush, Jr., against Catherine Bush, Bernard Goldfield against Anna Goldfield, Louis A. Searight against Alvin Searight and by James A. McFeeley against Helen W. McFeeley.

Ministers Hear Museum Director

Dr. Andrey Avinoff, director of Carnegie Museum, spoke on "Artistic Forms in Nature," at a meeting of the Presbyterian Ministers' Association in the First Presbyterian Church yesterday. Tracing the designs of the hexagon and spiral, he said:

"Science offers no explanation for the multitude of forms in which the apparently exactly similar particles of matter, such as the ice crystals in the snowflake, arrange themselves."

National Boys' Club Meets Here in May

Hundreds of members of the Boys' Club of America will attend a national convention in Pittsburgh next May, it was announced at a meeting of the board of directors of the Boys' Club of Pittsburgh yesterday. The Pittsburgh club will be hosts to the visitors.

The board elected E. J. O'Brien, president of the Allegheny Valley Bank, vice president to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Ralph W. Cadman.

$2 LIQUOR TAX BATTLE GETS 3RD JUDGE

Judge J. Whitaker Thompson of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals, was named today to sit with Judges R. M. Gibson and F. P. Schoonmaker, of the Western District, in the legal fight over the $2 a gallon state tax on liquor made before repeal.

Appointment of a Circuit Court judge to hear the arguments will permit an appeal directly to the United States Supreme Court without the case being heard by the Federal Circuit Court.

Attorney A. Leo Weil, representing Joseph S. Finch & Co., distillers, questioned constitutionality of the tax in proceedings begun yesterday in Federal Court here.

The court granted a temporary restraining order against state authorities preventing them from carrying out the new liquor license law, pending a hearing December 6 on an application for an interlocutory injunction against Leon D. Metzger, secretary of revenue, and others.

Papers in the suit were served on Metzger in Harrisburg today.

Under the temporary restraining order the state secretary of revenue is enjoined from interfering or preventing the company from continuing its business pending the litigation. The company distillery and main warehouses are at Schenley, and has in its warehouses whisky which, under the act, would require a tax of between $6,000,000 and $8,000,000 to be paid within 90 days, it was said. Weil said Gov. Pinchot hoped to raise about $25,000,000 by the "floor" tax.

In questioning the constitutionality of the state act the plaintiff company avers it interfers with interstate commerce; is confiscatory, interferring with individual rights and properties; that the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment is not effective until December 5, and therefor the government has possession and regulation of liquor, which is still under medicinal status.

Associated with Weil as representing the Finch company, were John G. Frazer, J. Arthur Love and William Wallace.

RALLY TONIGHT ON TAX RELIEF

Representatives of the 32 Pittsburgh wards and several boroughs and townships will make plans tonight for a campaign toward action in the Legislature to take school taxes off real estate. The meeting will be held at the headquarters of the Allegheny Real Estate and Taxpayer's Association, 339 Fifth avenue.

The league contends payments of school costs by the state would reduce total realty taxes 40 per cent in Pittsburgh and up to 75 per cent in some of the boroughs and townships.

The league is sponsoring the Reed bill, designed to provide installment payment of delinquent realty taxes without penalties, and the Sterling bill, providing state revenue for maintaining education throughout the commonwealth.

I. Leonard Aronson, league president, and C. V. Shoup, executive director, will speak at tonight's meeting.

50c Highballs Outlook Here, Hotel Men Say

Hotels and restaurants, busy buying liquor supplies, today had not completed price lists at which they will begin shoving out the drinks next Tuesday in the old-fashioned way.

"Reputable" salesmen, several hotels reported, are now offering bootleg products with the saving in taxes as an inducement to buy.

F. L. Andrews, president of the Pittsburgh Hotel Men's Association, indicated that highballs will range from 30 to 50 cents and cocktails from 25 to 35 cents.

Scotch whisky, he said, will cost more than other brands, wholesale quotations indicating retail prices of 40 cents and upward a "slug."

Imported champagne will sell at from $8 to $10 a bottle, with domestic brands at from $5 to $6.

Restaurant managers reported their prices will range in the neighborhood of those quoted by the hotel men.

Harry Kramer, prominent cafe proprietor in the pre-prohibition days, held out a single ray of hope. He said:

"Prices will come down in January when supply and demand are more equalized and the state liquor stores open."

SCHOOL RELIEF PLAN OFFERED

HARRISBURG, Nov. 28.—Apparently anticipating delay in collecting the $2 floor tax on whisky because of court restraining orders, Senator Harry B. Scott, Centre, today sponsored a bill to transfer $5,000,000 from the motor license fund to the Department of Public Instruction to aid financially distressed school districts. Reimbursement of the motor fund at a later time is promiseed by the bill.

Gov. Pinchot has recommended that $5,000,000 for emergency school aid be taken from the anticipated floor tax payments on liquor.

Senator James J. Coyne, Allegheny, introduced a bill providing that interest, penalties and costs on delinquent taxes which were due before 1933, need not be paid if the property owner pays the full amount of tax within two years. The Coyne bill affects all counties, cities, school districts and other tax units.

Another Scott bill permits municipalities to use money, borrowed for another purpose, to finance any "recovery" projects. If voters' consent was needed to make the loan, they also must assent to the transfer.

Pope Gives Blessing To U.S. Charity Nuns

VATICAN CITY, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Pope Pius gave audience today to Superior General Miriam Regina and three sisters of the motherhouse of the Sisters of Charity in New York.

It was reported that the Pope extended his blessing and thanks to the sisters throughout the United States.

Fever Scare Closes Perrysville School

The Perrysville grade school was temporarily closed today following a mild outbreak of scarlet fever. It will reopen next Monday, after it has been cleaned and fumigated, according to Mrs. Myrtle Martin, supervising principal of Ross Township public school.

LIQUOR CODE SIGNED, REPEAL STAY SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—The administration believed its program for strict federal regulation of the liquor business was well on the way to completion today with the signing of the distillers' code by President Roosevelt and submission of a new government draft of a pact for brewers.

These codes, along with others for liquor importers, distributors and the like, are designed to regulate liquor after repeal—probably on December 5—until Congress can enact legislation. But there was pending today in the District of Columbia Supreme Court a suit intended to prevent proclamation of repeal.

It was filed by Canon William S. Chase, of the Protestant Episcopal Church, superintendent of the International Reform Association, and others. Justice F. Dickinson Letts instructed Acting Secretary William Phillips to appear December 4 to show why a peremptory writ prohibiting the repeal proclamation should not be issued.

Canon Chase's contention was that state conventions considering the repealing amendment were not representative or deliberative. Attorney General Cummings already had ruled that repeal would become effective even without the State Department proclamation.

Despite protests of distillers and brewers over provisions for federal control of production and prices, President Roosevelt said at Warm Springs, Ga., that whisky makers had not formally signified assent to their code, but the administration had assurances from leaders of the industry of their earnest desire to co-operate.

While some concessions were made in the two codes, the President's interdepartmental committee handling them stuck firmly to the policy of direct supervision of the industries through a Federal Alcohol Control Administration.

VOTE REFORM BILL OFFERED

HARRISBURG, Nov. 28.—Senator Frank J. Harris' bill for permanent registration of voters in Pittsburgh is back in the Legislature.

In the same form as he introduced it in the regular session last spring, the Crafton Senator sponsored it again last night. It proposes to abolish the present enrollment of voters each year. Instead, once a voter registered and declared his party, he would remain on the lists while he lived at the same address. If he fails to vote once in four years, however, his name would be dropped and new registration would be required. A voter who wished to change enrollment from one party to another could do so by petition to the Registration Commission.

Meeting today, the Senate Elections Committee voted to report Harris' bill to the Senate for first reading this afternoon.

Milk Control Bill Passed by Senate

HARRISBURG, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—The Senate last night unanimously passed a bill setting up a milk control board to regulate the dairy industry. The measure now goes to the House.

Rum Stores Plan To Provide Many Jobs

HARRISBURG, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Capitol statisticians estimate 300 persons would be employed in the central offices of the State Liquor Control Board and from two to 10 persons will be needed to operate each liquor store.

Authority is given the statement by the report of the Ontario Liquor Control Board that 300 clerks, bookkeepers and stenographers are employed in the administrative offices at Toronto.

Under present plans the board would begin licensing hotels, restaurants and clubs Friday for sales to begin with repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment December 5.

State stores would take over all cases and bottle trade January 2.

PROBE OF WEIL CHARGES ENDS

HARRISBURG, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—A special committee investigating charges that unnamed persons offered to divert five-sixths of the state stores' liquor business to the Schenley Products Company for a price has been unable to find any evidence.

The committee, headed by Representative Morton Witkin, Philadelphia, held a brief meeting yesterday and directed the chairman to make that report to the House.

The inquiry was launched last week after A. Leo Weil, counsel for the Schenley concern, made the "shakedown" allegations during a hearing on a bill designed to levy a permanent tax of $1 a gallon on liquor.

Weil and officials of the company were called before the committee, but said they did not know the identity of the persons they alleged made the offer.

CHILD LABOR BAN PROPOSED

HARRISBURG, Nov. 28.—Ratification by Pennsylvania of the Child Labor Amendment to the Constitution is proposed in a joint resolution introduced by Senator Samuel W. Salus, Philadelphia. The amendment would authorize Congress to regulate or prohibit employment of persons under 18 years of age.

Senator Frank J. Harris, Allegheny, sponsored a bill requiring municipalities to insert in contracts for public works a provision that the minimum wages paid shall not be lower than the prevailing wages for similar work in the district. Contractors who fail to meet that wage schedule would be penalized by double the difference.

GIN DISTILLERY AWAITS REPEAL

Gin will flow from the Ruffs Dale distillery in Westmoreland County just 48 hours after production starts. According to Israel Rosenbloom, distillery company president, that's all the time it takes to convert raw grain into gin that is palatable as well as potent.

Twelve fermentation vats, each with a capacity of 6,500 gallons, will be completed this week. Other new equipment is installed, old equipment modernized, and 100 men are ready to tap the spring of hard liquor after December 5.

Once known as the Dillinger distillery, the Ruffs Dale plant got its present name when Mr. Rosenbloom and two brothers bought it from the Dillingers. It is one of the few privately owned distilleries in the United States.

Rectenwald Seeks Pensions for Blind

HARRISBURG, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Representative Rectenwald, Allegheny, last night introduced a bill appropriating $2,000,000 to pay a $50 monthly pension to all blind adults in the state.

Senator Coyne, Allegheny, introduced a bill to make it unlawful to manufacture and market more than one brand of whisky in the same distillery.

Bonniwell Opposes Pinchot Liquor Bill

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Unqualified opposition to various features of the Pinchot liquor control bill was expressed today by Judge Eugene C. Bonniwell, of the Municipal Court.

In a letter addressed to each member of the State Senate, Judge Bonniwell called upon them to repudiate the bill in its present form and "enact a decent, fair law for regulation of the liquor traffic." He suggested legislation similar to the old Brooks high license law.

ROLPH'S STAND ON LYNCHING STIRS U. S.

that they took leading parts in dragging Thomas H. Thurmond and John M. Holmes, the accused kidnapers, from the county jail and hanging them to two elm trees in St. James Park.

TREES TO GO

Work on repairs to the jail and other buildings damaged by the mob was started and City Manager Claire Goodwin announced the two trees from which Thurmond and Holmes were hanged will be uprooted and destroyed.

The trees, slashed and torn by souvenir seekers, were so badly damaged that gardeners expressed doubt if they would live.

This fact and a desire to remove all possible reminders of the mob's action led to his decision, Goodwin said.

Alex J. Hart, merchant and father of the 22-year-old kidnap victim, whose body was placed in the family vault yesterday, was among those regretting the mob action. He said:

"I am so overcome with my own grief that I am unable to think of that other terrible thing. My sympathy goes out to the families of those two men."

Gov. Rolph reaffirmed his approval of the action Sunday night "by the aroused people" of San Jose, in a statement in San Francisco last night and then went to Sacramento where, for the second time, he canceled a proposed trip to Boise, Idaho.

ROLPH CANCELS TRIP

The Governor said in a telegram to Gov. Ross, of Idaho, announcing his change of plans, that "conditions in California are very unsettled."

Regarding the many messages of condemnation and praise for his attitude, the Governor said that criticism was to be expected. He added:

"Those criticizing me do not realize what would have happened had the National Guard moved in and had mowed down innocent citizens."

The Governor admitted that his threat to turn over all kidnapers in San Quentin and Folsom prisons to the people of San Jose for punishment was not to be taken literally. He praised Sheriff William J. Emig and other officers for their efforts to save Thurmond and Holmes.

OFFICERS IN HOSPITAL

Sheriff Emig and Deputy Sheriff Howard Buffington, who were knocked down as they attempted to stem the advance of the enraged mob, remained in a hospital. Dr. H. J. Arnold, the attending physician, said both were injured seriously.

United States Attorney H. H. McPike, who obtained federal grand jury indictments against the two men in San Francisco on charges of using the mails to extort, declared:

"In this case, bestiality has taken the place of civilization."

Justice of the Peace Chester W. Moore, before whom Thurmond and Holmes were to have been arraigned yesterday on charges of kidnaping Hart and throwing him into San Francisco Bay, closed his records with the following notation:

"The above entitled action terminated by the unofficial hanging of the above defendants in St. James Park, November 26, 1933."

Thurmond's relatives, after expressing belief he was insane and issuing a statement condemning the lynching, claimed the body. Holmes' father, Maurice Holmes, while reiterating belief in his son's innocence, had not claimed the body.

BOY RE-ENACTS LYNCHING, DIES

International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28.—Eleven-year-old Leo Almond, Jr., who had listened wide-eyed to tales of the lynching of the kidnapers of Brooke Hart, was dead today, a victim of his self-devised game of "hanging," according to police.

In the cellar where his mother sent him to play yesterday afternoon Leo found some twine, a piece of clothesline, an old pair of trousers and his express wagon.

He tied his feet with the twine. He fastened one end of the rope to a rafter and made a noose of the other. Standing on the express wagon, he slipped the old pair of trousers over his head as a hood and placed the noose about his neck.

He probably intended to shout for his mother and his sister, Helen, and perhaps frighten them, police said, but the wagon rolled away from under his feet. The trousers muffled his cries for help.

St. Rosalia Players Appear in Comedy

St. Rosalia Players presented "Incognito," a comedy in three acts, before a crowded house in St. Rosalia's Lyceum, Greenfield avenue and Lydia street, last night. They will repeat the performance this evening. In the cast are Joan Deely, Ruth Flannery, Irene Logue, Peggie Butler, Mary Donahue, Mary C. Moxley, Dan Dolan, Thomas Deely, Thomas Reilly, Thomas Monahan, John Flynn and Jack Al Gallagher.

Twins Born to Kin Of Brooke Hart

SAN JOSE, Cal., Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Just a few hours after the kidnap-slaying of their son, Brooke Hart, was avenged by lynchers, Mr. and Mrs. Alex J. Hart were informed of the birth of twin grandnieces in a San Jose hospital yesterday.

The mother is Mrs. Simon Town, San Jose merchant's wife and niece of Mrs. Hart.

only temporarily, and again they surged forward.

Brig. Gen. Milton A. Reckord, the state adjutant general, then went outside the armory and made a brief speech, asking the crowd to get back. He was greeted with jeers.

Firemen from the nearby station house also joined and sprayed water in the general direction of the crowd.

LEAVE BY BUS

After more than hour, with the mob still threatening, the state troopers marched from the armory and entrained on the buses in which they had come.

The prisoners were: William Thompson, 33, a Princess Anne druggist, who had been a member of the Coroner's jury conducting an investigation of the lynching; Irving Adkins, 30, of Princess Anne, a special officer on Saturday nights; William P. Hearn, of Shad Point, a trucker, and William S. McQuay, of Pocomoke City, a chain store operator.

Gov. Ritchie was ill in Annapolis, but news of the attack of the crowd in Salisbury was taken to him and he announced he would call for additional troops if Gen. Reckord asked for them.

GOVERNOR CRITICIZED

At the same time in Annapolis, where the State Legislature is in special session, members of the Eastern Shore delegation criticized Gov. Ritchie bitterly for sending troops.

Senator Dudley G. Roe, a Democrat, called a meeting of Eastern Shore members for this afternoon.

After the troops left, the crowd continued to make a boisterous demonstration. Two automobiles were overturned, one of them catching fire. Part of the men gathered outside and could be heard making threats against reporters.

The reporters were taken out by a side entrance. The automobile which was damaged by fire was said to belong to a Washington newspaperman.

As the soldiers moved on the county, the Adkins home was the first visited. Adkins surrendered without difficulty, the officers reported. Then Thompson was arrested, after objecting at first to the disturbance. Hearn was arrested at a house in Salisbury. The officers would not reveal at whose home he was found. McQuay was the last captured.

All the prisoners were taken from their beds and were brought to the Salisbury Armory to be held. They were placed under special guard in a small room in the building.

As soon as they were locked up, some of the prisoners asked for attorneys. Attorney General Lane informed them they would be granted ample opportunity to have counsel before any arraignment.

According to Gen. Reckord, preliminary plans called for an arraignment at Princess Anne before a magistrate.

11 MURDER MOB SUSPECTS HELD

GREENVILLE, S. C., Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Eleven alleged members of a white-robed and hooded band which on the night of November 16 killed George Gree, a 73-year-old Negro, had been rounded up today, and officers promised additional arrests.

The total of arrests was brought to 11 yesterday with the detention of C. M. Suttles, an insurance agent; H. E. Cook, a truckman; James S. Allison, a textile worker, and John Cureton, foreman of a reforestation gang. They were charged with murder.

Suttles was later released on a $2,000 bond.

The motive for the slaying of the aged Negro has never been disclosed, other than that he had some sort of a "disagreement" with some of his white neighbors a few days before.

Doctors advise VITAMIN A for CHILDREN'S coughs and colds

Now you get it in Smith Bros. Cough Syrup

Mother! Surely you know how important vitamins are for your child!

But do you know that there is one vitamin which can save your child from much of the misery of coughs and colds! One vitamin that can build up your child's resistance against re-infection! That is Primary Vitamin A. Doctors call it the "Anti-Infective" vitamin.

This Primary Vitamin A has now been added to Smith Brothers Cough Syrup. It is the same precious substance that Nature supplies in whole milk, butter, carrots . . . but in Smith Brothers Cough Syrup you get concentrated quantities of it.

Now when your child takes Smith Brothers', it first gets quick cough relief. Smith Brothers Cough Syrup soothes the throat . . . loosens phlegm . . . clears the air passages.

Then its Primary Vitamin A does two wonderful things.

It aids Nature in DRIVING the cough and cold out of the system faster. And it raises the child's resistance against re-infection.

Even delicate children—with whom every cold was a long siege—now can throw off the infection faster. And they are also strengthened against new coughs and colds.

Smith Brothers' is the ONLY cough syrup giving the priceless benefits of Primary Vitamin A. Children like its taste. Get a bottle today. Only 35c. . . . (Smith Brothers Cough Drops also contain Primary Vitamin A.)

Note to Doctors: 10,000 A.D.M.A. units of Vitamin A (Biologically tested Carotene) have been added to every bottle of Smith Bros. Cough Syrup. For literature please write Smith Bros., Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

PLAIN FACTS About the Cost of GAS HEAT

1

To heat your home with cheap fuel—just because it is cheap and without regard to the convenience, cleanliness and healthfulness of it—is like buying the cheapest suit you can find without regard to tailoring, fit or service.

2

When you consider fuel cost alone, Gas Heat does cost more. But in terms of comfort, convenience, cleanliness, healthfulness and freedom from furnace drudgery, it is, as hundreds of families will tell you, one of the best investments you can possibly make. Up-to-date Gas Burning equipment, with its much greater efficiency, cuts the cost of Gas Heat considerably as compared with older, less efficient equipment. Don't just assume that Gas Heat is expensive. Get the actual facts, from your own Gas Company, for your own home and on the basis of modern efficient equipment—and very likely you'll be surprised at its low cost. Estimates are furnished free—with no obligation whatsoever.

You can now enjoy Gas Heat—without one cent of investment for equipment—on the new Burner-Rental Plan. Under this plan a Gas Conversion Burner is installed in your present boiler or furnace—in just a few hours. You pay nothing for the equipment—and nothing for the installation. The only charge is a small monthly rental. Ask your Gas Company for details of this remarkable new Burner-Rental Plan—or send in the coupon below.

SHERIFF LEADS; OTHER BALLOT TOTALS GIVEN

Sheriff Frank I. Gollmar today remained apparent winner in the contest to retain his office, as official figures on three questions—blue laws, repeal and the amendments—were made public.

Two boroughs and four townships were revealed in the column banning Sunday sports, the official returns today indicated. One borough cast a tie vote. The two boroughs turning thumbs down on the Sunday athletic program were Ben Avon and Oakdale. Ben Avon Heights vote was tied at 52-52. Fawn, Findlay, Franklin and Richland were the townships voting negatively on the proposal.

With 941 out of 942 districts returned, Gollmar had a lead of 525 votes over his Democratic opponent, John Heinz. This is exclusive of the "hijacked" Eighth District of the Seventeenth Ward and some 47 districts to be recounted.

WITHHOLD DECISION

Decision as to whether the remaining votes in the Eighth of the Seventeenth shall be counted will probably not be made until after the recount is completed. Corrections from 18 recounted districts are included in the return board totals, which give:

Gollmar 166,747
Heinz 166,222

Belief in the eventual victory of Heinz was nevertheless expressed by his counsel, Alexander P. Lindsay, although he declined to state specific cause. Other Democratic attorneys shared his confidence.

The return board closed yesterday and the personnel of the recount board was to be doubled today, making 10 tables. The sheriff question will not be definitely settled until this board adjourns; and not then if contests are filed.

Figures on repeal were rushed through first in order to be certified in time for the Harrisburg convention. Fifteen delegates for and against received the following votes:

FOR REPEAL
Robert K. Cassatt	289,757

Elder Assumes Wilkinsburg Post

Tax Collector Walter K. Elder, of Wilkinsburg, who was reelected last month, has been recommissioned after posting the $50,000 bond required of his office, council members were informed at last night's meeting. Elder had previously resigned the office after his right to collect taxes without bond was questioned.

Fred Mechling was appointed a borough firemen by council at the meeting.

Woman Robbed En Route to Party

En route to a card party, Mrs. D. C. Connell, of 411 Hastings street, was held up last night in Dallas avenue, near Edgerton avenue and robbed of $10, rosary beads and valuable papers, she reported to police.

DRY VOTE MUST STAND ALONE

Judge Samuel H. Gardner has dismissed the petition of Burgess James H. Rose, of Braddock, who sought to have his vote received for Burgess on the Prohibition ticket, consolidated with other party votes polled.

Judge Gardner took the action after collaborating with Judge James R. Macfarlane. Rose contended he appeared on the Prohibition ticket as just James Rose and that the votes were meant for him. The court ruled it was without authority to grant the request.

Judge Gardner also refused to accumulate the votes cast for Alexander Saunders, candidate for Township Commissioner of the Eighth Ward, Stowe Township, for the same reasons as decided in the Rose case.

Unofficial returns indicated that Rose had won the contest by 16 votes. A recount of three boxes, however, already had changed the result to a loss for Rose by 6 votes. Twelve Prohibition votes were at stake and under the decision he apparently has lost by 18.

Two Men Injured By Skidding Auto

A new auto skidded on Second avenue, near the Glenwood Bridge, and hit a pole causing injury to two men early today. They were Robert Becker, 24, of 121 Tecumseh street, and John Aiellio, 28, of 38 Genesta street. Both were treated at Homeopathic Hospital. The machine was wrecked.

One Sure Way to End Coughs and Colds

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, and attacks the seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Your own druggist is authorized to refund your money on the spot if your cough or cold is not relieved by Creomulsion.

—With—

Patricia Pitt

Betty, who has held many a bride's bouquet for her during the ceremony, will be married January 6.

She's named that date—Saturday, January 6—for her marriage to George Warren Wyckoff, son of the George W. Wyckoffs, of Elmira, N. Y.

Church Wedding

The ceremony will take place in picturesque Episcopal Church of the Ascension that afternoon at 5:30 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. Boyd Edwards is the rector.

Betty was a bridesmaid at the wedding last August of Lucretia Billings, daughter of Mrs. Frederic Tremaine Billings, and Dr. A. Murray Fisher, of Baltimore.

And she was a bridesmaid at the wedding of petite Frances Reed and James Chambers McKay in June, 1932, and at the wedding of Elizabeth Wells and Rowland Erving in June of 1931. And at goodness knows how many ceremonies which I don't recall offhand.

Betty's engagement was announced last summer at a luncheon in the McKays' summer place, "Strathy Lodge," in Beaumaris, Muskoka Lake, Canada.

Debut Guest

One of our debs, Antoinette Vilsack, daughter of the Maurice Vilsacks, will be off early Thanksgiving morning—right after the Cinderella Ball—for South Orange, N. J.

There, on Thanksgiving night, she'll attend the debut ball of Gertrude Jones and Dean Smith, who studied with Tony in Europe.

Saturday she'll attend the Yale-Princeton game, and she'll be away altogether a week or 10 days.

* * *

To Bow Dec. 27

December is as decked with debut dates as a Christmas tree with gifts. Here's a new one—the Estep T. Gotts, of Glen Osborne, will present their daughter, Frances, at a tea in the Edgeworth Club December 27, from 4 to 6 o'clock. Frances is a Wellesley student.

* * *

There's a display of the handweaving done by the Tenafly Weavers at Winchester School—the dates November 27 to December 4. And the hours 10 to 5 each day.

* * *

Traveler Betty Kennedy, daughter of the J. J. Kennedys, will be home tomorrow from Winnipeg, where she's been visiting Eleanor Breen and reveling in winter sports.

* * *

Mrs. Reed Brown will sail again for France—Wednesday on the Berengaria. There she'll meet some friends, go with them to Egypt. She left her two little daughters, Millicent and Betty, with her parents, the W. Edgar Reeds. After her trip, Mrs. Brown will return to pay a longer visit than this one, only a few days, to her family.

Patronesses Named for Benefit

A number of patronesses have already been announced for the benefit being given by the women's guild of St. Bede's Church on Saturday in the Hotel Schenley.

Among those giving their support are Mrs. James Burns, Mrs. John Buchel, Mrs. Henry Carr, Mrs. Maurice Carroll, Mrs. R. Bryson, Mrs. William Barton, Mrs. Alfred Dean, Mrs. Clyde Dovespike, Miss Margaret Durham, Mrs. A. A. Dillon, Miss Elizabeth Enright, Mrs. Joseph Ey and Mrs. E. J. Farrell.

Others include Mrs. Glenn Farrell, Mrs. Joseph Fisher, Mrs. Leo Flynn, Mrs. John Freyvogel, Mrs. Harry Friday, Mrs. Otto Fuessenegger, Mrs. H. L. Gleason, Mrs. William Geier, Mrs. Morris Grent, Mrs. William Hager, Mrs. Joseph Hetherington, Mrs. Sidney Hart, Mrs. William Jacobe, Miss Anne Kenny, Mrs. Harold Lawson, Mrs. R. F. Leonard, Mrs. George Ley, Mrs. Roger Loughney, Mrs. H. B. Loxterman and Mrs. Herbert Mansman.

Among the other names on the patroness list are those of Mrs. Edward Malloy, Mrs. A. V. Merriman, Mrs. Robert Maloney, Mrs. J. P. Malone, Mrs. Lillian Moore, Mrs. Louis Monteverde, Mrs. Frank Murto, Miss Blanche Munhall, Mrs. J. J. McCague, Mrs. H. J. McCarthy, Mrs. J. J. McKenna, Mrs. Martin McMahon, Mrs. John McNutty, Mrs. James McShane, Mrs. Arthur McSorley, Mrs. A. McTighe, Mrs. R. W. Neyhart, Mrs. F. A. Piekarski, Mrs. W. H. Powderly, Mrs. Irving D. Ross, Miss Ella Ryan, Mrs. J. T. Ryan, Mrs. R. A. Speer, Mrs. M. Welsh and Mrs. Thomas Young.

Mather Discusses 'New Movement' In Art World

The "new movement" in art (which is no longer very new, as it was started 40 or 50 years ago) is not something intended just to annoy others, Frank Jewett Mather, professor emeritus of art and archaeology at Princeton University, told the Twentieth Century Club yesterday in his talk on "Some Aspects of Modern Art."

When a whole generation seems to go mad, it does so for a reason that seems good in its own eyes, he said. Prejudices represent a dangerous part of personality and are the indulgence of a bad intellectual and moral habit, he remarked, adding that judgment should be suspended until the subject is carefully studied and an attempt at understanding is made.

The modernists have a case and what they do is based on rationality, but not necessarily on sense, Prof. Mather said, going on to show the changes that have taken place in art from the time Matisse and Picasso painted the first pictures in the modern movement.

Many schools have risen and died in the last decade; outstanding today is the Paris School which is split into two groups, one tending to cubism and the other aiming to restore spirituality to painting.

Sewickley Women See 'One Woman Theater'

Helen Howe brought her "one-woman theater"—herself, to the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club yesterday and gave a most entertaining performance of original sketches after the Cornelia Otis Skinner-Ruth Draper fashion. The majority of her "Character Sketches and Caricatures" were amusing, such as a French class and a scene in a beauty parlor which she called 'Skin Deep."

But "Those in Peril," a serious little opus depicting the reaction of five different persons to an accident on an ocean liner was the most dramatic and probably the best-liked of the afternoon. In it, too, she showed her greatest histrionic talent.

Former Greensburg Girl To Marry Army Officer

An early 1934 wedding is planned by Miss Sara Elizabeth Welty, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Maurice D. Welty, of Fort Benning, Ga., formerly of Greensburg, whose engagement to Lieut. Charles E. N. Howard, Jr., son of Col. E. N. Howard, Army, retired, and Mrs. Howard, of Washington, was announced recently.

Lieut. Howard was graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point in 1931. He has since served in the 83rd Field Artillery of Fort Benning.

Bride-Elect Honored At Greensburg Party

Mrs. P. B. Keslar, of Greensburg, recently entertained in her home in honor of her niece, Miss Mabel Cramer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Cramer, of New Stanton, Pa. Miss Cramer's betrothal to Lieut. J. Woodward Mullin, of Mt. Pleasant, has recently been announced. The marriage will be solemnized during the holiday season.

B. P. W. Will Help Idle Prepare For Work

That 1,350 clubs of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs will do their part in keeping idle business women employable has been announced by Mrs. Celine MacDonald Paterson, national president of the federation, returning from the White House conference at which 40 women leaders considered the problem of America's unemployed women.

Decided emphasis was placed upon the necessity of helping unemployed women in overcrowded fields to develop new techniques. In answer to this need Mrs. Bowman pledged business and professional women throughout the country to co-operate with local relief agencies by giving information regarding their own fields to unemployed women to the end that the latter may be prepared for readsorption into the business world.

It is understood that 10 outstanding business women, recently appointed by Mrs. Bowman to act as chairmen of national committees, will help to guide the work. They are Miss Josephine Schain, of New York; Mrs. Carol Willis Hyatt, Chicago, Ill.; Dr. Minnie L. Maffet, Dallas, Tex.; Dr. Grace H. Beardsley, Baltimore, Md.; Miss Mary Stewart, Washington; Miss Marion H. McClench, Ann Arbor, Mich.; Miss Rose Gilgan, Boise, Ida.; Mrs. Rosa E. Cunningham, Des Moines, Ia.; Miss Margaret Stewart, Ogden, Utah, and Dean M. Beatrice Olsen, Grand Forks, N. D.

Pittsburgh Girls Named on Hood Commission

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Ohio Valley General Hospital will sponsor a bridge-luncheon Friday in the Home-Makers' Guild Hall, 911 Penn avenue, Pittsburgh, with a 1 o'clock luncheon.

Mrs. J. H. Humes, president of the society; Mrs. George Geisler, chairman, and Mrs. H. J. Goodrich, Mrs. James J. Westwood, Mrs. Marie Eckles and Mrs. John J. Sonnett as aides, will be in charge.

Calendar for December Promises Interisting City Club Affairs

MRS. CHARLES M. BREGG.

Calendars listing December events went to Woman's City Club members today informing them of several worth while events for the month. First is the drama luncheon on Saturday, at which Miss Mary Ward, of the Civic Repertory Company, will be honor guest and speaker. The luncheon, by the way, is not restricted to members of the department, but is open to all members of the club.

On Saturday of next week comes the drama luncheon with a display of Christmas books and a discussion of them by Mrs. Theodore O. Harris, a club member. Dr. Harvey Gaul is speaker for the music luncheon on the thirteenth of the month. Miss Edith Bane's new Century of Progress pictures and talk, which were postponed from last month, will be given on the fourteenth after the buffet supper which is under Miss Karen Fladoes' chairmanship.

The sixteenth will bring an afternoon bridge party, then on Sunday, the seventeenth, comes the big event of the month, the Christmas musicale, to be given by the club choral under Mrs. Taylor Allderdice's direction. Also Christmasy in spirit will be the open house and bridge the evening of the twenty-first, the concluding event.

Ethel Goldman Married to A. W. Golomb

Miss Ethel Goldman, daughter of Isaac Goldman, of Bartlett street, and Albert W. Golomb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Golomb, were married Sunday evening in the home of the bride's father by Rabbi Goodman A. Rose. Only the two families attended the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Golomb have sailed for Bermuda and Nassau for their honeymoon.

THE BRIGHT AND SHINING BODICE

By PRUNELLA WOOD

EVERYBODY is so sold on the notion of better times after the lean years that even the informal little afternoon gowns, and hats that go shopping in the morning, have taken on a bit of metal here and there, in fabric or hardware trimming.

It is no longer a social misdemeanor to dress up a bit, for the very sound reason that, aside from the optimism in the air, a twist of lame costs very little more, if any, than a twist of velvet ribbon, and a rhinestone clip costs not a penny more than one made of mother of pearl or dull enamel.

Just about the best way of enjoying all this new freedom is to invest in a shirtwaist sort of frock, with a light lame top and a skirt of some dark crepe. Some models are good from noon till midnight. Others, more formal, shine from dinner time till dawn.

(Copyright, 1933, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Mt. Lebanon Republican Club Plans Christmas Party for Children

Arrangements for the Christmas party to be given for the children of Mt. Lebanon on December 20 at the Municipal Building have been made by the officers of the Mt. Lebanon Woman's Republican Club.

The program of entertainment will be varied, consisting of solo and duet dances by Miss Virginia Brooks, Miss Nancy Rohrkaste, Miss Harriet Rohrkaste and Miss Mary White, and selections by a trio, Stewart Braden, Bob Orrell and Jimmy Rudge.

The Mt. Lebanon Fireman's Band will furnish the music and Mrs. E. Gealy will lead the caroling. The Mt. Lebanon commissioners will donate the tree, Santa Claus and a magician will lend their services and there will be gifts for each child.

Luncheon Will Follow Friday Club's Lecture

This week's greeting committee for the Friday Morning Club is Mrs. Carl Behrhorst, Mrs. D. C. Swander, Mrs. C. G. Dunnells, Mrs. Lydia Ley, Mrs. R. V. Beckett and Mrs. B. L. Winner. Following the lecture a luncheon will be held at the Hotel Schenley with Mrs. Ida Wright Bowman, the speaker, as honor guest. Miss Esther Smith will be luncheon hostess.

Salvation Army Unit to Give Yule Party

The Woman's Advisory Council of the Salvation Army is planning a Christmas festival of music, to be given in the army auditorium, Boulevard of the Allies, on Tuesday evening, December 19. On the committee of arrangements are Mrs. J. B. Nicklas, Jr., Mrs. H. J. Fox, Mrs. Jesse D. Bowers and Mrs. Paul Heverly.

H. J. Fox, director of the vested choir at St. Stephen's Episcopal Church, Wilkinsburg, and Miss Marianne Genet, organist-composer, will direct the festival, and the Rev. Dr. William Porkess will speak.

Through the Spyglass
Viewing the New

Tomorrow is the day when all goodly souls are going to spare a thought or two for the question of the Thanksgiving dinner. So we have raked up a special item for you . . . that you can get tomorrow. Just call Grant 6500 and ask for the Spyglass . . . or send a stamped self-addressed envelope for a reply on the other items.

* * *

Newest arrival in the manicure family! A cuticle remover soap . . . so recently born of someone's brain that it has just appeared in New York! And just what we've needed for lo, these many ye-ars! Comes in a large jar (like cold cream) . . . and is easy to use! Smooth it on over raggedy cuticle or hang-nails . . . let it remain for a minute or two . . . then rub away FROM the nail. You'll find your "paddies" are considerably improved in neat grooming. $1.

Incidentally . . . the fairy godmother who thought this up has whispered some advice into our ear . . which we're passing along to you. About this thing of nail polish! ALWAYS (says this oracle) buff your nails with powder polish BEFORE applying liquid polish. Powder polish comes in little cases like compacts . . . silvery ones . . . and costs 75c.

* * *

Now here's our news about the Thanksgiving dinner whoopee that we promised you! Mince pies . . . with no aftermath of "goblins with green glass eyes" . . . homemade to the last raisin! And you know how a mince pie is . . . VERY VERY good or VERY VERY terrible! Therefore . . . say we . . . this is a grand special, coming as it does, from one of the most widely known pastry specialists in the city! Huge pies . . . filled to the brim with juicy mincemeat that's REAL! 60c.

* * *

Imagine our amazement when we met "Moon Mullins" face to face! And Popeye not far off!

These were just a couple of the little wooden figures with flexible arms, neck and legs fastened to the bases of some children's nursery lamps. One of the shops has them . . . the lamps . . . for the humble sum of $1.45. And your little Jimmy would probably go to bed a lot faster and more calmly if left with Krazy Kat staring down at him from under the lamp! Every lamp with matchingly decorated, parchmentized shade. Bedroom colors.

* * *

* * *

And supposing that Thanksgiving will not be entirely spent in the interests of your tummy . . . we suggest a wave for the sundry events which will be sure to take place over the holiday!

A certain beauty shop we know is offering a 3-day special . . . beginning tomorrow, Wednesday, and continuing over Friday and Saturday. The idea being that you have a chance to go beautiful for Thanksgiving, or the week-end . . . as you choose. Finger Waves and Marcels are both reduced to 35c apiece . . . and knowing as we do, that this shop gives quality work par excellence . . . we advise all you un-curled ones to gallop in there as soon as your little legs will take you!

PITTSBURGH'S ORIGINAL BARGAIN BASEMENT

Walter Winchell ON BROADWAY

(Owing to the illness of Walter Winchell, this column is being written by Paul Yawitz until Mr. Winchell returns.)

Things That Get Into My Hair!

That if you grab a crocodile by the jaws and place your head inside his mouth, he can not bite you.

(But what the crocodile wants to know is, what is there to stop you from biting him?)

That in Babylonia, 4000 years ago, all the saloon-keepers were women.

(The next improvement will be when they can hear through their bridge-work.)

That you can not skate on glass if it is smoother than ice.

That you can produce more notes on a violin with only four strings than on a piano.

That, according to Enric Madriguera, the Escorial—burial place of Spain's kings—had provisions for a limited number of caskets when it was built. And that when X-King Alphonse dies he will be brought back to Spain to occupy, strangely enough, the LAST empty casket provided for.

That Dr. Johnson, who was an epicure as well, (on the word of his faithful Boswell) once offered a toast to an unusually appetizing portion of cheese.

(I usually offer a cracker.)

That the expression "baker's dozen" came into use during early days when fines were imposed for short weights and bakers added an extra unit to be on the safe side—a practice completely in disrepute today!

That kissing as a form of greeting and effection is comparatively recent, and that the Japanese and Chinese never practice it.

(But that girl I had out last night didn't look like an Oriental!)

That there's one animal living that lays eggs as a bird. It is the duck-billed platypus of Australia.

That the $12,000 organ recently installed by the now defunct Amalgamated Broadcasting Company (Ed Wynn's) was purchased for $1,000 by the Hotel Edison so that one of its famous guests could practice on it.

That some self-winding clocks are worked by the changes in temperatures and others by the changes in the pressure of the air.

That you can tell whether jewelry is made of platinum or silver by touching nitric acid to the back of it. If it is platinum, it will not be affected.

That a metal named osmium is the heaviest substance known ...and the lightest is hydrogen gas. The lightest metal is lithium.

That half of Broadway is in the Hudson River, having been dumped there when the street was paved.

(The other half is in my hair.)

That the poisonous fangs of a snake are used secondarily as a means of defense. Their prime purpose is to kill food.

(So when you're dying, console yourself that the snake meant no harm.)

That automobile tourists smoke more pipe-fulls than they do cigarettes. And that pipe heels cause more forest fires than either cigar or cigarette butts.

(What do you expect of a heel?)

That permanent waves were first used in 700 B. C. The hair was first set in waves, the head was then covered with red clay, and baked in the sun for four hours. To extricate themselves from the hardened clay, they struck themselves on the head with hammers.

That the first news-sheet printed in English appeared not in England, but in Amsterdam, Holland, Dec. 2, 1620.

That one of the largest-selling items in the Harlem drug stores during the past Summer was sunburn lotion. Contrary to general belief, colored people are very sensitive to the sun and burn easily.

That a man lived exclusively on cheese for twenty years—and liked it so much that a book was written about it. The man was Zoroaster, and the scribe was Pliny.

That because the Bible does not state specifically what the "forbiden fruit" was, many people in the East have interpreted it to be the banana.

(And not the raspberry?)

That the goose will stick to one mate throughout the latter's lifetime.

(Which gives origin to the expression "the silly goose.")

That a baby cannot shed tears until he is at least 3 months old.

So if your kid is under 90 days and is wetting his eyes with tears, take him aside and explain the mistake he's making!

New Screen Programs

Spencer Tracy, Colleen Moore and Ralph Morgan have featured roles in "The Power and the Glory," now playing in the Family. It is a story of a track walker who becomes a railway president.

* * *

Janet Gaynor plays the title role in "Paddy, the Next Best Thing," opening Wednesday in the Fulton. Miss Gaynor is the young sister of Margaret Lindsay, who makes love to Warner Baxter to save her sister from a marriage she thinks would turn out badly.

* * *

Katharine Hepburn, Joan Bennett, Frances Dee and Jean Parker have leading roles in "Little Women," photoplay opening Thursday in the Stanley. In an idealistic atmosphere it pictures joys and sorrows of the heroines of the Louisa M. Alcott book.

* * *

James Dunn, June Knight, Cliff Edwards, Lillian Roth, Charles "Buddy" Rogers and Lillian Bond have the principal roles in "Take a Chance," a musical comedy opening Thursday in the Warner.

* * *

Slim Summerville, Andy Devine and Leila Hyams are featured in "Horse Play" comedy coming Thursday to the Davis and Sheridan Square screens.

* * *

Dance to Honor Polish War Hero

Commemorating the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the naturalization of Thaddeus Kosciuszko, Polish-American hero of the Revolutionary War, a celebration and dance will be held by Group 1967, Polish National Alliance, at Blaine Hall, Elizabeth, Thursday. Ceremonies will begin at 3 p. m.

Oakie Takes Mother On Vacation

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 28.—Hollywood will not be seeing Jack Oakie's cheerful grin for weeks to come. The comedian has sailed for Honolulu, accompanied, of course, by his mother, Mrs. Evelyn Offield.

It will be the first real vacation they've had together in a long time. When Jack was a little boy his mother taught school to support them, and he often had to board away from her. During these later years of Jack's prosperity film work has kept him in Hollywood.

But now he has seven weeks, and he and his mother don't intend to report back to the cinema capital until January 10.

Come to think of it, a surprising number of Paramount players are vacationing. Gary Cooper is in New York, Charles Laughton, Randolph Scott and Cary Grant are in England, and Herbert Marshall will be there by the holidays. Not forgetting Miriam Hopkins, who has gone to New York to do a play.

* * *

Donald Cook was much upset over the stories that he and Mary Brian had fallen out. To friends at the Columbia studio, he insisted it was all a misunderstanding, that he and Mary still love each other.

And there must have been a reconciliation of some sort, for the two of them were dancing at the Cocoanut Grove the other night.

* * *

If you can believe Dorothy Dell, she doesn't even intend to see Russ Columbo while she is in Hollywood. Their engagement was washed up, she says, when Russ fell for that Greta Garbo rib in New York. Remember? They framed the crooning star into believing that Greta, then playing hide and seek with reporters on Broadway, was anxious to meet him. He sent her flowers and tried to reach her for days.

* * *

Although he firmly believed that minstrels are coming back to their old glory, Edward J. Winterburn got tired of waiting for them. The 73-year-old man, who once toured Europe with the Barlow and Winterburn minstrels, died here Sunday in the General Hospital.

For seven years he had been a sweeper in the prop shop at the Paramount studio.

* * *

Ritziest of the stars, some call Katharine Hepburn, but you'll never get Jean Woodhall to agree to that. The little hairdresser at the RKO studio received a personal wire from Katharine telling her to go to New York to be with her during the run of her play, "The Lake."

Jean has dressed La Hepburn's hair ever since her first picture, "Bill of Divorcement." She became good friends with the actress, and often spoke of her desire to see Broadway.

Sunday night, as she boarded an airplane, the realization of her dreams was only a few hours away. She will remain with Katharine as long as the show runs.

With location work on "Heat Lightning" scheduled well into December, the diminutive director otherwise might have been a threadbare bridegroom.

* * *

Frances Dee and Joel McCrea are Hollywood's most devoted honeymooners since Joan Crawford and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. Joel takes her flowers every day . . . They'll tell you that Gene Raymond is sad over the engagement of Betty Edwards, local socialite. A while back, she and Gene were seen everywhere together . . . The Fifi Dorsay-Maurice Hill marriage is now scheduled for the middle of next week . . . Cynthia Hobart, daughter of Henry Hobart, is Russ Gleason's latest interest . . . Housekeeping in their new home is so attractive to Verna Hillie and her bridegroom, Frank Gill, Jr., that they've postponed their honeymoon trip for a week . . . While waiting for Douglas Fairbanks to start his picture, Tom Geraghty is writing a story for Harry D'Arrast in Madrid. Eleanor Boardman, who is supposed to wed D'Arrast around Christmas time, will play a part in the picture . . . The Perry Liebers, of RKO, are expecting a baby . . . It's to be a desert vacation for Bette Davis, who is feeling a little run down after her last picture . . . Now that they've bought "The Last Roundup" to use in "The Border Legion," Paramount is changing the title of the film to "Zane Grey's 'The Last Roundup.'"

Plays and Players

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

During the engagement of Eve Le Gallienne in Baltimore last week, a reporter seeking an interview found her busy training a small pig. It seems likely that she may have to train a succession of small pigs, as the answer to the problem of always having one small pig. Miss Le Gallienne wanted to find a piggie that would remain small for her tour of "Alice in Wonderland." It must be possible to find such a dwarfed pig. Dwarfed pigs do exist, as any farmer will testify. The question is just where to find one. A veterinarian, who was questioned about the matter, admitted that there were dwarfed pigs, but had no idea where to find one. Nor did the leading pet shops in New York. The general impression seemed to be that one might just happen to run into such an animal while strolling through the fields or that one might not. It was up to fate. But Miss Le Gallienne could not leave it to fate. She did not dare to take a chance that her tour would bring either a pigless performance or a performance in which there was too much pig. Both extremes would be close to a catastrophe. It was just at this point that a little bird whispered something to the effect that if you want to keep a man or beast small give him whisky. But the doctor said he could not approve of giving alcoholic assistance to an animal, no matter on what grounds. Which just about settled that matter. "Alice in Wonderland" will be in the Nixon next Monday night, December 4, and Tuesday and Wednesday nights, and Wednesday and Saturday matinees, with Josephine Hutchinson as Alice.

* * *

Tomorrow night Katharine Cornell will make her first appearance on any stage in Shakespeare in the Erlanger Theater, Buffalo, N. Y. She will act Juliet to the Romeo of Basil Rathbone. She is presenting her own version of the tragedy, which restores some scenes not included in recent American productions of "Romeo and Juliet." The drama will be given with only one intermission. Guthrie McClintic has staged the play. Woodman Thompson designed the settings and costumes, adapting some ideas of the Elizabethan theater. Charles Waldron will be seen as Friar Laurence.

* * *

Six of the 30 winners of Paramount's international "Search for Beauty" will remain in Hollywood under contract to the company following the completion of the production, "The Search for Beauty." They are Gwenlillian Gill, of Edinburgh, Scotland; Clara Lou Sheridan, of Dallas; Eldred Tidbury, of Johannesburg, South Africa; Julian Madison, of Minneapolis; Alfred Delcambre, of Dallas, and Colin Tapley, of New Zealand. Miss Gill and Tidbury, in addition, were awarded $1,000 cash each as a bonus for outstanding work in their roles in "The Search for Beauty."

Musical

Fan Dance Act In Variety

A fan dance is the piece de resistance of "Puss Puss," current in the Variety. Lola Bartrum, a former Ziegfeld "Follies" beauty, is the young woman who manipulates the two fans. Besides doing this sensational dance, Miss Bartrum appears again on the program of two acts and 44 scenes. The first is near the close of the first act. Evelyn Brooks and Bebe Tobin, two other young women on the bill, are Oriental steppers. There are two other dancers of the Gilda Gray type, Frances McAvoy and Diane Berton. "Puss Puss" has four comedians, headed by Eddie Kaplin. The others are Harry (Shuffle) Le Van, Sammy Clark and Johnny Barry. Kirk Brown, Albert Kaye, Ray Goss, Joan Maithe and Jean Carroll and the Mack Sisters, a dance team, are other principals of the show.

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

All In a Good Cause

ANDREW PERCH had a very real talent for tending to business. The only trouble in his case was that it was always some other person's business—instead of his own—that he took care of.

For Andrew had a burning passion to lighten other people's burdens. He fondly believed himself to be a friend of all humanity. Long before the NRA was ever heard of, Andrew was waging his own personal war against long hours and small pay for various classes of workers. During his lifetime he had espoused the causes of everything from worn-out work horses to child labor.

Occasionally, Mrs. Andrew Perch had a word or two to say in protest against the time and money her husband was devoting to his philanthropic activities. For Andrew was the proprietor of a small store that required much attention and received very little. But arguments hadn't even the slightest effect on the man.

"Someone has to do this work," he would point out. "Someone has to fight for the poor souls who are too beaten by this awful system that we call civilization to fight for themselves. And you must admit, Bessie, that it's all in a good cause."

And Bessie would sigh as she realized that her words were just so much wasted effort.

When Andrew was nearing his fiftieth birthday, he discovered a cause which he felt was sadly in need of his particular talents. At that time, his attention became focused upon the small army of charwomen who invaded the office building at night and toiled during the dark hours while the rest of the city was sleeping.

Andrew's heart, which had always been a trifle too soft for his own good, was wrung with sympathy for these women who eked out their existences in such a manner. His soul burned with indignation at the thought of their laboring night after night at such an occupation.

If his efforts at reform were earnest before, they were doubly so now that he had found a project into which he could throw himself heart and soul. He called upon newspaper editors and endeavored to secure their support in aiding the city's charwomen. He called upon politicians and begged them to help him.

If anyone listened to him at all, it was probably with the mental reservation that he was a trifle daffy. But rebuffs had never meant anything to Andrew. They merely kindled within him a greater enthusiasm, and strengthened his determination to carry on alone.

Bessie watched her husband toiling over his new project and she became genuinely troubled.

"You can't work yourself like this, Andrew," she told him. "You're going to be sick under this strain one of these days. And your business—what of that? Why, you've hardly even been near the store for the past week. Andrew, things can't go on like this."

"Anybody can run a store," he murmured. "This—this is different. Just think, Bessie, our goal is in sight at last. Soon things will be different. Those poor old women, mothers most of them probably, will have better pay and shorter hours. No amount of work I give for that end will be too great, eh, Bessie?"

"But what I say," his wife insisted, "is that you can't keep working under this pressure. You must let up a little, dear."

"Now there's nothing to worry about," Andrew stated. "I'll be all right." . . .

In this particular case, however, Bessie was right, and Andrew was wrong. But when he learned that, it was too late to do anything about it.

He had been delivering a talk on his pet subject one evening at a Federation of Women's Clubs a few miles from his home. It was a stormy night, and by the time he reached home, he was wet to the skin. The next day, he was unable to leave his bed, even though he protested that the cause needed him now more than ever.

Several newspapers carried long, and slightly false, accounts of his highly-successful career. He was spoken of in glowing terms as a great philanthropist, a great humanitarian. His drive for the charwomen of the city received, through his death, greater publicity than he had ever been able to secure for it while he was alive. His eulogies were many, and his funeral was an impressive affair.

After a few days had passed, however, the man and his activities were completely forgotten again. Then came the talk of straightening out his affairs. Things were found to be 'n a sad muddle. Throug' his neglect and the use or his personal funds for his last drive to aid humanity, Andrew had practically ruined himself.

Bessie Perch received the news with a resigned sigh. It was merely what she had expected for years . . .

At the present time, conditions are much the same as they have always been in Andrew Perch's community. Late at night, the large office buildings are invaded by a small army of charwomen, who toil in the dark hours while the rest of the city sleeps.

Now, however, there is a new face among them. Driven by necessity to earn a living in the only way she knows, Bessie Perch has become a charwoman . . .

HEINZ EX-WIFE CLAIM DENIED

Mrs. Sara Y. Frazer, of Los Angeles, divorced wife of Clifford S. Heinz, son of the founder of the H. J. Heinz Company, today had lost her suit in the Pennsylvania Supreme Court for the income from a $600,000 trust fund created for her by Heinz.

Heinz had the trustee of the fund, the Fidelity Title and Trust Company of Pittsburgh, enjoined from paying the income to the California woman. She appealed, contending that the Allegheny County Orphans' Court lacked jurisdiction over nonresidents of the state. Commenting that she had supplied a lengthy account of her "controversy" with Heinz, the Supreme Court ruled it irrelevant and dismissed the matter by upholding the serving of notice on the woman by mail.

In Probate Couort in Los Angeles, Mrs. Frazer yesterday filed a petition alleging that Heinz is failing to provide adequately for his three children.

The two were divorced in 1929 and Mrs. Frazer has since twice married.

CECIL ROBBERY SUSPECT HELD

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Arrest of Jack Mange, 35, in Canton, O., several days ago as the alleged leader of the armed trio that robbed the Cecil (Pa.) National Bank of $2,000 on November 16, was announced last night by police.

Mange, a resident of Canton and a former Washington man, was arraigned late yesterday on a robbery charge. He was held without bail.

Sergt. George F. Pierce, of the state police, said the man's arrest was not revealed sooner because of fear that it might hamper the hunt for his two alleged companions. The prisoner was returned to Washington County and lodged in the Canonsburg Jail several days ago.

Woman Passes Bad Check in Dress Shop

A woman accused of passing a worthless check in an East End dress shop last night, was sought by police today.

The woman purchased a dress for $9.98, offered a check for $16.50 in payment and received $6.52 in change, police said. Later it was discovered the check was worthless.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

Saves Good Money! No Cooking!

If you want the best cough remedy that money can buy, mix it at home. It costs very little, yet it's the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. To make syrup, use 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all, and gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money—a real family supply. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, clears the air passages, and thus ends a severe cough in a hurry.

Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, the most reliable healing agent for severe coughs. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

STAR'S ESCORT, EX-MATE CLASH

International News Service.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 28.—Reports of a one-punch fight between James Crofton, millionaire sportsman and former husband of Mona Rico, dark-eyed film star, and her escort, Robert Stockton, at an Agua Caliente (Mexico) hotel were confirmed here today by Crofton.

According to the reports, Stockton and Miss Rico entered the hotel dining room and were seated. Miss Rico walked to Crofton's table, and they chatted. Suddenly Stockton went to the Crofton table and directed a sizzling right hook at Crofton's jaw.

Miss Rico's shoulder deflected the blow somewhat. Crofton arose and plunged after Stockton who stumbled and fell, ending the encounter.

CUTS IN HEALTH WORK DENIED

A statement in an editorial in the current issue of Collier's that Pittsburgh "is cutting" its health budget $165,000 was denied today by St. Clair Cooper, chief clerk in the city's Health Department.

Cooper, who compiled the department's 1934 budget, said the budget for 1934 as submitted to Mayor John S. Herron is $2,056,000 and only $2,000 under the sum appropriated by Council for the department's 1933 expenses.

The Mayor, according to his secretary, William C. Stewart, has not made any changes in the department's 1934 estimates.

The Collier's editorial, entitled "Don't Drop Your Guard," warns that health service should not be cut.

Abbey Glass Received By New York Art Firm

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Two panels of medieval stained glass windows, apparently stolen from a French abbey by a woman copyist, were returned by William Randolph Hearst yesterday to the New York art dealer from whom he bought them in 1929.

Shipped from Mr. Hearst's California home the day it was discovered, the legitimacy of their possession was in doubt, they arrived at the headquarters of Demotte, Inc., 25 East Seventy-eighth street.

The French magistrate who investigated the case reported Saturday that Marguerite Hure, an expert commissioned to copy four panels from the Fecamp Abbey, had admitted substituting her copies for the originals in the old institution and then selling the originals to an American art dealer.

Incien Demotte, president of Demotte, Inc., said yesterday:

"I am shocked to learn that the panels which Demotte, Inc., sold to Mr. Hearst in 1929 had apparently been stolen from an abbey in France by the person who sold to Demotte, Inc.

"Demotte, Inc., purchased these panels in the best of faith without any advice as to where or how the seller had obtained these panels."

Demotte said he had not decided whether to sue the Paris expert, but asserted he would see that "Mr. Hearst gets a fair deal."

Ripley's Show Baffles Globe Trotter

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN
Sun-Telegraph Globe-Trotter

At Ripley's Odditorium.

After all these months of talking about Ripley's "Believe It or Nots" I finally got a chance to see some of the things Ripley cartooned and I've talked about—and frankly didn't believe.

You couldn't tell me there was such a thing as a man turning to stone or a human being with an alligator hide. But, confound it all, there must be . . . I just saw it, and to make sure that I wasn't seeing things I stayed long enough to see it twice.

Now it stands to reason that you might be mistaken the first time, but twice—never, not even if you came loaded with 3 (disappoint) 2—and I didn't.

There was the humorous heavy gentleman who pops his eye and then ogles the audience with his other peeper shut.

The thing that gave me the jitters was Singalee. Boy, can he take it—and how? He turns a blow torch on his body and doesn't bat an eyelash. Can it be done? I say no—but I saw it. Does that burn me up?

The Leopard Man was there, too. (I hope I don't dream tonight.) And I wouldn't care to dream much about the mule-faced woman, either. But she isn't the kind of [illegible] young man would dream [illegible].

They've got some pretty girls in the Odditorium, too. One of them swallows swords. And no foolin', they are swords what are swords. Where do they go? Search me, but they go down, down . . . and down. After that she gets "lit." No, not what you think; she gets that way with an electric bulb.

Then there's Medusa. Head and curls like Mae West—but a body like Baby Leroy.

I had better not forget the girl with the rubber skin and the man who put a big league baseball completely into a mouth that made Joe Brown's look like a cupid's bow. And there's a four-legged babe with three arms and an armless wonder shaved himself with his feet.

And so I came back to the office to get this all off by chest. And now you know something. I still don't believe it.

Local Highlights On WJAS Tonight

Paul Gannon sings "The Day I Found You," written by Mrs. Morgan B. Schiller, of Sewickley, as the feature of his 6:45 "Songs at Eventide."

Junior Patrol Mail Box

Are you in good health? Then no matter whether you have money or not, you are wealthy. That's something you can be thankful for. And almost every Junior Patrol member won't have a hard time finding many other things to be thankful for. Thanksgiving ought to be one of the most cheerful days of the year. Let's see what every Junior Patrol member can do to make it happy.

Junior

"We want to have a Junior Patrol club. Please send us our badges soon. We have sent in our names already. We have a meeting every Wednesday and Friday. We always save the Junior Patrol Mail Box until our meeting, then we get a person to read the Mail Box to our members. We do not have a complete club but we want to have a complete club soon. Tomorrow night we will have a meeting and try to find more members. After we get 12 members we will elect committees. I will try to get our pledges in soon."

We're sorry we can't send you and your members badges until we get pledges from each of your members, Helen. Just as soon as you send them in, we will send your badges. We are mighty glad to hear that you are so enthusiastic about having a club, and we know that as soon as you elect your captain you will begin having some very good times. We hope you won't forget either that a good Junior Patrol club does what it can to help others.

Jack Lambiotte, of 315 Charleston avenue, Clarksburg, W. Va., is a new member today. How about starting a patrol down there, Jack?

And now here's news of a new patrol. Its president is Sanford Carpe, of 5538 Jackson street, Pittsburgh, and he says:

"I have a club and the name of it is the Ten Musketeers. We have already elected a president and a treasurer. Please send my members badges and me a wrist band."

We are sending you yourself a badge, Sanford, but we can't send you the swell black and orange armband until we get the pledges for at least 10 of your members. You see, we have rules that we must get pledges, or copies will do instead, for at least 10 for the captain to get an armband. And we can't send the badges and memberships until each member signs the Junior Patrol pledge to help others.

George Seibel on 'Plays, Players'

George Seibel, literary and dramatic critic of the Sun-Telegraph, is heard over WCAE tonight at 7, in a discussion of Plays and Players.

The Globe Trotter, voice of the Sun-Telegraph and Hearst Metrotone News, broadcasts the day's news over WCAE-WJAS at 12:15, 2:15 and 6:30 p. m.

Radio Studio Audiences Annoying

By AIRCASTER

Radio fans seem to agree heartily that studio audiences are no bargain to the best interests of radio entertainment.

If we bear in mind that sponsors prefer to interest the hinterland rather than the urban audiences, as witness, for instance, the aim of the Cantor-Rubionoff routine, it seems a bit incongruous that encouragement should be given the crowds that flock to the studios to witness broadcasts.

Applause

Applause, the buzz of conversation, laughter, etc., frequently drown out the dialogue or music.

Every individual who attends a broadcast is immediately disillusioned because the microphones demand more attention than the witnesses, and sound-effects devices linger in the witnesses' memories.

To the outsider, applause seems, and often is, organized and forced and largely insincere or offered in return for free admission.

* * *

Weems for Lopez

Ted Weems will replace Vincent Lopez on the WJZ-KDKA show, at 7 Sunday nights, on December 10.

* * *

Descendants of the Pilgrims will be on the air Thanksgiving Day with a special broadcast in celebration of the landing at Plymouth Rock.

* * *

The program will originate at the famous Boston Bay boulder. Presented by the Plymouth Antiquarian Society at 5 p. m., over WCAE-NBC, it will consist of orchestral and choral music and a historical playlet.

Doc Peyton's orchestra, frequently heard over the air, comes to Pittsburgh this week for the Anatole Club's Thanksgiving dance at the Schenley, Thursday night.

KILLS COLDS IN A DAY

Now tens of thousands of people will tell you that the FASTER, SUREST WAY to get rid of a cold is to take two HILL'S COLD TABLETS and two glasses of water every few hours.

These wonderful little tablets give you such speedy relief—relief you can't obtain by less scientific methods—because they do the three things necessary to break up a cold. Wash poisons from system. Check fever and ease away ache and pain. Fight off cold germs. ALL AT ONCE. Thus your cold goes in a jiffy and you feel like a new person. Get rid of cold this proven, faster way. Ask druggist for HILL'S CASCARA QUININE in the RED TIN BOX.

HILL'S STOPS COLDS

The Best GRAY HAIR REMEDY IS MADE AT HOME

You can now make at home a better gray hair remedy than you can buy, by following this simple recipe: To half pint of water add one ounce bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound and one-fourth ounce of glycerine. Any druggist can put this up or you can mix it yourself at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained.

Barbo imparts color to streaked, faded or gray hair, makes it soft and glossy and takes years off your looks. It will not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off. Do not be handicapped by gray hair now when it is so economical and easy to get rid of it in your own home.

TO RELIEVE CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES

If you have Catarrhal Deafness or are hard of hearing or have head noises go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmint (double strength) and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and the mucus stop dropping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Anyone who has Catarrhal Deafness or head noises should give this prescription a trial.

"Complexion Curse"

She thought she was just unlucky when he called on her once—avoided her thereafter. But no one admires pimply, blemished skin. More and more women are realizing that pimples and blotches are often danger signals of clogged bowels—poisonous wastes ravaging the system. Let NR (Nature's Remedy) afford complete, thorough elimination and promptly ease away beauty-ruining poisonous matter. Fine for sick headache, bilious conditions, dizziness. Try this safe, dependable, all-vegetable corrective. At all druggists'—only 25c.

PITTSBURGH SUN-TELEGRAPH

Globe-Trotting

By LOUIS L. KAUFMAN

Hello, ladies and gentlemen:

Not that I want to compete with the original Believe It or Not man, but John Callaghan, one of the Brookline Globe Trotters, has a dog that chews gum.

Then there are Mrs. William Voeleger, Dormont, and Mrs. Bertha Probst, Lemington avenue, who last week for the thirty-fifth time celebrated their birthdays together. Each has moved innumerable times, but never so far apart that on their birthdays they didn't get together.

Fred Singer, McKeesport, asks whether a president or a governor must be a lawyer. No. President Roosevelt is a lawyer, but Herbert Hoover was not. Gifford Pinchot was only reading law when he was appointed to the conservation service.

I'm glad to see some of the boys suffer. They did jibe me over easy problems. Now they have that monkey question to work out and are they hollering? The nearest to a solution is from one who does not identify himself. All that he says is:

"I have an answer, but I want to see yours before I submit mine."

Swell chance he's got to get an answer from me. I couldn't work the problems even when they were simple. If no solution is forthcoming it will have to go down as one of the great unsolved mysteries.

A. Hangis and N. Bren have submitted the words to a song called "In the Parlor." I don't get that line—"A wickery—a stichery." I hope no one is taking advantage of me.

Sara M. takes up the defense of those two over-popular songs, "The Last Round-Up" and "The Big Bad Wolf." She says they may be monotonous, but are a real joy in comparison with all the love stuff that is sung.

H.E.N., Sheraden—Before you and your party undertake a visit to the Western Penitentiary, call up the warden and arrange for your visit in advance. There are times to visit and he will advise you when. It's not difficult.

M'NAIR COMBS SOUTH FOR 'GOOD DEMOCRAT'

POLITICS

Evans Mentioned for Two Cabinet Jobs

By MARK SHIELDS

The absence of Mayor-elect William N. McNair on a vacation tour of the South has not halted the cabinet tinkerers and their rumors about appointees Mr. McNair will make when he takes office January 1. But, with the exception of the assurance that Cornelius D. Scully is to be head of the city law department, these volunteer cabinet makers admit that they have little of substance to support their gossip.

Mr. Shields

One of the latest stories is that George Evans, real estate man, who withdrew as a Democratic councilmanic candidate in order to make room for William A. Magee, also on the Republican ticket, is to receive one of two jobs, director of the Department of Public Works or City Treasurer.

* * *

Evans On Tour With Mayor-Elect

Mr. Evans, who is touring the South with the Mayor-elect, has been one of McNair's closest friends for years. Their ideas on taxation are exactly parallel. Mr. McNair did not want Mr. Evans to retire from the ticket, and made quite an uproar when the Democratic organization leaders insisted in what they believed was an imperative move to strengthen their slate.

Mr. McNair has been quoted as practically threatening to quit the campaign over the incident, though he was persuaded out of that. But he felt the matter so keenly, and was so resentful at Evans taking a back seat, that after the election he is reported to have said that there would be no place in the Democratic cabinet for his old friend.

That expression, however, probably was more impetuous than final, and the chances all are that Mr. Evans will have something. It probably will not be Public Works, if the Democratic organization leaders have their way. That bureau offers the means for building a political organization, a project in which Mr. McNair has little interest.

* * *

Patronage Troublesome To Democratic Chiefs

This patronage question is troublesome to the Democratic chiefs. They are not accustomed to sitting in the dealer's chair, with something of a card-index of worthy and patriotic potential jobholders—which may be a good thing for the city.

But they are sharpening their sights, with the state's federal patronage under control, and the Pittsburgh city payroll about to be opened up. There is a look ahead to state affairs. The three-man Liquor Control Board, which is to have charge of state stores and the licensing of restaurants, hotels and clubs, is a case in point.

A. Marshall Thompson, one of the appointees, is a Democrat. The other two members will be Republicans. Terms will be six years, but on the first board one man will be named for two years, one for four and the other for six. The Democrats are hoping Mr. Thompson will get the four-year appointment. Then, should a Democrat become the next governor his party would secure control of the board in a year after inauguration, which would come in the middle of the term of the liquor commissioner named for two years.

If the Democrat in the new board gets the two-year term it will be three years after the next governor takes office before the opportunity would come to him to name two members of the board.

* * *

Grundy Faction For Goodnough

The Republicans say that the Democrats even have confident eyes on the Public Service Commission. Five commissioners have been named by Gov. Pinchot, but have not been confirmed. Some Republican legislative leaders say the Democrats do not want the names brought up for confirmation, figuring that these are choice potential plums for the minority party.

However, no blame can attach to the Democrats if these nominations are not considered. The committee in whose hands they lie is Republican-controlled, and it is general gossip that there are enough favorable Republican votes in the Senate—whatever the Democrats might do—to confirm at least two members if the chance to vote ever is offered.

The two commissioners in best position are reported to be C. Jay Goodnough, the chairman, and P. S. Stahlnecker, former secretary to Gov. Pinchot. The Grundy Republican faction is particularly eager to see Mr. Goodnough safely ensconced at the head of the commission, and there is a combination of sentiment for Mr Stahlnecker.

Gov. Pinchot, for old times sake, would like to see George W. Woodruff, his former attorney general, confirmed.

But there will be nothing doing unless the Committee on Executive Nominations knocks the key-dog out of the jam which refused to permit their consideration throughout the last regular session.

Robinson to Talk To Detroit Teachers

Maurice R. Robinson, of Pittsburgh, editor of Scholastic, national high school weekly, will address the Detroit School Principals' Association at a dinner-meeting in Detroit tonight.

He also will speak at a convention session of the National Council of Teachers of English in Detroit Friday.

WIDOW WANTS NESBIT NAME CLEARED

Counsel Plans Appeal On Sanctity of Trust Fund

H. Fred Mercer, attorney for the widow and three children of the late Harrison Nesbit, president of the closed Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A., prepared today to appeal from yesterday's decision of the State Supreme Court under which it is now indicated they receive only $349,233 out of the $828,000 insurance trust fund Nesbit created for their benefit.

Out of this the family must pay approximately $100,000 in accumulated interest.

While Mercer planned to base his appeal on the legal sanctity of the insurance trust fund, the family of the prominent banker want to ask the Supreme Court of the United States to clear his name of the implication of fraudulent conversion of assets contained in the decision of the state's highest court.

SUSTAINS TRUST

In effect, the decision sustains the legality of the insurance trust fund. The court decided, however, that Nesbit, when he added policies to it in 1929 and again in 1931, was insolvent. Thus it ordered the amounts of these policies withdrawn from the trust and applied to his debts.

First reports in Pittsburgh indicated that the Supreme Court decision, written by Justice William B. Linn, had sustained in its entirety the decision of Judge James H. Gray in Common Pleas Court, giving to the family all of the $828,000 insurance fund except $57,000.

Later news service dispatches stated the Supreme Court's affirmation of the lower court's decision was made with certain "modifications."

SOLVENCY QUESTIONED

The "modifications" concerned created the trust, and in 1929 and 1931 when he changed its provisions.

The banker's solvency in 1928, when the trust was created, was conceded. But William Watson Smith, counsel for 10 banks, creditors, contended that the banker was insolvent when, in 1929, he added policies totaling $255,000 to the trust, and in 1931 when additional policies totaling $23,000 were added. Previously these policies had been payable to the banker's estate, and, as such, became assets to apply on his debts.

Mercer, in argument before Judge Gray, contended that premiums on all the policies had been paid from Nesbit's salary of $50,000 a year as president of the bank, and that his annual income had approximated $160,000 over a

DR. KERR URGES ECONOMY AT MAYVIEW

Controller Demands Check on All Supplies

When City Council makes up the 1934 budget, City Controller James P. Kerr wants consideration to a program which he believes will effect economies.

Controller Kerr's program recommends a more active administrative supervision at Mayview with the view of securing careful operation in the handling of the supplies and materials delivered to the institution.

It is Dr. Kerr's opinion that all materials and supplies received at Mayview should be checked into the warehouse and distributed by requisition and that a daily inventory be kept, in order that the superintendent would have before him the exact amount of goods on hand.

URGES STOREKEEPER

The Controller also recommends establishing a central storehouse in the City-County Building, where all office supplies could be kept and disbursed under the supervision of a storekeeper whose duty it would be to dispense supplies on requisitions from the several departments.

The requisition for distribution should be in triplicate signed by the person receiving the goods, Dr. Kerr believes, one copy to be retained by the storekeeper, one copy to be filled in the department receiving the goods and the third copy going to the Controller's office. Dr. Kerr says that under the central storehouse plan supplies could be purchased in wholesale lots, thus causing a saving.

REVOLVING FUNDS

A small revolving fund in the Department of Supplies to be used for the purchase of minor items which are now ordered by the various departments is also recommended. Such a fund, according to Dr. Kerr, would relieve the departments of making up orders which often cost more than the item is worth.

As the last point in his program Dr. Kerr would have Council set up a revolving fund in the Department of Public Safety to be used for the return of prisoners arrested in distant cities. He would have the county reimburse the fund after the prisoner has been delivered.

Dr. Kerr submitted his suggestion to Council yesterday. A copy will go to each member today.

RIPLEY ODDITORIUM THRONGED AT OPENING

Exhibit Direct From Fair at Chicago Thrills Hundreds

What a show, ladies and gentlemen, what a conglomeration of hard-to-believe facts that amaze the most dubious spectator in that Ripley "Believe It Or Not" Odditorium.

Here is that feature of Chicago's Century of Progress Exposition holding forth right in the heart of donwtown Pittsburgh. It's going to be here the remainder of this week in the block-long former Campbell department store at 333 Fifth avenue.

Hundreds of Pittsburghers entered its portals at the opening last night. Public Safety Director Harmar D. Denny officially welcomed the attraction to the city, representing Mayor John S. Herron, who was absent from the city. Reminding the initial audience that odd and curious facts surround us, Director Denny heralded the Odditorium as an educational opportunity.

DOUBTS VANISH

And here upon especially constructed stages and in glass enclosures were found some 25 human oddities and 300 inanimate curiosities. The throngs that attended the continuous performances could not doubt what their eyes saw. Here before them were living and inanimate proofs of many of the "Believe It Or Not" doubt-raising subjects illustrated by Robert L. Ripley in his daily and Sunday cartoon feature of the Sun-Telegraph.

What, no man can turn his head completely around? There he was, Marden Laurello, of Nuremberg, Bavaria. While his feet walked forward, Laurello's head was in complete reverse. Absolutely no doubt could remain.

You say no person's eyelids would be strong enough to pull 100 pounds? The Odditorium offers positive proof. Harry McGregor, of Philadelphia, was right there pulling his sister, Lillian, in a wagon. Maybe you doubt a person can talk without vocal chords. Well, there's John T. Bowers, of Chicago, talking right at you. If the spectators doubted that Edna Price, of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., could swallow an electric light bulb, their minds were changed. Not alone did Miss Price swallow an illuminated bulb, but you could see the light as it passed through her mouth and down her throat.

What an array of curiosity-arousing exhibitions. Example upon example of almost unbelievable facts, person upon person who amaze the medical profession were unfolded before the opening night audiences. If they entered with a suspicion of doubt in their minds, they left fully satisfied.

SPECIAL BROADCAST

Thousands of radio listeners heard of the wonders in a special radio broadcast direct from the Odditorium over station WCAE. From stage to stage, Eddie Lovett, head lecturer, described the baffling oddities to the invisible audience.

The show will continue daily

the remainder of the week with the Sun-Telegraph's entire share of the proceeds piling up for a fund to distribute Christmas charity.

The hours are arranged so there'll be no interference with shopping, theater or social engagements. The doors will open tomorrow and Friday at 11:45 a. m., while the opening hour for Thanksgiving and Saturday will be 10 a. m. The price of admission for adults at all times is 40 cents. The regular children's admission is 15 cents, but special 10-cent matinees have been arranged for Thanksgiving and Saturday between 10 a. m. and noon.

The 200 free tickets for contestants in the Ripley contest were to be in the mails today.

GRADED TAXERS SCARCE, HE COMPLAINS

Sends Word to 'Home Folks' That He's 'All Right'

McNair, his wife, and George E. Evans, who threw up his Democratic nomination for Council in favor of William A. Magee, arrived here last night for a three to seven-day swimming and fishing sojourn.

The party drove down from Washington combing the countryside, as McNair says, for "good Democrats for my tax department."

He couldn't find any who doesn't favor a state income tax, he said, so "that's out."

Just now McNair's strongly interested in a housing project Evans is trying to put through in Washington, McNair says:

"What we need is a five-year tax exemption on new buildings like they have in Bethlehem. We want City Council to pass that right away."

CANADIAN MOUNTIES OUT

The Mayor-elect said he's been forced to drop a tentative plan to engage a product of the Canadian Northwest Mounted Police Training School in Vancouver, Canada, as his director of public safety. He said:

OPERATOR 13 -:- -:- by Robert W. Chambers

Brave Feminine Spy Loses Life In Ocean

(Republished from Cosmopolitan Magazine and soon to appear on the screen as a Cosmopolitan production made for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and starring Marion Davies.)

By ROBERT W. CHAMBERS

Then the boy rose to the occasion. He took a big tin of scalding water from the stove, went into his own room, which was blanketed off from the office, and filled an old tin bathtub with hot water. Then he led the girl thither and showed her soap and towels, a man's nightshirt and his own camp bed.

"That's what you want, isn't it?" he asked.

"Yes," she sobbed, "and something to eat."

"I'll draw rations for you, ma'am. Shall I buy you a calico dress in town?"

"No, I'll do that," she replied, laughing through her tears. "If I had some alcohol, I could get off the rest of this brown skinstain."

"I'll find you a bottle, ma'am. Now, take your bath and lie down. I'll ask the guard to see you're not disturbed."

He went out and talked to the corporal, who presently detailed another sentry to protect the privacy of the place and warn off all intruders.

Cheerful Cook

Another soldier, armed with authority, drew rations and fetched the alcohol, and young Barry cooked the bacon and hardtack in a frying pan on the stove, and boiled a pot of coffee.

He sang disrespectfully, as he cooked:

"Buford and Bayard,
Buford and Bayard,
The one is weary,
The other is tired!
I won't be drove,
I won't be hired
To ride no hoss
For Gin'ral Bayard!"

He could hear the girl discreetly wallowing in the old tin tub. He set a camp table with his own tin service, dished up the tack and bacon, singing cheerily and disrespectfully:

"Oh, Gin'ral Buford,
Look at what they done,
A-crossin' at the new ford,
Hoss an' foot and gun!

"Oh, Johnny Buford
An' Freddy Pleasanton,
They're over number two ford,
Every mother's son!

"Wake up, Johnny Buford,
Bayard, and Pleasanton!
Take a look at looward,
Take it on the run!

"Wave your fancy new sword,
Cock your fancy gun,
Or Jeb will have you skewered,
Freddy Pleasanton!"

Gay Summons

He heard the girl laughing musically as she splashed. He lifted a bread pan and beat a gay tattoo on it with a tin fork. "First call for dinner, ma'am" he shouted. "Fall in"

"Coming!" she replied. And after a few minutes she appeared, swathed to the chin in his army blanket. "Thank you for the alcohol," she said; "it took off every spot of stain remaining."

He saw her seated; then retired to a rear room, where there was another telegraph instrument beyond anybody's hearing when the door had been closed.

From his east window he could look out on a courtyard, where Mrs. Bunn, the sutler's pretty wife, was picking over peaches for peach turnovers—the same destined to stuff the garrison.

"My God," said she, "what's this you're telling me, Mr. Barry!"

"No suitable clothes, I mean! She is your height and slimness. Go over to Ewarts' emporium like a good girl, and buy her something to travel in. And tell 'em to send the bill to the quartermaster, and make it out to Maj. Allen of the Secret Service!"

Before Gail Loveless had awakened from a postprandial nap on Operator Barry's narrow bunk the sutler's wife returned with her bundles and a valise, and a duplicate bill that scared young Mr. Barry. However, he reflected, it was no worry of his; and he knocked at the door, had a sleepy answer, opened it, and shoved in the parcels.

Entrancing Vision

He was scarcely prepared, however, for the vision in gray poplin and saucy little hat and shawl that emerged demurely from his quarters.

"Crickey!" he said. "You're too pretty to go gunning for Rebel spies, ma'am."

They laughed like two children, and she inquired about a train and a revolver and some money for her journey.

A messenger from the provost marshal had already brought the money—inspired, no doubt, by a telegram from Major Allen. The revolver, belt and ammunition, fresh from the army depot, she buckled on in the privacy of the sleeping quarters.

He had her railroad ticket for her when she emerged.

"There are three loaded troop trains with steam up on a side track where the B. & O. crosses the Monocacy," he explained. "Eastward, between Frederick and Washington, there is a train headed the other way. It leaves for Baltimore in an hour. I have an ambulance ready at the door for you."

"You are a wonderful boy," she said, warmly. She was radiant. All trace of fatigue and privation had vanished—so resilient is youth in health when the tonic is excellent.

At the door a soldier stowed her valise aboard the ambulance, and young Mr. Barry, cap in hand, handed her in.

"Thank you and good-by," said the girl; and retained his hand a wicked moment.

He looked passionate volumes at her. It was another of her "moments." Only Juliet could have returned his look with such a devastating smile.

"Won't you tell me your name?" he whispered incoherently.

"Operator 13," she said cruelly, as the ambulance rolled off through Frederick.

Read This First

Gail Loveless, experienced actress at 20, was sent into the Confederate lines as a Union Spy. Disguised as a quadroon laundress, she deceived everybody, including Capt. Jack Gailliard, gallant spy in the Confederate service, who was ashamed to find himself deeply stirred by her saffron loveliness. Vespasian Chancellor, chief of Confederate spies, presently exposed her and she fled for her life. She stole the clothing of a farm boy to make herself appear to be a Negro stable boy.

Outwitting the pursuing Chancellor and Gailliard, she captured them, one at a time, and led them toward the Federal lines. On the way they stumbled upon the dreadful spectacle of a Union Army hanging a Confederate spy, and Operator 13, sickened, freed her prisoners. Before he rode away, Gailliard kissed her. Then she rode into Emmitsburg, Maryland, at dusk.

Exhausted, she met a young man who spoke the pass phrase of the Northern secret service and, at his advice, lay down under a tree to sleep. The man, a Southern spy, betrayed Operator 13 to the beautiful Lady Greensleeves, Confederate spy, who was living in Emmitsburg. Lady Greensleeves promised to "take care of the young Yankee actress" until the Confederate cavalry should arrive to hang her.

Operator 13 went to St. Joseph's School, stole the dress of a nun and, wearing it, returned and was admitted to her enemy's house. Lady Greensleeves, wakened from sleep, was told she was under arrest, but she knocked a knife out of Operator 13's hand and they fought savagely, with fists, clawing fingers and teeth, on a shadowy stair landing. Presently they fell, together, halfway down the stairs. When the fight ended, Lady Greensleeves lay unconscious. Operator 13 left her bound and galloped into Frederick for help. A young telegraph operator put her in touch with Washington and she was ordered to follow, capture or destroy Lady Greensleeves.

Now Go On With the Story

Guileless Repose

The girl slept aboard the cars all the way to Baltimore. Aboard the Norfolk boat, she continued to sleep like one blessed who knows no guile.

When, after early breakfast, she emerged on deck at the Norfolk dock, two men came forward to greet her. They were John Babcock and Augustus Littlefield, of the United States Secret Service. A carriage driven by the two armed cavalrymen and drawn by two splendid horses, was waiting for them, and in another moment Gail Loveless and the two Secret Service men were rattling through the streets of Norfolk at a brisk trot.

When Operator 13 had finished her hurried story regarding the plight in which she had left Lady Greensleeves, Babcock said: "The woman left Emmitsburg an hour after you did! She has nine lives, ma'am, or she'd have been hanged after Manassas!"

"The trouble," said Littlefield, bitterly, "is with Mr. Lincoln. He won't hang anybody if he can help it."

"But the Rebels," added Babcock, "are hanging our people all the time. And," he continued, smiling at Gail Loveless, "I guess they'll start us gallows dancing if they catch us."

"As for your white panther with nine lives," continued Littlefield, "if we intercept and catch her, all she'll get will be a nice rocking chair and three meals a day in Fort McHenry."

A Protest

"No woman ought to hang," said the girl. "There ought to be no hanging, anyway. Why can't they shoot us decently?"

"I reckon it's too stylish for vulgar spies," replied Littlefield, grimly. "Well, ma'm, if we've got to love our enemies and give 'em rocking chairs in government forts, I hope to God that Lady Greensleeves sets and rocks her damn head off in Fort McHenry before we see Knoxville again."

"Poor thing," said the girl, gently, "if you had seen her lying there as though her beautiful neck were broken—"

"All sham and humbug, ma'am. John Babcock and I have it by grapevine that she was stepping out high in Baltimore last night. She warn't hurt none. We missed her at the hotel an' at the wharf. She had the impudence to go on a troop boat as an officer's wife. We found out about it too late to head her off. All I hope is that we find her at Back Bay or on the dunes."

"If she gets aboard that Rebel blockader off False Cape that goes to England," added Babcock, "she'll do a vast mischief to the United States."

So, with gossip and surmise and jest and irony, they passed the tedious miles over a pretty good road running to the North Carolina line. A basket of lunch helped them to while away the hours.

The Sea at Hand

They met scarcely a soul along that wilderness of pine and cornfield, buzzard and razorback, swamp and brush and sand and marl. The sun hung low when they first smelled the salt of the distant ocean and the ranker odor from those brackish bays and inlets which the great dunes separate from the Atlantic.

Millions and millions of waterfowl were flying over Back Bay, and their clamor filled the reddening heavens.

The soldiers who had been driving them drew up beside an ancient tavern; Littlefield, Babcock and Gail Loveless got out stiffly, and Babcock went into the dusky tavern.

"We'll leave our baggage here, ma'am," said Littlefield, staring out across the water. He added: "I sorely mistrust we've missed your Lady Greensleeves."

Lady Greensleeves Resists Capture To the End

Babcock came out hastily, followed by two sullen fellows in sea boots carrying oars, who led the way down to a rickety wharf, where a sailboat rocked in the swell from the crimson-tinted bay.

"Is she here?" inquired Littlefield.

"Her skiff left this wharf 20 minutes ago," said Babcock. He called to the two cavalrymen: "Put up your horses, get supper and wait for us." Then he and Littlefield helped Gail Loveless into the rocking sailboat, where one of the sullen men held the tiller while the other stowed the oars and hoisted sail.

All the vast bay was a dazzling glare of fiery reflections from the setting sun. The wind was enough and a lively sea; spray clouded the bows and Gail Loveless crouched in the cockpit.

After a long time she heard Gus Littlefield say, quietly: "Thar they are, Jack."

"I see them," said Babcock.

Later: "I can't notice that we are overhauling them," said the younger man.

One of the sullen men said to his companion: "Dee is sailin' right smart."

The other replied: "I reckon dee is sailin' mo' faster as we-uns."

"Can you hoist more sail?" demanded Babcock.

"No, suh. Reckon we-all ca'y'n mo' sail now than we got a right to."

It was true. The wind from the bay was rising, and the starboard gunwale was deeply awash.

Impatient Landing

They rushed on. Babcock and Littlefield bailed; the drenched

IL DUCE, BRITON IRON OUT ARMS QUESTIONS

ROME, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Diplomatic conversations designed to settle the question of disarmament, as provided by the adjourned Arms Conference in Geneva, were held in Rome today when Premier Mussolini and Sir Eric Drummond, the British ambassador, exchanged their views on the subject at length.

The foreign office said that the Italians and the British were being kept informed of conversations on the subject between the French and Germans. Nevertheless, there was some irritation caused by the report of conversations being carried on directly between France and Germany without the intervention of Italy and England.

The newspaper Tevere commented:

Duce to Discuss Religious Freedom With Litvinoff

ROME, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Premier Mussolini is planning to broach the subject of complete religious liberty in Russia in forthcoming conversations with Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Foreign Commissar, it was revealed today.

Mussolini hopes at least to secure the liberty of worship for Italian citizens along lines of that guaranteed through the agreement by which the American-Soviet agreement was reached.

It was considered possible Il Duce might be able to arrange conversations between Litvinoff and Pope Pius or Cardinal Pacelli.

Prelates say the Vatican is counting on Mussolini pursuing this friendship to the extent of doing all in his power to bring about a rapprochement between Russia and the Vatican. The Vatican itself never has discontinued efforts directed at reconciling Russia.

Special prayers toward this end still are recited weekly in Italian churches. Speaking to pilgrims in September, the Pope told them Russia was very close to his heart because of the suffering of the people there.

The conversations between Mussolini and Litvinoff, who now is en route to Italy from New York, will be along broad lines and the Russian foreign commissar's visit was considered propitious for discussions of the religious question.

ITALY OFFERS DEBT TOKEN

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Italy has offered to pay $1,000,000 on the $2,133,905 debt installment due this country December 15, it was announced by the State Department today.

The Italian offer, which appeared likely to be the largest percentage offer received from any of the debtor nations on the payments due next month, has been transmitted to President Roosevelt at Warm Springs, Ga.

Pending consideration of it by the President, Acting Secretary of State Phillips declined to discuss the offer. However, he announced that similar negotiations concerning the December 15 debt situation were under way with Finland, Czechoslovakia and Latvia.

Wilkinsburg P. O. Plans Approved

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Plans for Wilkinsburg's $100,000 substation of the Pittsburgh Postoffice have been approved by the architect of the Treasury, it was announced today by Representative Clyde Kelly. The next move will be the advertising for bids for the site, Mr. Kelly said. The improvement is a federal public works project.

Two New Cruisers Started by Italy

ROME, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—The construction of two new Italian cruisers, the Garibaldi and Duca Degli Abruzzi, each of 7,500 tons, has started, it was learned yesterday.

Two destroyers of a total tonnage of 1,250 also are being constructed.

Borah and Smith Can't Agree on Luncheon Meat

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER

No matter how thin Al slices it he must admit it is still baloney.

The old boy cannot get over the idea that delicatessen is an argument and liverwurst is corroboration.

Borah doesn't like the baloney stuff. He is not an authority on the dollar. But he hates cold lunches.

This argument will lead to a series of debates. "Resolved, That the dollar is your best depreciated friend."

Al will take both sides of the question.

Borah will start in the middle and work toward both ends.

"But I looked in the charter and the director has to be a citizen of the United States and also a one-year resident of Pittsburgh."

McNair talked to Prof. D. O. Kinsman, at American University, Washington. He's the author of a book on economics used by McNair's daughter at Peabody High School.

'ANY DEMOCRATS HERE?'

The Mayor-elect thought Kinsman was a single-taxer and interviewed him with an eye to enlisting him for the tax department but:

"He wants a state income tax, too, so he can't be a very good single taxer."

On his trip down, McNair said:

"I stopped and talked to the students at Williams and Mary and then at the Washington Rotary Club in North Carolina, and I saw the Mayor of Orlando yesterday.

"I'm going to write to President Roosevelt and tell him he ought to get some Democrats in Washington.

"I'd go into one place and ask:

"'Are there any Democrats here?'

"No answer. Then I'd go to another place and ask:

"'Are there any Democrats here?'

"But I guess they are all Republicans."

McNair plans to take it easy here for a few days before returning to Pittsburgh. He asked the Sun-Telegraph to:

France Reported Arming in Pacific

LARDEN, Nov. 28.—(INS.)—The Daily Herald in a Brisbane, Australia, dispatch reported today that France was fortifying all her islands in the Pacific as a sequel to Japanese activities there.

'HitchH-ike' Bandits Rob Autoists of $45

Two hitch-hiking bandits, one a Negro, held up and robbed Joseph Lukowski, of 1032 Herron avenue, of $45 on the Bloomfield Bridge this morning after he had given them a "lift."

TURKEYS CHEAPER THIS YEAR

Today turkeys were plentiful at the water front, with prices a few cents cheaper than in previous years, according to rivermen.

Most of the turkeys brought in by the river steamers come from the country along the Ohio River above Point Pleasant, W. Va. The steamer Liberty, of Wheeling, unloaded more than 2,000 turkeys, 3,000 chickens and many geese, ducks, pigs and rabbits.

Large railroad shipments of turkeys are also expected.

SPEAKER HERE DEFENDS NAZIS

A cross-fire of questions, mainly from the Jewish members of his audience, greeted Dr. Frederick Konrad Kruger, German-born professor of political science at Wittenberg College, Springfield, O., last night at a meeting of the Foreign Policy Association in the Schenley Hotel.

Dr. Kruger, whose defense of Chancellor Hitler paved the way for the questioning, appeared on the program in a debate on the national and international aspects of Germany with Prof. Arnold J. Toynbee, director of studies in the Royal Institute of International Affairs, of London.

Dr. Kruger said it was Hitler's policy to reduce the number of Jews in leading positions to approximately one per cent to make them proportionate to their percentage of population. This he justified because of the vast numbers of German youths unable to find positions at all.

He said in response to a question that Albert Einstein was "dismissed" from Germany because of his aggressive opposition to the Hitler regime. He also added that many Jewish professors had been retained in Germany who did not manifest such opposition.

BECK RUN SUIT APPEAL LOST

The Pennsylvania Supreme Court has upheld the verdict of an Allegheny County jury refusing damages to executors of the estate of Anna Butterweck for alleged destruction of a dwelling and garage by overflow of Beck's Run. The executors had sued the city for $30,000.

The plaintiffs appealed on the ground that testimony of W. McClurg Donley, engineer called as an expert by the city, was inadmissible because he did not view the actual occurrence, but visited the scene later.

The plaintiffs contended the city was negligent because of a clogged culvert. The property involved is at Carson street and Beck's Run.

2 NAZI CHURCH CHIEFTAINS OUSTED

BERLIN, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Two members of the German church cabinet, the governing body of Protestant organizations in the reich, were ousted from their offices today in a smashing unheaval.

Dr. Joachim Hossenfelder, leader of the Nazi German Christian movement, and Dr. Friedrich Werner, legal counsellor of the cabinet, "resigned" under pressure.

This pressure, it was learned authoritatively by the Associated Press, was exerted by the ministry of the interior, headed by Wilhelm Frick. The ministry suggested to both erstwhile leaders that their position, even from the government's point of view, was untenable.

OUSTED JEWS

Both have been active in the ousting of Jews from Protestant church offices, in the creation of Nazi-controlled authority, and in suggestions for eliminating all Jewish references from Christianity.

At the same time was announced an indefinite postponement of the consecration of the Rev. Dr. Ludwig Mueller as Reichsbishop. The ceremony was to have been held December 3 in the Berlin Cathedral.

It is certain that Dr. Mueller was no party to the resignation of Hossenfelder, for he considers himself bound to the Nazi leader by the closest ties of friendship and politics.

The Rev. Mr. Frederich von Bodelschwingh, who was elected Reichsbishop but was prevented from holding office when the government placed Mueller in the chair, has been active in demands that Hossenfelder be removed.

HITLER STAND

Chancellor Hitler and his advisers realized that the Rev. Mr. Bodelschwingh, his associates and their followers were in no wise opposed to the Nazi political regime, which they accepted as a fact, but opposed the negation of freedom of conscience in the questions of religion, morality and law.

The reich's government appeared further to have realized that the oppositional group represented the real churchgoers and the real believers in the Christian religion and that suppression of their internationally-known and trusted leaders was doing Germany no good.

According to reliable information, the reich's government curbed the Prussian hot-heads, who wanted to identify members of the opposition with the enemies of the state and search their homes.

Auto Catches Fire After Hitting Truck

Firemen were called to Washington boulevard, below the Larimer avenue bridge, early today when an auto collided with a transfer truck and caught fire. Damage was estimated at $10.

period of years. This argument Judge Gray sustained.

JUDGES COMMENT

"On the findings of fact made and on inferences from them and from the undisputed evidence it appears clearly that the conveyances were made with the actual intent to hinder, delay and defraud creditors."

Further, the 8,000-word decision adds to this statement the declaration:

"If we did not reach that conclusion we should be obliged by the record to find that the conveyances are condemned under the fraudulent conveyance act."

The decision also commented on the statement of the creditor banks that Nesbit dealt in the stock of his own bank "for the purposes of supporting the market." Regarding this the decision says:

"Those transactions were unlawful and grounds for prosecution."

Bitterly assailing the decision, Mercer told the Sun-Telegraph:

"If this decision prevails anyone who pays premiums on insurance in Pennsylvania is foolish. Instead of protecting the widow and children it protects the creditors."

Judge Gray's ruling held that the entire $828,000 fund should go to the widow and children, excepting $57,000, the difference between a $200,000 claim held by the Ohio National Bank at Columbus and stock posted as security against it. In an amendment to the trust, Nesbit directed his executors to pay this loan.

TO BENEFIT ALL

The Supreme Court decision, however, held that the price of the collateral stock had nothing to do with the case and ordered the Ohio bank to turn over the entire $200,000 to administrators of the estate for the benefit of all creditors.

In addition the high court ordered that the $255,000 policies, transferred from the estate to the trust during the market crash in 1929, should also be withdrawn from the fund and paid to the administrators of the estate for the benefit of all creditors. It held similarly in the case of the $23,000 policies transferred from the estate to the family in 1931.

Thus $478,767 is ordered taken from the total $828,000 insurance policies paid to the trust, leaving a balance of $349,233. Beneficiaries are Mrs. Edith Nesbit and children, Scott K. and Betty Nesbit and Mrs. Jerome K. Bowers, of Chicago.

Cowboy Mulhall Weds 2nd Time On Horseback

GUTHRIE, Okla., Nov. 28.—(AP.)—The second horseback marriage of Charlie Mulhall, son of the late Col. Zack Mulhall, pioneer showman, was disclosed today.

Mulhall and Esther Childers, astride horses, were married Sunday by the Rev. Alvin Hedin, Tabernacle Baptist pastor, who declined to mount a horse to perform the ceremony.

At a Billings Mont., rodeo in 1915, Mulhall married Iva Parks, champion cowgirl, while they were on horseback. They later were divorced.

Pittsburgh Prices Drop Six Per Cent

A decrease of 6 per cent in prices in Pittsburgh between October 24 and November 7 was announced by the United States Department of Labor. Twenty-four other cities were listed as showing decreases.

The report, however, showed an increase of 7.2 per cent for the city over a year ago.

LAWYER ROSS EASES HIS SORE THROAT INSTANTLY

And Wins His Case

1
THIS IS TERRIBLE . . . THAT BIG CRIMINAL CASE IS UP IN TEN MINUTES AND I HAVE A TERRIBLE SORE THROAT . . . CAN HARDLY WHISPER.
OH, MR. ROSS, I KNOW A WAY TO RELIEVE IT IN TIME . . . BAYER ASPIRIN . . . I HAVE SOME HERE.
(A)
NOW I'LL CRUSH AND DISSOLVE 3 BAYER TABLETS IN HALF A GLASS OF WATER TO GARGLE . . .
2
(A)
REPEAT THE GARGLE BUT DON'T RINSE THE MOUTH — LET THE GARGLE REMAIN ON THE THROAT MEMBRANES.
3
(B)
3 MINUTES LATER
4
FINE . . . NEVER TALKED BETTER . . . SAY THAT BAYER ASPIRIN SIMPLY CHANGES ALL OLD IDEAS ABOUT TREATING SORE THROAT

Here's that 3-Minute Way to Relieve Sore Throat

Modern medical science now throws an entirely new light on sore throat. A way that eases the pain, rawness and irritation in as little as two or three minutes.

Simple to do. All you do is crush and dissolve three BAYER Aspirin Tablets in half a glass of water. Gargle with it twice—as pictured above. If you have any indication of a cold—before gargling take 2 Bayer Aspirin Tablets with a full glass of water. Keep on taking if cold has a "hold." For Genuine Bayer Aspirin will not harm you—does not depress the heart.

Reduces Infection, Eases Pain Instantly. Gargling with Bayer Aspirin will do three things: Relieve soreness at once. Allay inflammation. AND—reduce infection; which is the important thing in fighting a sore throat.

Be careful, however, that you get real BAYER Aspirin Tablets for this purpose. For they dissolve completely enough to gargle without leaving irritating particles. Watch this when you buy.

VOTE OFFICERS DENY FRAUD AT POLLS

The government rested in its third vote fraud prosecution in Federal Court following the noon recess today.

Opening for the defense, Attorney R. M. McWade told the jury witnesses would show none of the four defendants on trial had altered ballots or in any way violated the law at the general election last November.

Three voters, who testified they were out of town at the general election last November, were recorded as having cast ballots, the government sought to prove.

George Karidas, Gerardi Donelli and Philip Lando all testified they were absent from the city on election day. Assistant United States Attorney James I. Marsh introduced in evidence a vote list showing the names of the three as among those who voted, in the First District of the Third Ward.

On trial charged with conspiracy to violate the vote laws are four members of the election board, Joseph S. Gagliardino, judge; Dominick Mastrianni and Ralph Scanga, inspectors, and Ralph Gentile, clerk.

Nelson D. Zimmerman, special government investigator, testified he had found only 14 straight Democratic ballots in the box. About 35 voters had testified they had voted such tickets.

4 Held in Robbery Of Downtown Store

Arrested Friday in the attempted robbery of a Fifth avenue dress shop, John Husack, Mike Rudden and James Bova were held for court, charged with conspiracy, and Nick Terlaski, of 39 South Thirteenth street, was held, charged with larceny, by Magistrate Thomas D. Jones, in Morals Court today.

Terlaski was seized on the roof of a downtown shop and near him was a bundle of dresses valued at $1,000, police said.

sheet strained and bellied; the jib bulged to bursting.

"Mos' thar, suh," said the man at the tiller to Babcock. "Yonder's the sea dunes. Reckon dee's mos' ashore."

The other boat was no longer visible. A small island called Half Moon hid it.

A few minutes later the helmsman brought their boat up under the lee of a great snow-white dune; his comrade stepped overboard in his sea boots and pulled the bow inshore; and Babcock, Littlefield and Gail Loveless sprang ashore and clambered up the dune.

As soon as they gained the windy crest they saw the vast wastes of the Atlantic Ocean, and a thunderous surf. They saw, too, a black steamer at anchor, half a mile beyond that perilous coast, and a longboat pulling shoreward.

Then they saw my Lady Greensleeves standing all alone at the edge of the surging surf. And at that moment she looked back over her shoulder and saw them. She wore a traveling cloak; the wind had blown away her hat and loosened her glorious hair, which was blowing about her like a golden banner.

The ship's longboat was not far out.

John Babcock began to run toward her. She seemed not to notice for a moment, but suddenly turned with a pistol glittering in her gloved hand, leveled it and fired. Five times she fired at Babcock, at Littlefield, and finally at Gail Loveless, all running toward her.

Littlefield and Babcock had their pistols out, but did not fire; the girl did not draw her pistol.

Desperate Effort

They were near enough to hear Lady Greensleeves call to the men in the boat: "Drive them off! I am going to swim out to you!"

But it was evident that the boat's crew was not armed. The officer in the stern sheets shouted something which the wind crippled to an incoherent cry.

Babcock was very near her when she dropped her pistol and began to wade into the surf, still carrying her valise.

"Come back! We won't harm you!" begged Gail Loveless. "For God's sake, come back! We'll be kind to you."

A wave broke over Lady Greensleeves and wrenched the valise from her grasp. She stumbled under the impact of another breaker, turned and looked behind her through her streaming golden hair.

Suddenly the undertow snatched her like a shark and a roaring wave overwhelmed her. Men standing up with oars and boathooks in the tossing longboat, and their shouting came across the water like the crying of gulls.

"Her heavy silk dress is drowning her out there," said Babcock. He and Littlefield had waded in and were peering toward the spot where my Lady Greensleeves had disappeared.

What Do You Want for Christmas? If You Don't See It, Ask!

JANE ANN LEES HOWARD MULERT JUNE HAMILTON STANLEY BROWN

Youngsters at the Falk Elementary School, conducted by the University of Pittsburgh, wide-eyed over an assortment of toys and tools. They don't know it, but they're Santa's little helpers, being used in an experiment to determine which toys are most popular in each age group. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

CHILDREN VOTE ON WHICH TOYS ARE BEST

Parents Undecided, Youngsters Solve Problem

Children attending the Falk Elementary School of the University of Pittsburgh are voting today—each ballot really a letter to Santa Claus!

Last week a group of their mothers began making up early gift lists. Which toys are actually the most pleasing to children of different ages puzzled them, however, so they decided to let the children determine for themselves.

And so a toy and book exhibit has been arranged, which opened yesterday, and the boys and girls have been allowed to play with hundreds of toys, picking out their favorites.

Tables loaded with toys and books line every side of the school auditorium. Between classes, the boys race the toy autos around the room, spin tops, and find plenty to interest them in toy microscopes, chemical laboratories, and old-fashioned wooden blocks.

The girls gravitate to the tables holding the dolls, including the three little pigs and the big bad wolf. And there is everything to go with the dolls, too, for their comfort and convenience. There's a doll house with miniature furniture, complete even to a tiny ironing board on which to press a doll's tiny petticoat with a real little electric iron.

And there are games of every kind for both boys and girls, including a set of marionettes for a child's theater.

The mothers noticed that the cost of a toy seems to have little to do with a child's interest in it. The table holding toys costing not more than a dime was well patronized yesterday.

Favorite books included "The Conquest of the Atlantic," by Ingri and Edgar Parin d'Aulaire; "A Child's History of Art," by V. M. Hillyer and E. G. Huey; "The Night Before Christmas," by Clement C. Moore; "Here Bingo," by Anne Stoddard; "Kings and Queens," by Eleanor Herbert Farjeon, and "A Book of Americans," by Rosemary and Stephen Vincent Benet.

The exhibit closes tonight with a meeting at the school of the mothers' group and everyone interested. Tea will be served and Dr. Harry A. Barth, toy expert, will speak on "Adapting Toys to the Child's Development." Results of the toy balloting will be read.

Ballots Are Really Letters to Dear Old Santa

Braddock Slayer Sentenced to Pen

Adjudged guilty of second degree murder in Criminal Court today, "Buck" Winfield, Negro, of Braddock, was sentenced to from 5 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Visiting Judge Alfred E. Swoyer, of Wayne County.

Testimony showed that Winfield shot Kenneth Yowl, alias Weisser, Braddock Negro, in a drunken brawl on June 24. Winfield pleaded guilty.

WIDOW BROKE, FACES U. S. BAN

Many things happened during her protracted honeymoon.

Her husband died. The bank closed. Mrs. Houak had not heard of that.

Today, she faced a board of inquiry at Ellis Island, liable to deportation as an indigent alien.

Mrs. Houak returned yesterday from the Republic of Libania, in Asia Minor. She had $9.50 with her, also her bank book, which, immigration officers explained, didn't mean a thing now that her bank was closed.

Mrs. Houak had saved that $5,500 during 19 years' employment as a cook in Brooklyn. She didn't want to go to Ellis Island. She said:

'DRY' DUCK TALE WINS PAROLE

Strange tales are frequently unfolded in Criminal Court, but when a Negro solemnly declared a duck had come into his room to get out of the rain, even Judge Sylvester J. Snee relaxed his sternness, and paroled the man.

Robert Lewis, 19, of 416 Chambers street, the defendant, pleaded guilty to entering a building and taking three ducks from Mrs. Anna Kurka, 15 Erie street, Glassport. One duck was found stewing in a pot at the Lewis abode.

Lewis allowed the court to infer that the ducks had walked from their coop in Glassport all the way to Lewis's home in Clairton. Lewis said:

"All I remember is that it was raining and I was in the house warming myself. The window was open and one of the ducks flew in to get warm, so I went out and brought the others in."

He was paroled for two years, upon making restitution of $6 to pay for the ducks.

GIRL, 17, DENIES KIDNAPING

Rita Rich 17, was not kidnaped by three men in an automobile near her home, 3948 Woolslayer way, she told Magistrate Thomas D. Jones in Morals Court today. She said:

"I went away with them because mamma and papa wouldn't let me have any dates."

Mrs. Sarah Rich, the mother, testified that she had believed her daughter kidnaped until she was found in a rooming house at 5385 Warble street after being absent from home 10 days.

Magistrate Jones turned the girl over to social workers while a search is being made for the three men on John Doe warrants. He dismissed a charge of harboring a minor filed against Mrs. Alberta Frey, 32, proprietress of the rooming house.

STORE WORKERS PLAN DANCE

More than 1,200 employes and their friends are expected to attend a Thanksgiving Eve dance tomorrow night in the William Penn Hotel ballroom by the Frank and Seder Employes Association.

Will Ryshanek and his 15-piece NBC orchestra will make merry rhythm for the occasion. In addition, the committee is arranging for entertainment by radio stars from WCAE and WJAS.

Brilliant Thanksgiving turkey cut-outs and fall colors, in line with the spirit of the season, will decorate the ballroom.

"Helen, you sure know my weakness"

"YOU ought to be a detective, Helen. For you've certainly discovered my weakness—cheese—especially a cheese flavor like this!"

If you, or anyone in your life, has a weakness for cheese, Chateau is made to order for you.

It's a new and distinctive cheese treat that is mild, but not too mild; tangy, but not too tangy. In other words it's just right.

And Borden makes it by a special pasteurizing process that adds valuable body-building elements good for the youngsters . . . and brings Chateau to you in a form that's as easily spread as butter.

Try Chateau. See why it has enjoyed such phenomenal success with cheese-lovers. Your grocer has it, in the special Borden package that keeps it fresh and does away with all rind and all waste.

And don't miss these other Borden treats

Let Chateau serve as your introduction to the complete line of Borden's Fine Cheeses: to Borden's Cream Cheese, Borden's Swiss, Borden's Brick, Borden's Pimento, Borden's American, Military Brand Camembert, Liederkranz, Borden's Limburger.

GROUP DEFENDS VOCATIONAL CLASSES

Replying to advocates of school budget cuts, the Sixteenth Ward Improvement Association urges a continuation of kindergarten and vocational schools.

Answering a request by the Pittsburgh Teachers' Association, E. J. Holland, president of the ward association, issued the following statement:

"The kindergarten brings joy to the child who, through poverty, has no pleasure at home, the child who in these days of rackets, may see his own mother making moonshine in the home, for it is an every-day occurrence.

"How can a child brought up in this environment become a good citizen later on? Only through the kindregarten. There he is in a new world, not a world of scheming and lawbreaking, but a world of sunshine.

"A foundation of good citizenship is started. Take the vocational school out of the school system and you crush the ambition of the boy of poor circumstances."

"HAD CONSTIPATION SINCE BIRTH OF MY FIRST CHILD"

Then Mrs. King Discovered ALL-BRAN

We quote from her voluntary letter:

"I have suffered from terrible constipation since the birth of my first child—9 years ago! I have tried everything and nothing had any lasting results. Very reluctantly I tried your 'ALL-BRAN' with no faith in it at all. Much to my surprise, I have not had to take any medicine since starting to use ALL-BRAN, 4 months ago."—Mrs. Doris Eyre King, 16 Abbey Road, Oxford, England.

Laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN contains two things which overcome constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of leafy vegetables. Inside the body, it forms a soft mass, which gently clears the intestines of wastes.

Certainly this is more natural than taking patent medicines—often harmful. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

ALL-BRAN also supplies iron for the blood. At all grocers. In the red and green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

RECIPES GOOD 'SCHOOL' OF COOKERY

Most cooking schools, though great helps, prove rather inconvenient for the busy housewife to attend, but Prudence Penny through her prize recipes is providing a first-class daily cooking school reached simply by opening the Sun-Telegraph.

At her ease, whenever she has a spare moment or two, the housewife can obtain her suggestions. By glancing at the heads she chooses the recipes she wants and does not need to sit through the demonstration of dishes in which she is not particularly interested.

You may take an active part in these daily cooking classes by sending your favorite recipes to Prudence Penny, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. If your recipes are used you will be awarded either the $5 first prize or one of the 10 $1 prizes.

Due to the great number of recipes received daily, no recipes will be returned.

FIVE DOLLAR PRIZE WINNER

MRS. N. M. HANEY,
Box 719, West Brownsville.

PRUNE PUFFS

Four cups bread flour.
One-half cup sugar.
One-quarter cup butter.
One cup milk.
One cake compressed yeast.
One egg.
One-half teaspoon cinnamon.
One-half teaspoon salt.

Method—Heat milk lukewarm, add sugar and salt, dissolve yeast in this. Put two cups flour in mixing bowl. Add milk mixture, mix thoroughly, let rise until light. Add remaining flour and one egg and shortening, and knead. Cover bowl and set in warm place. Let rise until bulk is doubled. Then roll one-quarter inch thick. Mark half of dough with cookie cutter, but do not cut through. In center of each round place one heaping teaspoon of prune mixture, being careful not to get too close to edges. Fold other half of dough over this and cut out with cookie cutter, let rise again and fry in deep fat like doughnuts; roll in powdered sugar.

PRUNE MIXTURE

Stew one pound prunes until nearly dry, let cool and remove seeds, mash, add one-fourth cup sugar and one-fourth teaspoon cinnamon. Apricots may be substituted for prunes if desired.

TEN $1 PRIZE WINNERS

MRS. A. E. BRUCKLEY
219 Bank way, Wilmerding

LIVER LOAF

One and one-half pounds beef liver.
One and one-half cups stale bread crumbs.
Two eggs, beaten.
One-half cup stock.
One cup milk.
Two tablespoons butter, melted.
One tablespoon chopped onion.
One tablespoon celery, cut fine.
One tablespoon chopped green pepper.
One teaspoon salt.
One-third teaspoon pepper.

Wipe liver, peel off membrane and put through meat chopper. Combine with bread crumbs, which have been softened in egg and liquid, and add remaining ingredients. Beat well, pour into a well-buttered baking dish, set in a pan of hot water, and bake one and one-half hours in moderate oven. (Liver made this way is nourishing for children).

MRS. L. K. GEIGER,
1804 Ley street.

STEAMED CHOCOLATE PUDDING

Cream together one-fourth cupful shortening and two-thirds cupful sugar. Add one teaspoonful vanilla, one well-beaten egg, and two and one-half squares melted chocolate. Sift together two and one-fourth cupfuls flour, four teaspoonfuls baking powder and one-half teaspoonful salt. Add to the sugar mixture alternately with one cupful milk. Beat well. Pour into greased individual molds and steam for 45 minutes. Makes 10 molds.

MRS. GAY RATHBONE,
Denbo, Washington County

BARBECUED PORK CHOPS

Six medium pork chops.
One egg, beaten.
Bread crumbs.
Shortening.

One No. 2 can tomatoes.
One-fourth cup vinegar.
One-half cup brown sugar.
One teaspoon allspice.
One teaspoon cloves.
Salt and pepper.

Cover pan, reduce heat and cook slowly one hour. Remove to platter, dot with chopped sweet pickle or piccalilli. Arrange rice balls neatly around chops and garnish with pepper rings or paprika.

MRS. K. K. WOOD,
1610 Maple avenue, Turtle Creek.

THANKSGIVING PRUNE PUDDING

One-eighth cup butter.
One-eighth cup sugar.
One-quarter teaspoon salt.
Twenty-four seeded cooked prunes.
One egg.
One-half cup milk.
One cup flour.
Two and one-half teaspoons baking powder.

Combine. Steam for three hours. Serve with caramel sauce made with:

One cup brown sugar.
One tablespoon flour.
One cup milk.
One tablespoon butter.

Cook together until smooth.

MRS. NORMAN GRACE,
438 Augusta St., Duquesne Hgts.

AMERICAN CHOP SUEY

One No. 2 can tomatoes.
Four onions.
One small green pepper.
Three stalks celery, diced.
One-fourth pound spaghetti.
One teaspoon butter, rounded.
Salt and pepper.

Fry onions in butter; when soft, add hamburg, tomatoes, then celery, green pepper and spaghetti, which has been previously cooked. Season with salt and pepper.

MRS. G. E. MOORHOUSE,

OYSTERS ON TOAST

Ten slices toast.

Drain one pint oysters, heat one heaping tablespoon butter in frying pan, fry oysters until curled; have blended one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon flour, put in skillet with oysters, add half of oyster liquid and enough milk to make cream sauce, salt and pepper to taste. Put on toast and serve at once.

MISS VIOLET T. SEYBOLD,
7229 Penn avenue.

STEAMED CURRANT JELLY APPLES

Eight large cooking apples.
One glass of red currant jelly.
Three-quarters cup sugar.
One-quarter cup butter.
One cup water.

Peel and core the apples and place in a buttered covered glass baking dish. Fill the centers with currant jelly, and make a syrup of the sugar, butter and water and pour over apples. Bake in a moderate oven until tender and serve hot with plain or whipped cream.

EMMA BERRYHILL
1935 Federal street.

POT ROAST

Three and one-half pounds beef.
One-fourth pound suet.
One onion.
One-haN cup boiling water.
Salt, pepper, bay leaf.

Choose a thick cut of beef from the shoulder and wipe with a damp cloth. Have the kettle hot and put in suet and rend out the fat. Remove the scraps, add the onion sliced, and cook until a light brown. Take the onion from the kettle and put in the meat; sear on one side and then on the other until well seared and brown. Turn once more and put the onions on the meat, adding the boiling water at the side of the kettle. Cover and simmer slowly one hour. Season with salt and pepper and continue to cook until done, an hour and a half or two hours more. The secret of a pot roast is more in the cooking than in the meat, being sure not to let it boil at any time. Have sufficient liquid in the kettle for gravy which may be thickened with a tablespoonful of flour after the meat is removed to the platter. Pour the gravy over the meat and serve. Potatoes may be cooked with the roast, or one-half pound of prunes, three tablespoonfuls of vinegar and one-half teaspoonful cinnamon makes a spiced pot roast. If in doubt about the tenderness of the meat, rub over with a little vinegar and let stand an hour or more before cooking.

MRS. L. G. HANBRICK,
R. D. 1, Box 119, McKees Rocks.

FRESH COCOANUT PIE

One quart milk.
One and one-third cups sugar.
One cup flour, level.
One cup cocoanut, grated.
Four egg yolks.
Pinch of salt.

Mix the cocoanut, sugar, salt flour and yolks in a double boiler and gradually add the hot milk. Cook until thick. Flavor with one teaspoon vanilla. Bake pie shells first, and when mixture is partly cool pour into cold pie shell. Beat egg whites well, add four tablespoons sugar, spread on top; then sprinkle generously with cocoanut and brown.

Directions for preparing cocoanut:

Break open cocoanut by hitting it with a hammer, preferably on the cement floor in the basement. Have a cup handy to catch the milk which can be used in place of the milk called for in the recipe. Break nut in suitable pieces. Remove outer hard shell and pare off inner black crust as you would pare a potato. Wash and dry thoroughly, then grate.

MISS M. DALEY,
320 Third street, Irwin.

BAKED HAM IN BLANKET

One-half ham (five or six pounds).
Two cups flour.
One-half cup brown sugar.
One tablespoon ground cloves.
One tablespoon cinnamon.
One tablespoon mustard.
One-half teaspoon black pepper.

Remove rind and greater part of fat. Place in open roasting pan with fat side up. Cover top and sides with blanket of dough. For dough combine flour, sugar and seasonings, adding enough water to make a rather stiff dough. Place ham covered with this dough in oven preheated to 350 degrees F. and bake about three hours. If possible use cider instead of water in making dough.

Scientist Denies Gila Monster Bite Is Fatal

TUCSON, Ariz.—The gila monster, giant lizard of the American desert, whose bite has been believed for more than a century to be fatally poisonous to human beings, is incapable of meting death to any creature bigger than a rat.

Discovery of this fact has been made by Dr. Charles T. Vorhies, head of the entomology department at the University of Arizona.

The monsters were found by Dr. Vorhies to have no organism, such as fangs, by which poison could be injected into the flesh.

TELL IT TO ELSIE

Follow This Unusual Feature Day by Day

By ELSIE ROBINSON

Parents Realize the Folly Of Late Hours

What time should sweet sixteen be home o' nights—early, or late?

And if Dad insists she must be home early, will she lose everything that makes life worth living—

Or gain more than she knows?

Dear Elsie:

I have read your column a lot, and I am hoping you can help me, though I doubt it very much.

I am not quite 16, and I am considered very attractive. I have plenty of requests for dates, but the trouble is that I can't accept them. Or, if I do, I have to come home so early that I might as well not go.

I am in Hi and I know lots of nice boys. Dad doesn't object to my stepping out with them (my mother is dead, and Dad and I live with my aunt), but he insists that I must be home by 10 o'clock, even if I am just at a school party.

And, I ask you, where can anyone go and come home by that time?

I think it is perfectly ridiculous. It makes me so unhappy! I have tried to tell Dad that I was just missing out on everything, but he is adamant, and all my talk is to no avail.

FATHER OBJECTS

Of course, when I was younger I accepted his orders without question, but I am not a baby any more, and I want to enjoy life. I am grown-up, and I would like to be treated like a grown-up. It just makes me sick.

Everybody I know is going out and having fun, and I have to be just an old stick-in-the-mud.

Dad is always preaching to me that I must be home early because "it isn't right for kids to be out all times of night," and I "need sleep," and a lot of other things. He just can't seem to see that he is messing my life up completely.

Won't you please help me? Or let some of your readers help me. I want to go out, while I am young and can enjoy myself. TIMMY.

Dad isn't trying to keep you home because he's an Old Meanie, Timmy. He's trying to keep you home because he knows that too much and too late gadding is bad medicine for youngsters.

Yes, I know. You say you're "grown-up," and you probably think that you are grown up. But that doesn't make it true. The fact is that you're a long way from being grown up yet. Neither your body, your mind nor your heart is through growing. And if you try to barge into grown-up experience now, you'll be a burnt-out bulb before you really know what life really means.

CONSIDERING FUTURE

The world is filled with just such dreary wrecks—young people who are through with life before they've fairly started. Dad is trying to save you from that tragedy. He is trying to save your future for you. Maybe he hasn't been able to explain that to you. But that is what is in his heart.

So, stop feeling abused, youngster! And thank your lucky stars that you have a Dad who loves you, who has sense, and is doing everything he can to help you grow into a woman who will be able to really enjoy grown-up living when she gets to it.

Forget the "heavy dates." You'll not lose because you don't try to "hit the pace" now. You'll gain. Go in for games—tennis, swimming, hikes, picnics—and plenty of good, sound sleep. Learn all you can. Be a girl while you can.

Then someday, when you are grown, you'll find real living opening out before you like a garden. . . And you'll know how to meet it.

"I Beg Your Pardon"

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The girl in the lower picture has accidentlly let cigaret ashes fall on her friend's dress. She's sorry. She says, "I beg your pardon," or "I'm so sorry;" or perhaps, "I'm sorry! That was very careless of me. Please forgive me."

We say "I beg your pardon" or "I'm so sorry" if we accidentally get in another person's way; if we are thrown against a person in a street car; if we interrupt before we realibe that another person hasn't finished speaking, when we ask a stranger for direction or for information; or when it is necessary we pass in front of some one. Remember that the longer phrases quoted, are more gracious than to say merely "Pardon me," or "Beg Pardon."

Never say, "Pardon ME," with the accent on the "me."

We say, "Excuse me," or "Excuse me, please," or "Will you excuse me, please?" when we are asking to be excused from the room, or from the table; or when for any reason—such as answering the telephone—our attention must be taken for a moment from the person or persons with whom we are talking.

Hints for the Household

To launder organdie, first squeeze it out several times in lukewarm water and mild soapsuds. Do not twist, rub or wring it, lest the fine threads break and cause holes. No starch is required. After laundering, roll the damp garment in a bath towel and let it stand an hour. Then iron with low heat, laying a damp cloth over the unironed parts. Hang up at once after ironing.

Beans, already economical on the family menu, add further saving if cooked in quantity sufficient for three meals. Boil them in water with a ham bone or salt pork. Serve first in their liquor. Keep those not used in a cool place and then bake enough for dinner the next day, seasoning with molasses, a little mustard and onion. Those not baked can be used for bean soup on the day following.

Yolks of eggs which have been separated from the whites and cannot be used at once will keep quite fresh if they are placed in a saucer and covered with cold water.

When burning sulphur to kill insect pests in the house it is necessary to remove all metal from the rooms or to cover metal surfaces with a light oil coating. Two pounds of sulphur is the amount recommended by the Department of Agriculture for every 2,000 cubic feet of space.

Here is an excellent way to keep fresh any cream that may otherwise be wasted by turning sour. Boil about one-half pint of milk, pour into a basin, put cream into the milk, and set to cool; when cool skim off cream, which will rise to the top, the milk underneath will still be useful for cooking purposes.

Contract Bridge

HOW TO PLAY and HOW TO WIN

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The Lead-Directing Double

Contract players have found a new thrill in Slam defense since the adoption of the lead-directing Double as part of the Culbertson System. Briefly, the lead-directing Double, which, of course, can only be made by the partner of the eventual leader, commands the Opening leader to make a lead which he would not otherwise consider, in an effort to defend against the adverse contract.

In the recent Metropolitan Championship Event held under the auspices of the United States Bridge Association, the hand below was dealt, which furnished a brilliant example of the successful use of this Double.

North, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

At the tables where the lead-directing Double proved effective the eventual contract was six hearts, and East was charged with the burden of the lead. During the contracting West had bid diamonds and rebid them, so naturally, having no further information as to the hand, East's Opening lead would be a diamond. In view of the lead-directing Double, however, East was required to go further in determining the lead to defeat the contract. The choice was not difficult to make. South had bid spades, North had bid clubs, which had been supported by South, and hearts, which he had chosen as the eventual declaration because of the lure of the honors. Obviously, a diamond lead would be futile, as that was the lead which North anticipated. A spade lead, in view of East's honor strength in that suit, appeared equally ineffective. A trump lead could serve no good purpose. There remained, then, the club suit. It seemed apparent that this was the lead which West desired if, as the bidding suggested, North held the top cards in the suit.

Reviewing all of these considerations, East opened the club 3, and West ruffed the Opening lead of the suit. He then returned a trump, but, as a matter of fact, the return did not matter. Eventually North had to lose not only the club that was ruffed but another club to the Queen as well, and the contract was thus defeated 1 trick.

It is interesting to note that if East had held the King-Queen-Knave of spades instead of the Queen-Knave-three, North could have made the contract by means of a squeeze in spite of the lead-directing Double. In other words, after West had taken the first trick, if East had to defend against both the possibility of Declarer's taking two spade tricks and that of his taking all the remaining tricks in clubs, the Declarer would still have made his contract.

At only one table was the correct contract of six clubs reached and there it was played doubled and redoubled. A slight study of the cards reveals the fact that this contract cannot be defeated by any lead which East may make or subsequent defense which he may adopt.

A Sequel Heart Of a Wife

By ADELE GARRISON

Avis Arlen Insists Upon Color Suitable to Her

I braced myself for a contest of wills, as Avis Arlen voiced her preference for wearing a Paris gown of her own at Mary's wedding, instead of the one to match Carolyn's which we had planned for the two bridesmaids.

"Let me set your mind at rest upon one point, Avis," making my voice as cordial as possible. "Neither you nor Carolyn will be put to one cent of expense for the new gowns. Mr. Graham and myself are buying all the gowns, Mary's and Marion's as well as yours and Carolyn's."

"How terribly sweet and generous of you!" she gurgled. "But I never could permit you to do that for me. It's too much like charity."

"What utter nonsense!" I said. "I did not know anyone could be so utterly silly."

"I suppose it does sound that way to you," she said sweetly, "but I just can't help it. I've always been so proud! I just can't take charity."

"Do you mean to imply, Avis, that Marion and Carolyn are subjects of charity? Their people are perfectly able to buy them a dozen gowns such as these will be, but they are not making us uncomfortable by refusing us the privilege of providing everything for our niece's wedding."

ASKS ABOUT SHADE

"Oh, no; I didn't mean that at all!" she said in startled tones, and I seized the opportunity to clinch my point.

"Then please do not let me hear anything more upon that point," I said, using the tone I used to the recreant pupils of my teaching days. "It is not only silly, but really almost an insult to all of us; and I know you could not mean it so, because you pride yourself on never being rude."

"Oh, dear Mrs. Graham!" her voice was as tremulous as though she were weeping. "Please don't say that. I wouldn't be rude to you for anything. But would you think me very presumptuous if I asked you whether you had yet selected the color of Carolyn's gown and mine?"

"Yes, we have," I gave my voice a touch of finality.

"Oh, I do hope it's pale green or silver. Do tell me it's one of those colors, dear Mrs. Graham."

"I'm sorry, Avis, but it's neither of those colors. I don't think I can explain over the telephone to you just what it is, only that it will shade in with the bronzey yellow roses with pink tips that you all are going to carry. Mrs. Brixton is to select the material and she is a sartorial artist. Her taste is impeccable. I am sure you will like the finished result."

MADGE ANGRY

"But don't you think, dear Mrs. Graham—this is a terrible thing to say, but a girl must protect herself. I am sure Mrs. Brixton doesn't like me, and I am afraid unconsciously she will be thinking of Carolyn's coloring instead of mine. Don't you think it would be the most natural thing in the world for her, you know? Can't I persuade you to let me wear my green and silver dress? It would tone in beautifully with those other colors, and I am sure Uncle Phil would wish me to look as well as the others."

I wondered if there were a covert threat in her last words. Was she saying in effect: "If you don't do as I wish, I will appeal to Mr. Veritzen to make things unpleasant for everybody"?

"I am sure he also would wish you to conform to the wishes of your hostess," I told her. "Now, Avis, I am sorry, but I am very busy this morning, and I have no more time to waste. If you wish to accept the invitation to be a bridesmaid, given you because Mr. Veritzen asked for it, and entailing much added work in our wedding plans, you will meet Mrs. Brixton this morning and accede to her plans in every detail, making not a single suggestion.

"If you cannot do this, I must withdraw the invitation, much as I hate to displease Mr. Veritzen. But of course I shall have to explain that it was impossible for us to change the entire color scheme of the wedding to accommodate an extra bridesmaid."

ALWAYS GIVE A CHILD A LIQUID LAXATIVE

NRA

Parents Aroused At Last!

Doctors urge the use of a liquid laxative for children; preferably one with senna. A liquid laxative can be regulated as to dose. The natural laxative action of senna does not weaken the bowels.

Druggists report increasing demand for liquid laxatives. Mothers are rapidly discovering the advantage of the liquid form. Thousands of cases of ill-health—and half-health—in children are being cleared-up simply by stopping all use of laxatives of adult strength.

Don't Take Chances!

The preparation most favored for child use is California Syrup of Figs. It is a fruity syrup with the right amount of senna for gentle stimulation of a child's bowels. It gives the right kind of help.

If the bowels are not moving regularly and thoroughly, don't give any medicine that drains the system dry. Give a liquid senna preparation like California Syrup of Figs. A little every day, and reduce the dose each day. At the end of one week—stop. You'll be surprised how long it will be before the bowels need any further help. It may be months.

Be sure you get the real California Syrup of Figs, with "California" on the label. If you get the right preparation, and use it the right way, you can absolutely end all worry over constant sluggish spells, bilious attacks, constipation.

All druggists keep California Syrup of Figs, ready for use. It is highly recommended for regulating children, and to undo the mischief done by habit-forming laxatives.

GARDEN SCENES — PATTERNS 604 AND 605

Embroider These Colorful Scenes

What decoration could be more colorful for a room than these lovely scenes that have the added attraction of a fitting verse? Colorful as a finished picture, they are a very entertaining form of embroidery owing to the variety of colored wools and simple stitches that are used to make them. Though the pictures are companion pieces, either one is effective alone and would make a most acceptable gift.

Patterns 604 and 605 each come to you with a transfer pattern of the picture; a color-key showing exactly where each color is to be put and directions for making the picture.

Send 10 cents for each pattern (20 cents for both) to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Needlecraft Department, 82 Eighth Avenue, New York City.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Flat Foot a Hereditary Defect?

During the World War many young men were kept from active military service because of "flat feet." On applying for enlistment they were amazed to learn they could not serve because they were flatfooted. Rather than permit them to undergo the strain of severe training required in active service, the government gave these men desk jobs and service behind the lines. I venture to say most of these young men had not been aware of their disability until they were examined by the army doctors.

Dr. Copeland

Flat foot is a common affliction. In many cases it is neglected because the victim does not feel discomfort until he is well on in years. But in some cases pain and discomfort appear at an early age.

A flat foot is a week foot. The weakness is due to a falling or lowering of the arches of the foot. This may be the result of congenial weakness. Many authorities believe the condition is hereditary. It is encountered in many families and is often found in two or three consecutive generations.

The foot has two arches. One runs from the heel to the toes and the other runs across the base of the toes. Normally these arches are supported by certain muscles and bands. When these are weakened or fail to develop properly, the arches sag and the correct curvatures of the foot are no longer maintained.

This leads to weakness of the foot, discomfort and pain. The pain may be so severe as to make walking and standing impossible. Contrary to the common belief, the pain is not confined to the foot but may travel up the back of the leg.

When flat foot is recognized at an early age it can be easily corrected. Since the weakness is usually present in early childhood it is a good plan carefully to inspect your child's feet shortly after he begins to walk. If signs of flat foot are present, the necessary exercises and the wearing of properly fitted shoes will correct the defect. Early treatment will give the child strong and sturdy feet which will be a comfort to him when he grows older.

The shoes should be broad and allow for ample movement of the toes. As the child grows older, he can be instructed in the necessary exercises that are so beneficial for the correction of flat feet.

Adults suffering from flat feet should never wear tight and constricting shoes. Tight shoes weaken the muscles and lead to further relaxation of the arches. The footgear is proper if the shoes are broad enough in front to permit sufficient movement of the toes. The shoe should fit snugly in the instep and have a straight inner border. Of course, the heel should be broad and low, never higher than one and a half inches.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Gloves

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Last night I said to my escort, "I have eaten my dinner." He said there was no such word as eaten and claims I should have said, "I ate my dinner."

2—I also overheard a young lady, acknowledging an introduction to an older man, say, "Pardon my glove," when she shook hands with him. I said it was no longer customary to say that, because gloves are worn so much today.

Am I right? F.

1—Eaten is the past participle of eat, and your sentence was correct.

2—While it is expected that a man remove his glove when he shakes hands, it is not expected that a woman remove her glove when she shakes hands. And since it isn't expected, she does not even mention the fact that she has not removed her glove. In fact, it is provincial of her to say, "Pardon my glove."

Muffs and Bouquets

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

1—Is a small muff matching a bridesmaid's gown superfluous when bouquets are used?

2—Should the muff containing cosmetics and so forth be carried during the reception in the evening? C.

1—The bridesmaids would be over-burdened if they carried both muffs and bouquets. But often small bouquets, either of the tightly-made variety or of the "shower bouquet" variety, are attached to the muffs. But to my taste it is better, in the interest of simplicity, to choose either the muff or the bouquet. It is such a temptation to overdress bridesmaids that one is always pleased to see a group of simply-dressed attendants.

2—If this is what the bride wishes, then it is appropriate.

The Napkin

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it correct for a guest to crush his or her napkin on the plate at the conclusion of the meal, or should it be folded? M.

A napkin . . . even a paper napkin . . . should never be crushed and put on the plate at the end of a meal. This is an unpleasant-looking proceeding, and should not be done. The thing to do is to place your napkin "as is" (although you may fold it if you wish to), at the side of your plate, usually the left side, but that doesn't make any difference.

By JAMES J. LONG

Task to Pick Four Backs. City's Grand Golf Slam. More Sauers for Huskers. Princeton Has Advantage. Overboosting of Rookie. No Error By Imp's Pilot.

WARBURTON RANKS HIGH AS BALL CARRIER

The folly of trying to pick out four backs for all-America honors, and deal fairly and justly with the entire field of eligibles, is apparent when you consider that the season has seen such a galaxy of stars as Danowski, Buckler, Sebastian, Weinstock, Levan, Kaufman, Lassiter, Johnson, Kellet, Montgomery and Borries in the East; Everhardus, Lund, Alfonse, Purvis, Pardonner, Sauer and Berwanger in the Middle West; Grant, Roberts, Key, Feathers, Bryan, Chapman, Cornelius and Howard in the South, and Warburton, Grayson and Wilson in the Far West. And that's mentioning only a comparative few.

Cotton Warburton

But there are some who will have the daring to attempt it, of course, and fans are speculating as to what back will figure in the greatest number of selections. The general opinion is that Cotton Warburton will be found running pretty strongly for top honors. Though weighing only 145 pounds, the Southern California jackrabbit has been one of the greatest scoring forces of the season. When Oregon State stopped Warburton it stopped the Trojan machine. Against other opponents, Cotton was a scourge. He beat California by running 59 yards to a touchdown, scored Southern California's only touchdown against Stanford on a 43-yard dash, broke up the Washington game with runs of 75 and 80 yards, led the massacre of Oregon, and was the main offensive star against Notre Dame, with a 35-yard run featuring his activities. That record for consistent brilliance has not been surpassed this year.

Warburton also is a fine blocker and tackler, and his only weakness, if he has any, is on pass defense, due to his small stature. As has been said often, the line makes the gains and the back just carries the ball, but some ball carriers are better than others, and Warburton would appear to rank 'way up around the top.

PUBLIC LINKS TOURNEY NEW GOLF PRIZE

In stepping out and capturing the 1934 national public links championship tournament for the South Park course, Father Pitt added another big golf prize to his already impressive collection. It is a popular number that will provide a lot of entertainment for the golfing fans of the district and help to keep Pittsburgh in the national eye, and all those who had a hand in landing the event are to be congratulated.

At that, the award as a natural, as Pittsburgh, with the only three-time title winner in Carl Kauffmann, and being the only ctiy to have won the team championship twice in succession, has been more prominent in public links golf than any other place on the map. As far as men's competition is concerned, the landing of this tournament completes a grand slam for Pittsburgh in country-wide golf, as the national amateur, the national open, the P. G. A. and the national inter-collegaite tourneys already have been held here. Only the national women's event remains to be captured to round out the list.

MORE SAUERS COMING UP FOR NEBRASKA

Much to the relief of Nebraska's football opponents, George Sauer, the husky, tireless fullback you saw performing against Pitt at the Stadium November 18, will be graduated next June. But the same family may give Husker foemen more to worry about later, for George has two brothers coming up. Eddie Sauer will be a Nebraska freshman next fall and Bob will be entering high school, planning to enter Nebraska later. Eddie has been a star in prep school football, and Bob shows every promise of following in his footsteps.

YALE NOT WELL PREPARED FOR TIGERS

Inasmuch as Yale concentrated for two weeks on last Saturday's game with Harvard, the Elis may not be overly well prepared for the tangle with Princeton in New Haven at the end of this week. There is a non-scouting agreement between Yale and Princeton, so all that the Blue can know about the Tigers when they meet will be information read in the newspapers and recollections of the attack Fritz Crisler used in last year's encounter.

Fritz Crisler

Against this lack of preparation, as eastern football men figure it, Princeton will have had the benefit of its last two games against Navy and Rutgers. Both the Middies and Rutgers used the same plays that Yale has employed this year, and the demonstration they gave of the Blue offensive must have taught the Tigers considerable about the system they will be up against the coming Saturday. Crisler and his capable assistants ought to have by this time a pretty fair idea of the proper defense to use against the Elis, whereas Yale has not had a chance to learn nearly as much about the Tigers.

TURNER GOES FAR IN BOOSTING OANA

Tom Turner, of the Oakland club in the Pacific Coast League, who sold Prince Oana, fleet-footed Hawaiian outfielder, to the Phillies, says Oana is the best ball player Portland ever sent to the major leagues. In view of the fact that such fairly capable performers as Larry French, Mickey Cochrane, Rube Walberg, Frank Higgins, Lu Blue, Chalmer Cissell and others came from Portland, there is a suspicion that Turner may be making it a bit too strong.

WOULD HAVE ORDERED IMP COUNTED OUT

Harry Lenny, who manages Ray Impellittiere, is accused of having pulled a costly boner for the sake of sportsmanship in failing to take his fighter out of the ring immediately after Referee Pete Hartley stopped the Loughran bout in the sixth round and before the Boxing Commission ordered the contest resumed three minutes later. Some of the critics say that if the Imp had exercised his rights and left the ring at once, there could have been no resumption, the referee's ruling would have stood, and Lenny's giant would have been credited with a victory over Loughran by a technical knockout. They paint a picture of how quickly a wily manager like Joe Jacobs would have hustled his boxer away from the scene under similar circumstances.

Bill Brown

But Commissioner Bill Brown declares that Impellittiere would not have been declared the winner. Asked what would have been done if the Imp had left the ring with Hartley's decision before the fight was ordered resumed, Brown says he would have commanded the big fellow to return. And if Impellittiere had refused to go back, the commissioner says he "would have ordered the Imp counted out, making him the loser by a knockout."

By HARRY KECK
Sports Editor.

Did you ever see a fight so uninterestingly fought that you couldn't for the life of you figure an edge either way in 10 rounds, and even would have hesitated to call it a draw?

That's the sort of thing the Joey Speigal-Jimmy Belmont bout at the Moose Temple last night deteriorated into. It was 10 rounds of mauling without even any cuffing. At the finish, Belmont said he had hurt his right hand in the fifth round and also was bothered by Speigal's southpaw style.

BELMONT WINNER

Both went into the ring with healing eye cuts and both injuries were reopened in the third round, but they did not appear to bother them thereafter. Both fighters bothered the customers, however, but they remained to boo when the referee's decision went to Belmont, while one judge voted the other way. All of this after Speigal recently showed the best form of his career in the same ring against Anson Green, to whom he conceded considerable weight.

Joey Bazzone, of McKeesport, continued his winning streak by beating Jackie Holt, Negro welterweight, of Akron, brother of Billy Holt, in the first 10-round bout. Jackie proved a smart boxer and sharp puncher and got off in the lead, but tired, and Bazzone's ruggedness gave the latter all the better of the last five rounds.

MANCINI BEATS WILSON

Dominic Mancini, North Side welterweight, knocked down Elmer Wilson, East End Negro, for a count of nine in the closing moments of the sixth and final round to win the decision in the best bout of the night. It was Wilson's first defeat and he was steaming along in fine style with a good chance of winning when he fought himself out in a hurricane finish and was battered down.

Tony Di Piero, local light-heavyweight, got a referee's draw with Mike Bazzone, of McKeesport, in the six-round opener, in which he was both fouled and then floored for a count of nine in the second round.

Billy Holt and Anson Green will box a return bout at the Moose next week. Belmont and Bazzone, the two winners in last night's 10-rounders, may meet in the other feature. Johnny Durso will box Johnny Birek and Jack Dalcherone also will be on the card.

Fight Results

At Moose Temple—Jimmy Belmont won referee's decision over Joey Speigal, 10 rounds; Joey Bazzone defeated Jackie Holt, 10 rounds; Dominic Mancini defeated Elmer Wilson, 6 rounds; Tony Di Piero and Mike Bazzone drew (referee's decision), 6 rounds.

JIM MOSCRIPT HONORED

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—The Associated Press' ninth annual all-Pacific Coast football team, presented as the consensus of leading coaches, sport writers and officials, embraces a light, speedy backfield, a 200-pound line and an all 'round collection of stars that makes the 1933 mythical varsity as versatile as any ever named.

Stanford, co-champion of the Conference, placed two men, as did Oregon State and the University of Southern California. Oregon, which tied for the title, Washington, California, University of San Francisco and St. Mary's College, each contributed one pigskin warrior to the first team.

Balloting was the heaviest in the history of the selections with 50 prominent observers in all sections of the Far West voting.

Coach Claude Thornhill's Stanford eleven, which will represent the West in the annual Tournament of Roses classic at Pasadena, New Year's Day, landed its veteran guard, Bill Corbus, and its brilliant sophomore end, Jim Moscript, former Kiski star, on the first all-coast.

Norman Franklin, Oregon State's triple threat halfback, was a near unanimous choice, while his teammate, Adolphe Schwammel, clinched one of the tackle berths. Southern California's banner was borne by the coast's most elusive ball carrier, Irvine Warburton, 147 pounds of speed, who claimed the quarterback position, and Aaron Rosenberg, giant guard. The teams follow:

FIRST TEAM

END—Bill Smith, Washington.
END—Jim Moscript, Stanford.
TACKLE—Adolphe Schwammel, O. S. C.
TACKLE—Lawrence Lutz, California.
GUARD—Bill Corbus, Stanford.
GUARD—Aaron Rosenberg, U. S. C.
CENTER—Larry Seimering, U. S. F.
QUARTERBACK—Irvine Warburton, U. S. C.
HALFBACK—Norman Franklin, O. S. C.
HALFBACK—George Wilson, St. Mary's.
FULLBACK—Mike Mikulak, Oregon.

SECOND TEAM

END—Fred Canrius, St. Mary's.
END—Ford Palmer, U. S. C.
TACKLE—Bob Reynolds, Stanford.
TACKLE—Carl Jorgensen, St. Mary's.
GUARD—Larry Stevens, U. S. C.
GUARD—Ed Gilbert, St. Mary's.
CENTER—Howard Christie, California.
QUARTERBACK—Phil Sarboe, Washington State.
HALFBACK—Arleigh Williams, California.
HALFBACK—Mark Temple, Oregon.
FULLBACK—Bob Grayson, Stanford.

THIRD TEAM

END—Al Norgard, Stanford.
END—Butch Morse, Oregon.
TACKLE—Bill Yezerski, St. Mary's.
TACKLE—Bill Boone, California.
GUARD—Howard Morris, California.
GUARD—Sam Storey, U. C. L. A.
CENTER—Lee Coats, U. C. L. A.
QUARTERBACK—Willis Smith, Idaho.
HALFBACK—Mat Muczynski, Washington.
HALFBACK—Bob Stansberry, Montana.
FULLBACK—Joe Paglia, Santa Clara.

PIRATES SIGN JESS QUATSE

Jess Quatse, former Pitt all-America tackle star, will report to the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National Professional Football League today and will play for the Pirates in the remaining games this season.

President Art Rooney yesterday completed the purchase of Quatse's contract with the Green Bay Packers. Rooney was desirous of securing the services of players who formerly played in this territory, but was turned down by Boston when he attempted to get Cliff Battles, Jim MacMurdo and Rip Collins.

Quatse is due to report for practice with the Pirates at Greenlee Field this afternoon.

White Sox May Get George Earnshaw

That a deal was on between the White Sox and Athletics for Earnshaw was admitted all around, but although some reports said it was closed, officials of the clubs said it wouldn't be definite until the major league meeting in Chicago next month, if then.

Owner J. Louis Comiskey, of the White Sox, said an offer had been made for Earnshaw and that he was waiting to hear from Connie Mack, the Athletic manager and master mind, who sent Earnshaw home toward the latter part of the season for not being in condition, admitted the offer but refused to divulge details.

PREXIES LOSE TWO STARS

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 28.—W. and J. and West Virginia resume one of the district's oldest football rivalries in a Turkey Day conflict at Morgantown Thursday.

The thirty-second meeting between the teams in a series that had its inception back in 1891 finds both boasting about the same sort of records—W. and J. victor twice, defeated five times and tied once. West Virginia victor twice, defeated five times and tied twice.

W. and J. Probably lost two more players in the game with Bucknell last week. Carl Bubenheim, Carrick athlete, suffering a severe leg injury and Doug Malcolm, halfback, hurting his arm and head badly.

Coach Hank Day, of the Presidents, said that he would confine preparation for the game to nothing more than merely charging up and down the field.

The game will be the last for every member of the W. and J. line, with the exception of Al Ercius, end; Headley, Dalrymple, Melenyzer, Massock, John Fife, Bubenheim, Bert Gray, Maury Lieber and Hassock, finish in June. Bob Fife is the only backfield player lost.

Two Teams Tied In Bike Grind

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Two American combinations, Tino Reboli and Dave Lands, and Jimmy Walthour and George Dempsey, were leading the field in Madison Square Garden's fifty-fifth international six-day bike race early today.

The leaders had covered 514 miles 9 laps to hold an advantage of one lap over five others.

Monarchy Suffers Third Cue Defeat

STANDING OF THE PLAYERS

	W.	L.	Pct.		W.	L.	Pct.

Rafferty	1	0	1000	Monarchy	0	3	.000

Ray Mitchell gained a .500 rating in the City Pocket Billiard Championship tournament, under way at the Roosevelt parlors, when he defeated Tony Monarchy last night, 100 to 36, in 15 innings. The defeat was Tony's third in a row, and gave Mitchell a record of one victory and one defeat.

Tonight, Andy Klein and John Hoffner will meet. Klein has won his only match of the tourney.

OAKMONT OPEN

The Oakmont Panthers have Thanksgiving Day open and would like to book a game abroad with a lightweight team. For games call Oakmont 9561 between 4 and 5 o'clock.

Dodgers Compile Great Forward Pass Mark

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Chiefly through the sharpshooting of Benny Friedman, the Brooklyn Dodgers are setting a remarkable forward passing record in the National Professional Football League.

The latest statistics show the Dodgers have completed 65 of their 135 passing attempts for an average of 48 per cent. The Green Bay Packers, where Arnold Herber holds forth, have completed 58 of 156 for an average of 43 per cent.

The Portsmouth Spartans remain the leading ground-gaining team with 2,476 yards in 10 games, or an average of 247 3-5 yards per game. The Chicago Bears rate second with an average of 233 3-5 yards; Brooklyn third with 231⅛ and Boston fourth with 230 6-11.

W. VA. ALUMNI SET FOR SCRAP

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Nov. 28.—With the big showdown between the pro-Stansbury and anti-Stansbury forces of the West Virginia Alumni Association booked for Thursday morning in Morgantown, some Fairmonters who have been prominent in athletics at West Virginia in other years have answered questions as to how they stand on the question.

Brooks Fleming, of the Consolidation Coal Company, who played for the Mountaineers back about 1904, is a staunch supporter of Stansbury.

Brooks Hutchinson, of the Hutchinson Coal Company, who was a West Virginia star some years ago, has not decided how he will vote, if he votes at all.

Frank Ice, an outstanding lineman in the days of Tubby McIntyre's regime, is outspoken in favor of the retention of Stansbury.

M. E. Morgan, former prosecuting attorney of Marion County, and one of those who played for the Mountaineers in that famous game in Little Washington against the Presidents which ended in a riot, believes there should be a general shakeup in the athletic management.

Cool and Barry Win Ring Bouts

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Eddie Cool, Philadelphia lightweight, jabbed out a 10-round decision victory over Frankie Klick, 132, of San Francisco, in the windup bout of a boxing card here last night. In a fast bout, Cool, who scaled at 135, reversed the result of their previous meeting when the Coast boxer came out on top by a similar close margin.

Old Glory Horse Sales On Today

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Two hundred and sixty trotters and pacers go on the auction block in the annual Old Glory sale starting today. The sale has been cut from three to two days because of the small number of offerings.

The Walnut Hall Farm, of Lexington, Ky., will offer a consignment of 95 yearlings to top all owners in the number of offerings. L. B. Sheppahr's Hanover (Pa.) Farm, with 57, stands second.

LOCALS ACCEPT BID FOR FRAY ON DEC. 10

By JESS CARVER

Duquesne University's footballers have two more football games ahead before they'll hang up their togs for the season.

A week ago, the Dukes accepted an invitation to meet the University of Miami in the second annual Festival of Palms at Miami, Fla., on New Year's Day. Last night it was announced that the Bluffites would meet an opponent to be selected later in St. Louis on Sunday, December 10, in a charity game to be sponsored by the St. Louis Boys' Club.

FIRST SUNDAY GAME

By taking part in the St. Louis game, the Dukes thus will become the first Pittsburgh varsity to participate in a Sunday college football game.

Father Charles Maxwell, guiding spirit behind the activities of the St. Louis organization, visited Pittsburgh some weeks ago and conferred with Coach Elmer Layden relative to the Dukes' appearance in the St. Louis charity affair. Layden held the offer in abeyance, and later spiked a rumor that the Dukes had agreed to meet a team of all-stars.

The chances are that the Duquesne opponent will be either St. Louis University or Washington University. The pair clash Thursday.

Coach Layden gave his varsity a workout yesterday, foregoing the usual Monday holiday. The annual Thanksgiving holidays start tomorrow and the squad will be excused from drills until next week.

The Duquesne mentor took occasion yesterday to again deny that he was seeking the head coaching job at Notre Dame. Layden will go to New York for the Army-Notre Dame contest and may listen to offers, if any, while in Gotham.

PITT-TECH DRILL

There was no rest for the weary at either Pitt or Tech yesterday as Coaches Sutherland and Harpster turned on the team as they started final preparations for the city classic in the Pitt Stadium Thanksgiving Day.

The Panthers, strong, almost prohibitive favorites to topple the Tartans, will be able to start a team which will include eight seniors against the Skibos. The coaches and players alike realize that in battling the strong Carnegie line, they'll be stacking up against the most formidable defensive forward wall they've met all fall and will pay corresponding attention to the aerial game.

With passers of the caliber of Howdy O'Dell, Mike Sebastian nd Dick Matesic in the lineup, along with such capable reserves as Leon Shedlosky, Mike Nicksick and Miller Munjas, the Panthers well may cause Tech plenty of grief with their heaving.

TARTANS BATTERED

Tech came out of the game with New York University without suffering any serious injuries, but the players were pretty well battered and bruised by the heavy Violet team. Carnegie too is placing great dependence in its aerial attack, for the Pitt line, powerful enough to keep all opponents save one from scoring, will match that of Carnegie, play for play.

Two Pitt stars were honored yesterday by being tapped to membership in the Omicron Delta Kappa honorary upper class fraternity. The membership in this organization is confined to leaders in athletic, scholastic and non-athletic activities.

Pitt's B eleven meets the Navy B team in the third annual clash with the Sailor reserves at Annapolis on Thursday.

GREENSBURG TURNS DOWN POST-SEASON GAME

CLASS A TITLE AWARDED TO SCOTT HIGH

By JULIUS LEVIN

Arrangements for a post-season football game to determine a class AA W. P. I. A. L. football champion were in somewhat of a muddled condition today following a meeting of the league's football committee at the Fort Pitt Hotel last night.

Three schools, Greensburg, Jeannette and New Castle, are in the running for the title. Greensburg and Jeannette clash in their annual battle on Thursday, and if Jeannette wins, a post-season game then will be arranged with New Castle. If Greensburg wins, then the 1933 race will wind up with the Westmoreland Countians and New Castle sharing the title, for Greensburg frowns on post-season football.

GAME REFUSED

W. S. Ginsbigler, representing Greensburg at last night's confab, stated that his school board opposed the playing of post-season games and that as far as Greensburg was concerned, such a game was "out."

Jeannette, however, through Coach Markley Barnes, agreed to meet New Castle if victorious over Greensburg.

In the event Jeannette defeats or ties Greensburg, the post-season game will be played at the Pitt Stadium December 9.

The committee officially awarded the Class A title to Scott High School, of North Braddock, and ordered East Pittsburgh and Ramsey High School, of Mt. Pleasant, to play for the Class B title at Greensburg December 2.

CO-CHAMPS NAMED

Meeting at Glassport last night, the Junior W. P. I. A. L. declared the Clairton and North Braddock Junior High School elevens to be co-champions for 1933.

Reckoning by the point system, Clairton had a two-point lead over North Braddock, but as the latter defeated Clairton during the season, it was deemed more satisfactory to declare the race a tie. Both will receive championship awards.

H. W. Hardy, vice president of the W. P. I. A. L., presided at the meeting. Andy Gustafson, assistant coach at Pitt, was one of the speakers.

Three schools were admitted to the league and the withdrawal of one accepted. The newcomers are Braddock, Brownsville and Bentleyville. Pitcairn withdrew.

A banquet followed the business session.

Elmer Layden, director of athletics and football coach at Duquesne University, was the principal speaker at the banquet given the Shady Side Academy football and soccer squads last night.

Tarentum High School has announced that it has dropped New Kensington from its 1934 schedule.

Illinois Elects Co-Captains For 1934

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., Nov. 28.—(AP.)—For the first time, the University of Illinois football team will have two captains in 1934.

Balloting last night by 20 lettermen resulted in a tie between Jack Beynon, Rockford, Ill., and Charles Bennis, Lincoln, Ill., and the lettermen then decided to have two captains instead of one.

Both are juniors, Beynon playing quarterback and Bennis a guard.

NRA NO USE TO BASEBALL --HEYDLER

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Baseball men have no objection to flying the Blue Eagle, if it can serve any useful purpose, but one of their principal spokesmen, President John A. Heydler, of the National League, has declared he could see no practical way of applying an N. R. A. code to the game.

Moreover, baseball has the weight of the nation's highest judicial opinion to show it is a sport, not trade or commerce, even though it is also a fact that its leaders now have a lively interest in financial and business recovery, Heydler said:

"I have unswerving faith in the success of the NRA, but I am puzzled to know how any industrial code is going to be applied in a practical way to sport. Writing codes for the steel, building and coal industries is one job, but hardly to be compared with the job of shaping a code for baseball.

"I differ with those who call the game a business or an industry. I invite their attention, further, to the decision of the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, as confirmed by the Supreme Court of the United States. This decision specifically established that baseball is a sport—not trade or commerce."

Heydler's reference was to the decision in connection with the Federal League suit against organized baseball in 1921.

On this basis, Heydler and his major league associates do not feel there is any likelihood of organized baseball becoming involved with the NRA, whether or not the matter is formally put before the annual meetings in Chicago this December.

Tom Dunham and Keller Pollock will lead the Arnold School eleven as co-captains next year. The lads were elected at the annual football banquet last night.

Headmaster Charles W. Wilder, who served in the capacity of toastmaster, announced that the school would deviate from its policy of sponsoring only intramural athletics next year by meeting both Western Reserve Academy, of Ohio, and Columbus Academy.

LOCAL GOLFERS PLEASED WITH TITLE EVENT

By TOM BIRKS

Local golfers today are agog over the awarding of the 1934 National Public Links golf championship to Pittsburgh.

The tourney will be played over the South Park links, with a possibility that the North Park course will be used in the qualifying round.

The National body, urged by letters from Mayor John S. Herron, the County Commissioners and the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, aided and abetted by J. D. O'Neil, local commissioner of the National public links section, and George Ormiston, secretary of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association, offered two dates. O'Neil, after consulting with Ormiston, set the dates for July 30 to August 4. As the dates clash with the annual Bedford Springs Open, it is likely that Arthur Goss will ask for another date at Bedford.

The allotting of the tourney to Pittsburgh climaxes a two-year drive by William S. Haddock, athletic director of South Park, and O'Neil to bring the event here. Pittsburgh never was considered until the building of North and South County Park courses, as Schenley is not a championship course.

With the awarding of this tourney to Pittsburgh, the city may now boast of four big national men's tourneys. The National Open was at Oakmont in 1925. The National Amateur was played at the same club in 1919 and returned to the famous Hulton layout in 1927 and in 1930 the National Intercollegiate tournament was played here.

Pittsburgh has played a great part in public links golf. Carl Kauffman, of Schenley, won the title three times, in 1927, '28 and '29, setting a record that may not be equaled soon. And the Schenley star was disqualified on a technicality in 1930 that possibly prevented adding another title to his record.

The South Park course, when finally completed, will have a distance of approximately 6,500 yards. Some changes are being made on the No. 9 hole, but these will be finished before the season opens.

At the present time both South and North parks are good tests of golf; the long holes call for two wood shots, and the large greens give players an opportunity to pitch to them.

Canzoneri Agrees To Box Locatelli

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(INS.)—Tony Canzoneri, former lightweight champion, and Cleto Locatelli, champion of Europe, will meet in a 10-round bout here on December 15, it was announced yesterday by Madison Square Garden.

Contracts for the match will be signed today, it was declared.

SAFETY MILEAGE

NON-SKID LIFE INDICATED BY HEIGHT OF BARS FOR VARIOUS ROAD TEMPERATURES

TAKE A TIP FROM GOODYEAR ENGINEERS AND Buy New Tires NOW!

YOU don't need to be an engineer to get the point of the chart shown here.

Let your eye follow the increasing height of the black bars shown above—they represent the increase of non-skid mileage that you get as temperatures go down.

Because you'll have more slippery driving in the next five months than in all the rest of the year

—because tires which get their "breaking in" during wet, cold weather average 30% more total mileage than tires started off new in hot weather months

—because you can buy the best tires Goodyear ever built at prices almost exactly where they were a year ago

—because every tire you buy now helps to keep men at work and bring back good times

it will pay you to look over your tires today and protect yourself from tire troubles and dangerous skidding by putting on new Goodyears now.

ARMY, PRINCETON MAY ACCEPT ROSE BOWL BID

TIGERS, CADETS PREPARE FOR YALE, IRISH

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Princeton and Army close their regular football campaigns on Saturday with their eyes on Yale and Notre Dame respectively, but their ears attentive to a possible bid to the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena New Year's Day.

Sole remaining undefeated and untied major elevens in the East, the Tigers and Cadets both have indicated that any invitation to compete at Pasadena against the Far Western representative, Stanford, would receive serious consideration. Both likewise intimated they would prefer to wait until after Saturday to even think about a trip to the Pacific Coast, assuming either is invited.

Maj. L. D. Worsham, graduate manager of athletics at West Point, said:

"After Notre Dame gets through with us, Stanford may not consider us eligible for the invitation."

YALE O. K. NEEDED

Asa Bushnell, Princeton's graduate manager, pointed out that even should the Tigers get past Yale to finish with a perfect record for the first time since 1922, there still would remain to be waived an agreement with Yale prohibiting post-season games in any sport. This rule was adopted by the two universities in 1926. He said:

"Release from this clause never has been asked. I have no idea what Yale's attitude would be. We have heard nothing from Stanford and could scarcely consider the matter until such an invitation was received."

Stanford players have indicated they would prefer to meet Princeton, Army, Michigan, Duke or Navy in that order.

On the face of records to date neither Army nor Princeton should have any worries about Saturday's games, but the trouble is that the Cadets can no more afford to take anything for granted against Notre Dame than Princeton can against Yale. Both are renewals of traditional rivalries replete with upset after upset.

TIGERS GET DRILL

Despite Yale's rout by Harvard last week, Fritz Crisler sent his Princeton squad through its most strenuous Monday drill of the season yesterday. Two varsity players, Chick Kaufman, fleet sophomore halfback, and John Weller, guard, probably will not be able to play against Yale, but Crisler has all kinds of material to fill out the vacancies.

The Tigers worked mostly on developing a smoother attack and drilled intensively on forward passing, against which Yale's defense was so inadequate last week.

Meanwhile at New Haven, Reg Root planned no changes in the Yale lineup. A slight leg injury kept Capt. Bob Lassiter out of his left halfback post for the ay, but he was expected to return to practice in a day or two.

While Army and Notre Dame were preparing for their twentieth clash in the Yankee Stadium, it was announced here that 74,000 tickets already had been disposed of, within 4,000 of a sellout.

Despite Notre Dame's poor record this year—the Ramblers have been beaten five times—Gar Davidson warned Army's squad that they would have to be at their best to win.

Mercer Is Added To W.-J. Grid Card

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 28.—W. & J. College today announced that Mercer University, of Macon, Ga., has been scheduled for a football game at Macon, November 3, 1934, virtually completing the Presidents' card for next year.

Only one date remains open, November 17, and several institutions are negotiating for it. Xavier University, met this year, probably will be chosen.

The Mercer game will take the Presidents farther South than they ever have gone in their 44 previous campaigns. W. & J. followers look with favor upon this match, both because the Georgia institution is of near the same enrollment as Wash-Jeff and because it is playing high-caliber ball in the best circles. The schedule as it now stands:

September 29—Pitt, at Pittsburgh.
October 12—Geneva, at Beaver Falls.
October 19—Detroit, at Detroit.
October 27—Waynesburg, at Washington.
November 3—Mercer, at Macon, Ga.
November 10—Bucknell, at Washington.
November 17—Xavier, at Cincinnati (tentative).
November 24—Permanently open.
November 29—West Virginia, at Washington.

EXPLANATION OF RIPLEY'S CARTOON OF YESTERDAY: STRANGE TOMB COMPANIONS—In the churchyard of Swithland, Loughborough, Leicestershire, is a strange tomb, half of which is situated on unconsecrated ground. The tomb holds the mortal remains of the ancestor of the Earls of Lanesborough, Sir Joseph Danvers (1686-1753), and that of his favorite dog, from whom he refused to be separated in afterlife. Sir Joseph is in the consecrated part of the grave, while the dog lies without, but master and dog slumber in the same grave alongside each other, as inseparable as they were in life.

Hickey to Confer With Sports Scribes

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Thomas Jefferson Hickey, president of the American Association, today issued invitations to 25 baseball writers at Minneapolis, St. Paul, Milwaukee, Columbus, Louisville, Toledo, Indianapolis and Kansas City to meet with the league's club owners next month and swap ideas on how the circuit can make baseball more attractive to the fans.

The meeting will be held in conjunction with the major league conference here, December 12 to 14, inclusive. Hickey said:

"We have planned just this kind of a meeting for years, but are just getting around to it. We know full well that some of the brightest ideas and plans in baseball have had their origins in the minds of baseball writers. The American Association will foot the bill for the conference, naturally, and we think we will get some fine ideas on promotion out of it, as well as renewing intimate friendships."

CHILLYSAUCE

—By CHILLY DOYLE—

Lawrence (Larry) French, ace of the Pirate sharpshooters, is sheltered safely with his family in his Beverly Hills home, at least until the next earthquake. Larry is hard at work on his new home, and expects to be primed for action when the Buccos swing over the Rockies and into the land of sunshine and baloney.

French's lone regret of the present is that the Pitt Panthers won't be mixed up in the pretty posies that mark Tournament of Roses celebration on New Year's Day. Larry was unofficial host to Paul Reider and his buddies one year ago. He writes:

"Dear Chilly: I hope when you see who this letter is from the surprise isn't too much for you. You surely have a fine football team again this year, haven't you? Have been watching the Panthers closely in the papers and note they have been more decisive in their wins than U. S. C. has been. I would like to see Pitt out here again in the Rose Bowl game, but guess that is an impossibility."

The lively lefthander reflects characteristic optimism when he detours from the grid to the diamond. The pennant bee already is buzzing around Larry in far-off California. Tune is on this:

"Much has happened since the season ended. We have a fine righthand pitcher in Lucas, I believe. Hope that Roettger will be of some help, too. We gave good material so we must have got something in return. I am glad to see Gibby stay. I believe that a manager who finishes second in both years he runs the club deserves consideration. If he has a little help in pitching I believe he will win the pennant next year."

The unemployment problem apparently has no terrors for the pitcher who likes to work out of turn. It is not exactly a wise crack to observe here that it is much better to work out of turn than to speak out of turn. Anyhow, the young man who celebrated his twenty-fifth birthday this month, has quite a start on what should be a grand baseball career. He concludes:

"Have been busy since the season closed. Work every day in the yard from 9 to dark, no foolin'. We are mighty proud our our place. Our boy is fine; he talks like a magpie. Seems to grow overnight. Have had wonderful weather and I go about in shirt sleeves. Just one day of rain since I got back, but the farmers won't brag about that. Went duck hunting the first day of the season. It opened at noon and I had the limit at 2 o'clock. Guess that was a birthday present. Am going quail hunting with Vaughan and Doc Crandall. Saw Brubaker recently; he is now a happily married man. Hope conditions are getting better in Pittsburgh; they surely are here."

Norbert Connelly, of the Schenley Apartments, who sees every big football game in Pittsburgh, writes this column with a suggestion that Jock Sutherland, Elmer Layden and Howard Harpster get up an all-Pittsburgh team of 1933 collegians to play a charity game, for the benefit of the Welfare Fund, with a similarly selected team from some other section—say New York, Chicago or the Pacific Coast.

LOTT SCORED BY TILDEN

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—George M. Lott's declaration that he "never expressed a desire to turn professional and never will" drew today from Big Bill Tilden the flat statement that the Chicago tennis star was willing to forsake the amateur ranks for $1,000 a month, but was turned down.

Tilden asserted Lott sought out the former's business representative, Bill O'Brien, last September 8 in New York for a discussion of professional tennis prospects. At that time, Big Bill added, Lott asked for a contract calling for $1,000 a month for 11 months, but O'Brien replied he was not interested.

From other sources, as late as October 14, Tilden continued, he was advised Lott still was inclined toward professionalism, if he could get a "decent offer." Bill added:

"When I turned professional, in 1931, Lott came to me and discussed the possibility of joining our organization. Apparently he has a short memory. On behalf of O'Brien and Tilden, I may now say we have no interest in being associated with Lott, at any price."

ARIZMENDI READY

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Baby Arizmendi finished his training for the rematch with Eddie Shea, Chicago, here yesterday in good shape and expressed confidence he would be able to again defeat the veteran featherweight in their 10-round bout at the Olympic tonight. A rousing tenth round finish gave the Mexico fighter Referee Jack Dempsey's decision three weeks ago.

BACHMAN RAPS PASS RULES

EAST LANSING, Mich., Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Coach Charles Bachman, of Michigan State College, believes that a change in rules governing forward passing in the scoring zone will level out the advantage defensive elevens are supposed to enjoy under present grid rules.

Bachman's recipe involves a change in the rule which gives the ball to a defensive eleven on the 20-yard line when a forward pass is grounded in the end zone on any but the fourth down.

Bachman also believes that the ball should be brought in 15 yards from the sideline instead of 10 after it has been run out of bounds, to give the team in possession a better chance to get its attack under way.

Three Wolverines On All-Star Team

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Three members of the champion University of Michigan football team, Wistert, tackle; Bernard, center, and Everhardus, star halfback, were named on the All-Western Conference team by the United Press.

Iowa and Minnesota each placed two men on the first eleven, the other positions going to men from Purdue, Ohio State, Northwestern and Indiana. The teams follow:

Dartmouth Paper After Grid Coach

HANOVER, N. H., Nov. 28.—(INS.)—"The Dartmouth," student publication of Dartmouth College, in an editorial today calls for the retirement of Jackson Cannell as football coach, "because Dartmouth could not play confident football next year under Cannell with a morale that has been weakened by the anvil chorus of criticism."

Cannell's contract has another year to run, and only a week ago he announced he would return.

PROGRAMS SET FOR SQUASH LEAGUES

By PAUL G. SULLIVAN

Competition in the Pittsburgh Squash Racquets Association Inter-Club League gets under way on Saturday, December 9, according to announcement from Ben Pope, Keystone Athletic Club professional and moving spirit in the pastime here. Inaugural day festivities will be confined to performers in the Class A Sector, the Class B aspirants breaking from the barrier on Saturday, December 16.

Nine squads are listed for hostilities on the squash circuit, five in the upper division and four in the lower. Establishing a precedent and attesting remarkably to the development of talent under Mentor Pope's expert tutelege, the Keystone A. C. will sponsor two Class A combinations and one Class B array. Other first flight entries will be P. A. A., Pittsburgh Golf Club, and Allegheny Country Club, while remaining contestants in the secondary wheel will be P. A. A., Edgeworth Club and Pittsburgh Golf Club.

Alignments for the respective Keystone squads have yet to be determined, but Champion McCook Reed has transferred from the titled Pittsburgh Golfers to the downtown organization and Ed Seifert and Larry Semans, of Princeton, and Blaxter, of Harvard, are on deck to supplement an already formidable group of Bill Bickel, Charley Fagan, A. W. Schmidt, Herb Lytle and the Kennedys—Chip, Del and T. R.

The class A campaign winds up on February 10, three weeks after the class B terminal. Intra-club championship tourneys will be cared for from February 11 till Femruary 24. The class B city titular event will run from Februray 25 to March 10 and will be followed immediately by the class A city affair from March 11 to March 17. The national championships, in which Pittsburgh will be represented in both the individuals and the team tilting, is billed for Boston on February 10, 11 and 12. An early-season treat for local fans is in process of arrangement, Pope being slated to meet National Professional Champion Johnny Skillman, of the Apawamis Club, Rye, N. Y., on the new K. A. C. gallery court in the best of 25 games, December 8, 9 and 10.

The league schedules:

Oliver Reed, Local Wire Operator, Dies

Oliver S. Reed, one of the most prominent of the sports telegraphers of Pittsburgh during the passed 20 years, died yesterday at his home in McKees Rocks after an illness of five days.

Reed had been a "regular" in the press box at Forbes Field for the past 12 years. He filed a wire for some of the best known of the baseball writers in the National League and helped to send out the last two world series in which the Pirates have taken a part.

Oliver was employed at the local office of the Western Union for the past 23 years. He was born in Punxsutawney. Reed leaves his widow and one son, James.

Negro Grid Teams To Meet Thursday

The Garfield Eagles and the Liberty Scholastics, both composed of former scholastic stars, meet Thursday at Greenlee Field in one of the feature sandlot games of the day.

The contest is the final one of the season for both elevens and will determine the Negro sandlot championship of the city.

JACKIE WILSON WINS

THREE CONSTANT POINTS OF SWING

Some years ago, Kell Greene brought forth the interesting fact that a turning center in a fixed orbit was necessary to create power and that this was best controlled in the golf swing by its constant relationship to three fixed points: the right toe, left toe and a point between the eyes just above the nose.

Connected together the lines make a triangle, as illustrated above, of which the golfer can form a mental image in his own swing. To make these three points constant throughout the swing is essential to insure success.

The feet must maintain their proper stance in regard to the line of flight and the hip pivot and weight shift on the up and downstroke, even though it causes the heels to rise, should not disturb this. As the feet are maintained in this position the other fixed point between the eyes also must remain constant. This means that there can be no sway as the body pivots around and the upper point, undisturbed, will be the same distance from the turf at impact as at the start of the stroke.

Thus there is every chance that the clubhead will come down in its proper arc.

DOUBLE K. O. ENDS BOUT

Both principals were stretched unconscious beside each other on the floor below the ring as Referee George Bothner counted them out slowly and called the contest a draw after 27 minutes and 41 seconds of fast action, in which Zarynoff presented a successful defense against the former Notre Dame star's football blocking.

Savoldi had missed two headlong drives, the Ukranian dropping under them. He caught Zarynoff on a third rush, squeezed him against the ropes, and secured a double arm hold. Face to face they stood as Savoldi turned, placed his back to the ropes and gave a mighty heave.

Zarynoff's heels flew up in the air and he was propelled over the ropes, dragging Savoldi after him. Zarynoff crashed heavily and a deep gash three inches long was cut in his side by a press row chair wrecked by his fall. Savoldi landed beside him.

Buckeyes, Trojans To Meet on Grid

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 28.—(INS.)—Ohio State vs. the University of Southern California!

That is the choice football morsel that was "cooked up" today for Ohio gridiron fans. It will not be served on the football menu, however, until 1937.

Announcement of arrangements for a two-game series with the famed U. S. C. was made here by L. W. St. John, athletic director at Ohio State, following a meeting of the university's athletic board at which a schedule of five games at home and three away was prepared for next year.

The first meeting of the Buckeyes and the West Coast aggregation probably will take place in Ohio Stadium here in 1937, with the Buckeyes repaying the visit by traveling to California in 1938.

Bierman Signs For 1934 Season

MINNEAPOLIS, Nov. 28.—(INS.)—Bernie Bierman, coach of the undefeated University of Minnesota football team, has signed a contract to direct the Gophers in 1934, the athletic department announced.

IRISH CRIPPLED FOR BATTLE WITH ARMY

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Notre Dame's regulars rested yesterday while Coach Hunk Anderson searched through his reserves for replacements to use against the Army Saturday.

Anderson's checkup of the varsity forces brought him little encouragement and considerable woe. Center Tom Gorman, who got out of bed against the advice of his physician to play against Southern California, was back in bed again. Hugh Devore, injured in almost every game in which he has played, suffered a thump on his head Saturday and may not be able to accompany the squad East.

The biggest blow was the loss of Fullback Don Elser, who was declared definitely out of action. Elser suffered a severely wrenched knee.

Anderson had nothing to say about the Southern California disaster, and very little to offer on the Army battle. After excusing the varsity from practice, he turned his attention to the reserves and watched them closely during a two-hour defensive scrimmage.

The regulars were ordered to report today ready for a strenuous workout, and Anderson said work, in spite of the large number of casualties, would be the program until the squad leaves for New York.

SELLOUT ASSURED

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(INS.)—Only 4,000 of the 78,000 seats available in Yankee Stadium for the Army-Notre Dame game Saturday remain unsold, it was announced today.

These 4,000 are expected to be gone long before game time.

Alfred U. Team Wins Harrier Title

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Alfred University, led by its sophomore star, Bernard E. Oldfield, of Buffalo, N. Y., won the sixteenth annual cross-country championships of the Middle Atlantic State Collegiate Athletic Association yesterday by placing five harriers among the first eight finishers.

Alfred regained the crown it held in 1931 and yielded to Manhattan College last year by registering the low score of 23 points. Rutgers was second with 50, Lehigh third with 61, and Lafayette fourth with 87.

STOCK TRADING DULL DESPITE GOLD RISE

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The domestic gold price, sleeping since last Tuesday, was given a nine-cent nudge today, but stocks and staples generally mulled about dull and narrow pathways.

With the lifting of the gold rate to $33.85 an ounce, the British pound and French franc rallied about 10 cents and .13 of a cent respectively, and most metal equities, together with a few specialties, rallied 1 to 3 or more points. Sterling and francs pared their gains later and some of the metals subsided. Other categories were only steady and, in the late afternoon, trading was almost at a standstill. Grains and cotton were fairly firm and silver futures recovered substantially. The bond market, led by United States government securities, turned reactionary.

Shares of United States Smelting were up more than 3 and advances of around a point were recorded by American Smelting, Cerro de Pasco, Dome and McIntyre Porcupine. The volatile Homestake Mining, contrarily, dropped 7. Allied Chemical, Case and Western Union were up 1 to 2. American Telephone, New York Central, Consolidated Gas, National Distillers and some other leaders were a trifle lower. Slight gains were shown by Montgomery Ward, Sears-Roebuck, American Can, Goodyear, Union Pacific, Santa Fe and General Motors. United States Steel was about unchanged.

Although the advance in the gold price was a little disappointing to the recently encouraged stabilizationists, most of them were still holding to the theory that a movement to peg the dollar in terms of pounds and francs would get under way before very long.

R. F. C. RAISES GOLD PRICE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—The government gold price was advanced 9 cents today to $33.85, the first increase since a week ago.

Today's price compares with a London price of $32 on an opening sterling quotation of $5.10 to the pound.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Receipt of news of the United States increased gold price of $33.85 a fine ounce sent the American dollar down in relation to the British pound today to $5.17. The dollar had gained 3 cents from yesterday in the forenoon's trading today. There were more buyers than sellers and the dollar rested at noon at $5.08½ to the pound after touching $5.10½.

It opened at $5.10 to the pound, improved to $5.07½, then declined to the opening price of $5.10, where it rested at the end of the first half-hour's trading.

PARIS, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—The American dollar was strong, closing at 16.67 francs (6 cents to the franc) up 35 centimes.

The dollar closed yesterday at 16.32 francs (6.12 cents) 25 centimes higher than the previous official close of 16.07 (6.21 cents). It opened yesterday at 16.06 francs (6.22 cents).

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—The dollar, in terms of the French gold franc, was valued today at approximately 63.84 cents compared with 64.63 cents yesterday and 67.09 cents a month ago.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—(AP.)—Fresh speculative buying came into the silver market today. Futures climbed a cent or more an ounce while raw metal, which had sagged ¾ cent on Monday, rose a full cent an ounce to 43 cents.

Franklin to Become Wabash President

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Vice President Walter F. Franklin, of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, has been authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to hold the positions of director and president of the Wabash Railway. The commission reserved for further consideration the part of Mr. Franklin's application relating to his occupancy of a position with the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

France Seeks Big Loan From London

LONDON, Nov. 28.—(INS.)—France, seeking a way out of its budget dilemma, is negotiating with the British Treasury for a loan of 40,000,000 pounds sterling, according to the Daily Herald today. The paper stated France has been informed the loan would be granted only on condition the French surtax on British goods is removed.

TIME HELD RIPE TO IMPROVE CAPITAL

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—In the present process of revaluing the dollar, alert corporation executives may find a golden opportunity to improve the capital structure of their companies.

Mr. Rukeyser

The present depression has emphasized anew the importance of not having too large a ratio of fixed debt to equity capital. The financial casualties have been primarily among those with excessive fixed charges.

On the other hand, well financed corporations, rich in cash, have shown remarkable stamina in riding the prolonged economic storms. Many got ready for hard times by refinancing themselves, largely through the sale of additional shares of their own stockholders during the bull cycle which culminated in October, 1929. Some, like the United States Steel Corporation, used the additional equity capital to extinguish their inflexible bond indebtedness. Others stored up the additional funds in new working capital.

OWNERS EXPLOITED

But in the bull market process, corporations in reality exploited their own owners, the stockholders, in order to improve the corporation itself. Companies dealt liberally with the bondholders, most of whom received premiums on issues called for redemption.

Executives, now interested in refinancing, should recognize that that revaluation of the dollar disturbs the relations between debtors and creditors.

The creditor class, including corporate bondholders, are naturally concerned with the possibility that their relative stake may be decreased. Accordingly, they are in a mood for negotiation.

It is not my thought that corporations should take advantage of the monetary uncertainty in order to deal harshly or unjustly with bondholders.

'FOOL'S PARADISE'

As a matter of fact, those who might in a purely selfish way hope for unbridled inflation so they can pay off debts with worthless money are living in a fool's paradise. First, they are envisaging a purely destructive process which would be enormously harmful to the welfare of the country, and ultimately even to themselves. Secondly, even in post-war Germany, where pathological inflation ran its full course, the government intervened to prevent thoroughgoing defrauding of creditors. For example, after inflation, the government reinstated real estate mortgages, which had become worthless, at 25 per cent of their face value in gold.

Accordingly if corporations wish to use the present situations as an opportunity to refinance, they should suggest a voluntary basis on which bondholders might be encouraged to surrender bonds for shares.

The terms of exchange would have to be fair to both groups of security holders in light of present conditions and predictable developments.

THREE STOCKS PAY MORE

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Johns Manville Corporation has resumed quarterly dividends on the 7 per cent preferred stock by declaring a dividend of $1.75 on the 7 per cent preferred covering the last quarter of 1933, payable January 31 to record December 11.

The company also declared two quarterly dividends of $1.75 each on the preferred, representing payments due April 1 and July 1, 1933, both payable December 15 to record December 11.

DETROIT, Nov. 28.—Ford Motor Company, of Canada, Ltd., has resumed dividends with the declaration of a disbursement of $1 on the Class A and Class B stock payable December 21 to record December 4. This is the first payment since June 20, 1931, when 60 cents was disbursed.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—United Carbon Company has declared a quarterly dividend of 40 cents on the common stock, payable January 1 to record December 13. Previously, the company paid 25 cents quarterly.

PEERLESS SUES REDMOND

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—Peerless Corporation, of Richmond, Va., through its attorney, Max D. Steuer, has filed notice of action in law with the clerk of Federal Court against Redmond & Co., and all of its co-partners. There was no complaint filed in the action.

Yesterday Redmond & Co. refused to carry out an underwriting agreement

OBITUARY

Lynch Funeral.

Funeral services for Tillman D. Lynch, 66, former consulting metallurgical engineer at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, were held at his home, 122 Washington street, Edgewood, today. He died yesterday.

Mr. Lynch, who recently retired, was one of the best known metallurgical engineers of the United States, and some years ago was president of the American Society for Steel Treating.

He was born in Harrison County, W. Va., in 1867, and graduated in 1891 from the Virginia University with the degree of civil engineer. Upon graduation he joined the contracting and inspecting engineering firm of G. W. G. Ferris & Co., of Pittsburgh, Chicago and New York. During 1895 to 1897 he had charge of the Chicago office of the firm.

From 1897 to 1899, the period of the Spanish War, he was in the Bureau of Steam Engineering, United States Navy. He was with the Westinghouse company from 1899 continuously until his recent retirement, principally being in charge of manufacturing and metallurgical process.

The Girl Who Won

By MAY CHRISTIE

On the pretext of a "party call," Rhoda had motored over to the Galbraith place next morning and was enjoying a word in the ear of Mrs. Jack Brilling.

"THAT girl to DARE to show her face in this neighborhood!"

"Well, I'll soon put the kybosh on her! I'll go right over and speak to Jinny Judson!"

"So?" Madeleine's small, piggy-looking eyes narrowed to green pin-points. "It was Jinny who sent that designing girl to the office in the first instance."

"And no doubt she's told Jinny a fine tale of how she was abused, and how finally she had to leave, like a little Christian martyr!"

RHODA KINDLES FIRE

"That isn't true. I fired her myself. She was trying to involve Jack. You know how innocent he is, how—how decent!"

She said aloud: "Of course Jack's a perfect gentleman. He behaved splendidly last night—trying to shield her."

"He did? You mean, she's after him again?" The bride's face was black with jealous rage. "But of course THAT's what she came up here for."

Rhoda considered this. She'd better not let the conflagration spread too far, or Tony might denounce her as a mean and spiteful gossip, and defend Nollie against two catty women.

"Oh, I don't think she knew anything about the Galbraith place being in this neighborhood. It was entirely Jinny Judson's idea to bring her here."

"So as to spite ME. I suppose?" Mrs. Jack Brilling's voice rose in crescendo.

"Shush, Madeleine. Someone or other will hear you!"

"I don't care if they do. We've only been married four days, and this—this beast of a girl turns up, to make trouble!"

"She won't if you—if we—act properly. We've GOT to get rid of her."

"So YOU're in it too? What have YOU got against her?"

"Nothing at all, but my sympathy—I mean indignation—on your behalf, dear," said the trouble-maker, deceitfully.

WIDOW INDEPENDENT

There was a brief, supercharged silence.

Both women were thinking rapidly.

What could they do? If only Jinny Judson were on their side, they could soon get rid of the intruder.

But Jinny was independent and eccentric, and if she took a fancy to anybody she was loyal to them.

Jinny was concentrating on her novel this morning. For two hours, Nollie had been taking dictation.

"And it's my belief she intends to put us all in," asserted Madeleine, the bride. "I'll tell the world Jinny has any amount of daring!"

Madeleine began to speak of Tony. She thought him extremely good-looking.

BRIDE ANNOYED

She needed stimulus and stimulants, these first trying days of her marriage, she asserted.

Madeleine was annoyed. Did they know—as SHE knew only too well—how long Jack had shilly-shallied?

She wouldn't have had him at the altar yet, if it hadn't been for the row about this Nollie person.

And in the latter event, he would surely have to leave the firm of Galbraith and Company.

He had wasted her time long enough, she said. She wasn't going to be made a fool of by anybody.

Jack had given in, as she had known he would. And their marriage had taken place almost immediately.

But the gilt was off the ginger-bread, and already Jack was acting as though he jibed at the halter.

She drank a cocktail now, and then another. She told the butler to go and find her husband. She had a right to command Jack now, to keep tabs on his comings and goings.

And if she found him straying an inch from the straight and narrow, she would make him suffer.

Synopsis

Nollie Day, stenographer at an exclusive hotel, is befriended by wealthy Mrs. Judson, a widow. Nollie goes to a theater in place of Mrs. Judson, where she meets handsome Tony O'Brien. She reveals her own identity but Tony does not hear her. Next day, Tony telephones and learns Mrs. Judson has gone abroad. Nollie wants to clear her identity, but is unable to get in touch with Tony. Mrs. Judson returns and ask Nollie to become her secretary and visit her ranch. Nollie accompanies Mrs. Judson to a garden party and meets Rhoda Vane. Rhoda seems to dislike Nollie. Nollie and the widow leave for the ranch after inviting Rhoda. Nollie is surprised when she meets Tony near the ranch. Tony is pleased when she tells him she is not Mrs. Judson. Rhoda visits the ranch. She is rude to Nollie, but plainly tries to gain Tony's favor. Tony confesses that he loves Nollie. Jack Brilling and his bride are on a honeymoon near the Judson place. Rhoda and Jack see Nollie and Tony together at Mrs. Judson's place.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

When the brunette gets the peroxide habit and turns blonde, her beauty apple cart is completely upset. Brunette skin coloring is seldom congenial to golden tresses.

The eye shadow should be a delicate film, not a smudge. It is one beauty prop that calls for restraint and economy. Nothing makes a girl look ghastlier than a too generous application of lid pigment. A faint shadow close to the lids, doing a fade-away, not extending beyond the eye corners, imparts a mysterious charm. If it glistens, it makes the eyes look dewy. 'Nuff said.

Green soap, which isn't green and looks like vaseline, is recommended for those gals whose topknots take on an excessive amount of oil. The soap should be dissolved in alcohol. Or you can buy the tincture already prepared by your druggist. Rinse the hair with a bath spray, friction in some of the soap, use the spray again with water as hot as can be comfortably endured. Repeat this process, and then do it a third time. Green soap carries away grease and dust, but it sticks to the hair like all get-out. Can't be removed without a spray and a strong current of water.

After a Painting by Anton von Werner.

In the palace at Versailles, where the victorious Germans dictated peace to France (1871), King William of Prussia was proclaimed German Emperor of the newly created German Empire, largely the work of Bismarck, the "Iron Chancellor." The French Empire fell, giving place to the third republic. Besides suffering the devastation of the war, France had to pay five milliards gold francs and lost also Alsace-Lorraine to Germany, one cause of the recent Great War.

Railroad Riots, 1877—Pittsburgh Union Station on Fire

The U. S. government was anxious to connect the Atlantic and Pacific by railroads. So it encouraged railroad building by granting land, subsidies, timber, etc. Speculation instead of demand created new railroads, resulting in "cut throat" competition and underpayment of employees. These workers rioted. The most serious damage probably was done in Pittsburgh in July, 1877, when rioters destroyed property valued at more than $10,000,000. State militia and federal troops restored order at a price of 50 casualties. The chaotic state of railroads prompted legislative action, but not until 1887 was the "Interstate Commerce Act" passed, attempting to regulate private enterprises affecting community at large. (U. S. History)

Pig iron is produced in the blast furnace from oxide ores reduced by carbon-monoxide; impurities fused with the flux (limestone or sand) to slag are removed through the cinder notch; the molten iron is led out at the metal tap (see Pict. Ed., November 25).

Diagram above shows characteristic process (raw materials, reactions, temperatures, products) in different sections of a blast furnace in proportion to make one long ton (2,240 lbs.) pig iron. This contains 94% Fe, 3.88% C, 1% Si, 0.9% Mn, 0.18% P, 0.3 S. The composition of pig iron varies greatly, depending upon raw materials and furnace conditions. (Chemistry)

Hubert, Arthur in "King John"

After a Painting by William F. Yeames, R. A.

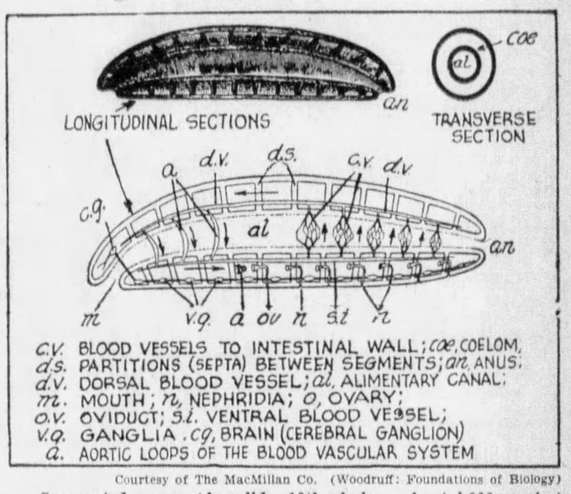
Constance, affectionate mother of Arthur, enlists the help of France and Austria, whose armies are defeated by John. He now orders the murder of Arthur by Hubert, who softens at the last moment, but the frightened child is killed in flight by leaping from the wall of the castle. Resentful lords join the Dauphin's French army against King John who, forced by illness to retire, dies of poison. (English Literature)

Segmented Worms—Earthworm



Courtesy of The MacMillan Co. (Woodruff: Foundations of Biology)

Segmented worms (Annelida, 10th phylum, about 4,000 species) include marine worms, leeches and the familiar earthworm (above). The segmentation of the body is both external and internal. The head region contains the mouth, brain and sense organs. There is a complete alimentary canal, a blood circulatory and ganglionic nervous system. The body has bilateral symmetry (left and right half), characteristic of higher development. Earthworms soften soil with saliva, suck mud into mouth, pass it down their foodtube, absorbing the organic matter. (General Science)

Stay Out of the Far North

First of all, we were dangerous. Our eyes are so bad we couldn't see an illuminated bass drum in a small orchestra.

He took us into the woods and showed us some empty foot-prints of a moose. "Follow them," he said, "until they are filled."

The tracks led north. The guide went south. The moose had a week's start and a wild desire to scratch his back on the North Pole. We trailed until he was toe-dancing over the Rockies. That gave the guide a week's start.

So, it was a successful trip. We didn't waste a cartridge. Damon Runyon brought down a caribou and stopped us from shooting a bear in a hollow tree. Damon said that wasn't A. A. U.

If a bear wants to sleep in a hollow tree on a long lease that ain't our fault. We couldn't have missed. We had the gun stuffed right in his mouth and it was as easy as buttering waffles.

"Wake him up first," said Runyon. "Give him a sporting chance."

Before we woke him up we used some judgment about it. We blindfolded him and tied a cowbell around his neck. Then we prodded him in the ribs. That bear made the cowbell sound like 16 Swiss bell ringers on a spree.

The only time the chase got close was when the immigration officials held us up on the Maine line.

"Why are you leaving Canada so quickly?" the immigration man asked. Then he left with us. When you hear cowbells on a mad bear you know it ain't twilight on the farm.

It was a close shampoo. But it was strictly A. A. U. We got away because the cowbell paged the bear every time he bumped his beezer on a tree. That bear ain't got much to boast about. He came back empty handed.

Runyon is having his caribou stuffed and will present it to the American Academy of Gun, Camera and Lecture Tours. Never try to bring 'em in alive unless they have sore feet.

A Needed School Reform

The League of Women Voters has taken up a worth while cause in championing the elimination of unnecessary school districts.

There are more than a hundred districts in Allegheny County, each with its board of school directors, school solicitor, auditor and tax collector.

This multiplicity of districts may have been desirable in oxcart days, when, because of the slowness of travel, each little community had to take care of its educational requirements more or less independently of the rest of the world.

But there is no excuse for it now, when good roads and motor buses make it possible for a child to go to school from a home five miles distant in less time than it took to walk a mile in the old days.

Mrs. J. O. Miller, of the League of Women Voters, calls attention to the expense of collecting school taxes from these numerous districts under the fee system. It cost $186,939 in one year recently to collect school taxes in the county outside of Pittsburgh; the same year the cost of collecting Pittsburgh's school taxes—a larger sum—was only $37,306. That indicates one of the advantages that would come from consolidation.

Another advantage that could be derived from having the county as the administrative unit, instead of the school district, is that schools in which the educational standards are now low could be raised to a higher level.

While one Allegheny County school district provides a teacher for every 19 pupils and spends $160.95 a year per pupil, another provides only one teacher for 48 pupils and spends only $27.14 a year per pupil.

Sixty-four school districts in the county have no high schools. Two districts — Ben Avon Heights and Kilbuck Township—do not maintain schools of any sort, but send their children to neighboring districts.

The abolition of superfluous governmental units and public officials of all kinds is one of the greatest needs of the day.

Pure Streams Nearer

Progress Is Reported in the Campaign to Prevent Pollution of the Rivers.

The forces that have struggled for many weary years, with little encouragement, to stop industrial contamination of Western Pennsylvania's rivers appear to be on the eve of victory.

The good news comes from Washington that Secretary Ickes, public work administrator, is thinking seriously of allocating $1,000,000 to the Public Health Service to combat stream pollution.

The local office of the United States Bureau of Mines had suggested that $350,000 be appropriated to seal abandoned coal mines, one of the worst sources of pollution. The Pennsylvania Department of Health and the Sanitary Water Board indorsed the proposal so eloquently that the Public Health Service, impressed, not only offered its co-operation but requested that the scope of the work be extended.

There is good reason to believe the plan will go through.

Abatement of industrial stream pollution will save money to the taxpayers of Pittsburgh who are compelled under existing conditions to spend large sums in combating acidity and hardness of the water.

Manufacturers and others whose equipment is damaged by the acid in water from the mine-polluted streams will benefit.

Credit for the progress made must go in large part to the Pittsburgh Chapter of the Izaak Walton League; to Thomas Liggett, chairman of its stream pollution committee; to Ralph L. Smith, chairman of its legislative committee; to Kenneth A. Reid, of Connellsville, a member of the State Fish Commission, and to R. D. Leitch, chemical engineer, of the United States Bureau of Mines.

California's Lynching

Mob Frenzy, Natural Sequel of Shocking Crimes, Carries Lesson, as Governor Declared.

It is impossible to justify lynching. Under whatever circumstances it occurs, it must be viewed as an act of grave social violence.

And yet—the lynching in San Jose of the two human fiends who first kidnaped and promptly murdered young Brooke Hart, and THEN sought the payment from his parents of a large ransom to secure his release and safety, after his lifeless body had already been sunk in the waters of San Francisco Bay, makes out a case for suspension of judgment, if not condonation, which one would have thought could never arise.

The Hearst papers have repeatedly sounded a warning that the crime of kidnaping would arouse the people of the United States to frenzy if it were not immediately put down. No crime is so revolting. None involves so direct and immediate a menace to the home and to the life and security of every man, woman and child.

We have repeatedly given warning to the crime detecting and prosecuting agencies of the country that only the extremest energy in the pursuit and punishment of those guilty of this crime or its attempted commission would avert just what has happened in California.

The incident does not mark the collapse or even the weakness of society. On the contrary it is an impressive social phenomenon carrying, as the Governor of California truthfully says, a lesson.

Americans are tolerant and patient under normal circumstances. They do not expect nor require the impossible of their officials. They know that a certain amount of crime must go unpunished.

But the crime of kidnaping they will not brook. It must stop even if the people are forced to take the law into their own hands.

And in such a challenge to their manhood and humanity, as is implicit in the atrocious act of the kidnaper, their anger knows no bounds. Their instinct of self protection will obey no restraint.

'Do Your Christmas Shopping Early!'

(Copyright, 1933.)

The shops and stores are ready for you, so why delay?

Shop early—shop now, ahead of the throng—while counters and show cases are piled with fresh goods and before all the best bargains are picked up by somebody else.

You will make your own Christmas errands easier if you do this, and you will also make easier the tasks of those who serve you and the rest of the public.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—As a choice entry for a Hall of Wonders, I commend Lisle Bell's roadster. He has driven it 60,000 miles with five sets of tires and few punctures. Whenever there has been a breakdown it has always taken place, with almost human understanding, near a garage.

Bell, a wide bespectacled innocent, with the moon face and ruddy cheeks of a cherub, is serenely ignorant of simplest laws of mechanics. He merely knows how to start, guide and stop. Intricacies he consigns to the gods. Blithely he crosses the continent, tours Canada and invades wild places of the earth.

Not once has his confidence been misplaced. Nothing ever happens—that is nothing beyond hailing distance of a garage. Once three tires decided to go psst! at the precise moment on a lonely stretch of desert. But with a courteous delicacy, for 50 feet ahead was an Arizona filling station! Heigh ho!

Bell not only graces an unique niche in motoring, but in the business of writing. His time is divided between rounding out scholarly book reviews and jazzing up Sunday confession stories for a tabloid. He once sustained himself in Paris two years paragraphing vicariously for American newspapers.

Of all paths of scribbling, I think free lancing the primrosiest. To start a manuscript on a vicarious journey and wait, amid clamorings for overdue rent, for the verdict is one of life's high excitements. Existence swirls into a question mark, every tingle of a bell a prickling premonition. Once I had 14 manuscripts drifting across the latitudes. Thirteen came back, but that one hit—to the old Black Cat magazine—was compensation enough. In what other calling does one victory outweight 13 failures?

Broadway, drooping in doldrums, receives a faint perk in the Palais Royal becoming the Palais Royal again. It was where Paul Whiteman made his Broadway bow and its success established Gil Boag, Gilda Gray's husband, as the night club king.

I cannot feel a bit dashed over Broadway's decadence. The shift is typical of civilization. Each age piles up its ruckle of marvels and abandons them. Fourteenth street, next the 30's were once roaring Rialtos—now without a single legitimate theater. Miracles of yesterday become today's banalities. Life's imperceptible changes are what give it a tang. Imagine reading the same columnists 20 years from now!

Mrs. Don Marquis and her 8-year-old son are, next to Cohan himself, high spots of Mr. George M. Cohan's current play. Mrs. Marquis plays a middle-aged matron, the stage wife of Cohan. A beautiful lady, she gives the Mauve Decade role especial domestic serenity and charm. Her son seems to be his natural self for a jerkin of that age—fighting constantly against early bedtime orders.

Outside Grand Central's subway platform at rush hours, few places are so exciting as the receiving and transmitting rooms of a cable company. I stood where a group of operators, like starlings, were chattering away to London. It was 11:30 a. m. in America and 4:30 p. m. in England. London weary and a bit tea-timish, and New York with the grape fruit dew still on upper lip! In an interval of time that cannot be recorded someone becomes rich, someone goes broke in this swift neuritis of finance. All day the incessant chirp, chirrup and clickety clack. One wonders if some day it will lead to the moon and stars—or go back again to a naked savage trying to spark fire with dry wood. One has a feeling it is going to lead to one thing or other, the way the world is zooming. And in this generation.

Near Cartier's on the avenue I saw a man and maid dressed alike. Save she wore a skirt and he trousers. Otherwise same material, same style of necktie, shoes, hosiery, hat. Affecting indifference, I turned in their wake, whistling aimlessly and gazing into windows. If wives and husbands take it up, I see a lot of push-and-shove necktie scrimmages in the offing.

OUR RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

Hill Ride

Swing up, swing down,
Hills gold, hills brown.
And purple ring us round;
Where glad larks soar
Each field's green floor
Is splashed with joyous sound.

Swing down, swing up,
The valley's cup
Shrinks half before our sight;
The clouds draw near,
New fields appear,
New ascents, new delight!

Swing up, still up,
Drain rapture's cup
As higher yet we fly
Up green hill's breast;
At this next crest
Our hands can touch the sky!

Is Modern Youth a Dim Bulb?

Mr. Henry Kinsley doesn't think much of Modern Youth.

No—H. K. isn't a crusty old grandpa, sighing for "the good old days." To the contrary, Henry is young himself—35 and a very live wire. Also, many of his associates are young. He has a brother, two sisters, several cousins, under 28. All of whom he likes warmly. But—

"Whoever started this Flaming Youth theory?" asks Henry. "In my experience, flaming is about the poorest thing modern youth does. Not that they aren't nice kids. Most of them are. Good-natured; willing enough to work if you give them a chance. But no initiative—no spark. Just dim bulbs.

"Just watch them sometime. They go through life half asleep. If something exciting happens, they're lively enough. But they've got to be what the psychologists call 'motivated.' You hear them boast a lot about 'something doing all the time.' And they're always talking about their speed.

"But that's hooey. They live in a mechanical age, but in themselves they have practically no speed. It always takes something outside themselves to excite them—a party, or an automobile trip, or a new dress. They're never self-starters, like the kids were when I was a boy.

"Right from the start, they lead synthetic lives. Instead of doing things for themselves, they have had everything done for them. We kids dug pirate caves. These youngsters see movie reels of pirates, instead. It was a big event for us if we could snitch a ride on old Jud Haven's delivery wagon. The young people today feel abused if they haven't an automobile of their own.

"Then there's this business of clothes. I don't suppose it makes much difference with boys, but my mother tells me a lot about my sisters and their girl friends. Mother—she's 54—says she used to get a new outfit a couple of times a year, then wear them for second best the next year. But these youngsters keep up a constant yelp for new things. Every week they've got to have something. If a month goes by without a new dress they have a fit.

"In a way, you can't blame them. We're a land of Big Business. You can't have Big Business without big selling. Naturally the kids want whatever's going. If there had been movies and autos when I was a kid, I'd have wanted to go to them, too. If people had made such a fuss about clothes then, I'd have been right there with the fussers. But all that hadn't happened yet. We were on our own. That meant we had to develop initiative if we wanted any fun.

"And of course it also meant we had a lot more rest. I'm sure that a lot of the limpness of this modern generation is due to the fact that they're sort of 'punch-drunk' all the time. From the time they are babies they have one sensation after another hammering on their nerves. They get so they can't be quiet.

"And there's another angle to it. Since people started living in little apartments, there isn't a lot of room for the youngsters at home the way there used to be. So they feel they must go somewhere.

"People wonder why youngsters took to carrying hip flasks these last few years. They think it's because the kids are so 'reckless.' But I think it's just the opposite reason. I believe they do it because they're pepless—so limp they've got to have a starter. Maybe I'm wrong. But I still insist that they're the world's record crop of dim bulbs."

So that's the verdict. Or is it?

Personally, I think it's the hope of the world. I admit that it's getting off to a lame start. But that's OUR fault. We've done just about everything that could be done to the youngsters to cripple 'em. We've mauled their nerves and muddled their ideals. We've set them a rotten example. We've deprived them of almost every healthy challenge and toughening responsibility and hardship which life might hold. And yet—

I BELIEVE IN THE KIDS OF 1933!

That's what I think of Modern Youth. I've been a mother to one of them. I run a column for them; read hundreds of letters from them every day. But—

Maybe you've another, better argument. If so, let's hear it.

MARRY-GO-ROUND

By Helen Rowland

These Modern Lovers

The lover calls it "wheedling;" the husband calls it "nagging"—and then the lawyers step in and diagnose it as "mental cruelty."

Christmas time is the golden opportunity of a man's life, to act in his favorite role of Santa Claus to the Little Woman; yet, somehow, that's always the moment when he seems to get paralysis of the imagination—and can think of nothing more sentimental or original than a handbag or a big check.

* * *

There are no feminine "beauty secrets" to the man who has seen a woman's dressing-table or glanced through the magazine ads. He can tell you everything about a woman—except what shade her hair will be next season.

* * *

An unreliable husband is like an unreliable tooth; the more pain he has caused you and the harder you've tried to hang onto him, the more you realize the emptiness when you've gotten rid of him.

The return of curves gives a woman a chance to be in fashion and at the same time amiable. A starvation diet is hard on the nerves—particularly, the husband's nerves.

* * *

* * *

Many a modern man is so convinced that every woman is just yearning for a little affection, that, if she can't be kissed he thinks she ought to be psychoanalyzed.

* * *

Never be persuaded to marry a man on the strength of another man's recommendation. A "man's man" has his virtues; but those qualities, which one man admires in another are so often the ones which merely bore a woman to tears.

No use fighting to hold a man's love—because love was never held with a machine-gun or a grappling-hook.

WHY PITTSBURGH IS GREAT
To Your Friends in Other Cities

The Money Battle

Bank Reveals England's Hand in Fight of U. S. People Against International Financiers.

By JULIUS G. BERENS
Financial Editor, New York American

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT now knows that in the pursuance of his monetary policy he is in open conflict with powerful, selfish and intrenched interests, domestic and foreign.

The President realizes he is in a fight to decide whether the international bankers acting on behalf of their foreign allies or the people of the United States shall determine our monetary policy.

If there be any doubt about how the English regard the situation, let the President, let the public, read the following. It is a declaration made by BARCLAY'S BANK, one of England's big five, in commenting on the American policy:

"The only alternative would appear to be for the United Kingdom to continue to pursue the INDEPENDENT currency policy which she has hitherto followed, BUT AT THE SAME TIME TO WORK IN CLOSER COLLABORATION WITH THE GOLD STANDARD COUNTRIES."

Now the bank becomes even more frank:

"Steps would have to be taken in conjunction with the other nations whose position was menaced, to offset as far as possible the influence of the American experiment upon world trade and, as the history of the last few years has shown, such steps can be very effective, especially when, as in the case of Great Britain, the country is a large importer of goods from abroad."

ENGLAND IS playing the same old anti-American game which she so successfully developed until we forced its temporary suspension by going off the fixed gold standard.

The franc still is on gold. Anybody who holds or buys francs can demand an equivalent amount in GOLD.

What is England doing, through the Bank of England's exchange equalization fund?

She is BUYING FRANCS.

She thus is SUPPORTING the price of the French franc.

It is similar to the condition which existed when the English fund was BUYING our dollars in order to discourage us from leaving the gold standard.

WHY IS England so solicitous over the franc?

She is interested in manipulating and DEPRESSING her own currency, the POUND, in its GOLD value.

There is no danger in buying French francs (GOLD) because only pounds (paper) is turned over in payment.

There is no danger UNLESS:

FRANCE ABANDONS GOLD!

If this happens the exchange equalization fund would immediately collapse. It would be impossible then to swap paper for gold.

As long as France remains on gold, the funds CANNOT LOSE. The worst it gets is gold for paper.

By supporting the French franc and HOLDING DOWN THE PRICE OF GOLD IN THE SO-CALLED FREE GOLD MARKET OF LONDON, THE BANK OF ENGLAND OFFSETS OUR EFFORT TO MARK UP THE WORLD PRICE OF GOLD.

The pound rate against GOLD, not its rate against the dollar, is the vital factor to the United States.

NOW, WHAT is President Roosevelt to do under the circumstances?

He should BUY and BUY gold in unlimited quantity, not merely BID for it.

He should BUY French francs and convert them into gold.

He should pursue this policy until the French realize how the Bank of England has forced this American action.

If necessary, the price of gold should be bid up—the FRENCH FRANC SHOULD BE BID UP—until it is impossible for France to remain on gold.

When France is forced off the gold standard, the Bank of England's exchange equalization fund will be automatically forced to suspend operations. The only other real gold countries, Holland and Switzerland, would quickly follow France's jump from the gold perch.

With the Bank of England's exchange equalization fund out of business, we can SUCCESSFULLY carry out our gold policy without undue interference by England.

We will then find that our prices will no longer be restrained by the English pressure on gold.

We will then be able to stabilize at the level warranted by AMERICAN requirements.

Roosevelt Facing Test With New Congress

The Majority Difficult to Control

WHEN Congress reconvenes on January 3—five weeks hence—the legislative leadership of the President, as the titular leader of the party in power, will be put to a severe test.

His Republican opponents have begun to organize a minority leadership in both Houses that will subject every Executive recommendation for legislation to a most critical examination.

This means that Mr. Roosevelt must largely depend for the enactment at the next session of his legislative program upon the support of Democratic Senators and Representatives in Congress and upon the co-operation of those Progressive Republicans who "put the cause above renown" and have little respect for party discipline.

The chief danger to the Roosevelt program which will be submitted at the next session of Congress lies in the chaotic condition of the Democratic party in the House. Its majority in that body will be more than 190. This is far too large a majority to be effectively organized except when wisely and strongly led.

There was no such leadership of the House during the extra session which convened immediately after Inauguration Day. The Speaker found himself shorn of most of his power.

ALL through the session Mr. Roosevelt had to rely upon what was left of the organization built up under the speakership of Mr. Garner to enact the Roosevelt measures. The nominal leaders of the House found it difficult to control their majority.

When Congress reconvenes much of the patronage at the disposal of the President will have been distributed. The administration will no longer be "on its honeymoon." The Republican opposition will be organized and functioning. Blocs of special interests will swamp the Capitol with their lobbyists. The situation in the House will imperil the President's legislative program unless a leadership in that body can be raised up.

This means a drawing together in the House of Progressive Representatives under leadership of their own choosing. Their objective will be the maintenance of a majority that believes in the President's recovery program and will fight for its enactment from a sense of conviction instead of from fear of party discipline or lust for political patronage.

Isn't It So?
